

CITY COUNCIL SCORED For Causing Delay in Purchase of New Pump

Supt. Thomas Does Not Mince Matters—In Case of a Water Famine City Council Would Have to Shoulder Responsibility—Other News Items From City Hall

Supt. Thomas of the water department does not understand why the city council delays in the matter of the purchase of a new pump for the Centralville pumping station.

"Every member of the appropriations committee has said that we were badly in need of the pump," said Mr. Thomas, "and I cannot understand why they should continue the delay. The committee in which the water board asked for a new pump went to the city council four months ago and it has not advanced one inch. Nothing definite has been done and the thing is at a standstill. The city council has certainly left itself open to criticism. It may be entirely the fault of the appropriations committee but the city council, as a whole, is responsible for the delay. The committee asked the city solicitor if the city could call for bids before the money for the pump was appropriated. The committee has learned that it will be necessary to first appropriate the money and it is not to the credit of the city council that this matter should be delayed.

"Our machinery at the pumping station is not what it should be and the appropriations committee has said so. I am not without fear of trouble because of our great need of a new pump and if trouble should arise the city council will have to shoulder it. The water board has done its part.

"If there was any virtue to this holding open might excuse it, but it is a losing game all around. The city council should make some statement as to why the purchase of the pump is being delayed. The city is wasting money every day because of the amount of coal that is being burned over and above what would be consumed if we had a new pump. The purchase of the pump isn't anything that will embarrass the taxpayers. The water department will pay both principal and interest and the quicker the pump is installed the quicker it will be paid for. It will pay for itself just as the pump at the boulevard is paying for itself. If there is any reason for common sense in the delay for which the city council is responsible, I can't see it, and my eyesight is fairly good."

Speed of Automobiles

The following opinion, which is self-explanatory, has been given the police board by the city solicitor:

Lowell, Mass., August 5, '10.
Gentlemen:—The enforcement of the laws regulating the use of automobiles on the public highways is unquestionably in the hands of the police department. This being so, I am of the opinion

DISASTROUS FIRE Seven Persons Were Suffocated in New York Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Seven lives were lost early today in a fire which destroyed a three story lodging house in the foreign section of Jamaica, Long Island. The blaze started in a hallway, the only exit, and spread so rapidly that few of the inmates had an opportunity to escape. The lodging house was occupied for the most part by poor workmen employed in the neighborhood. The owner, George Dunbeck, occupied apartments with his family on the ground floor. He and his household escaped.

The dead, five men and two women, were all foreigners. They were asleep at the time and were all suffocated by smoke as they lay in their beds. The property loss will not exceed $1500.

Two persons were injured in escaping from the flames. Stephen Marcus, a farmer, 35 years old, jumped from the window of his room on the third floor and sustained contusions of the brain and internal injuries. B. G. Taggas, a laborer, was badly burned and partially suffocated by smoke. The names of the dead as nearly as they could be ascertained by the coroner are as follows:

Stephen Congreve, 26 years old; Frank Mitko, 19 years old; Lawrence Hess, 28 years old; Stephen Ankeny, 30 years old; Martin Marsoka, 67 years old; Agnes Sinsyto, 27 years old; Nellie Sudeck, 25 years old.

A passerby discovered the fire, turned in the alarm and called a policeman, who found the hallway closed by a wall of flame on his arrival. In the back yard he came upon Dunbeck, dazed, in the midst of his family of six or seven. They had clambered through the narrow windows. Apparently they had not yet given a thought to the lodgers who had been trapped on the upper floors.

"Is everybody out?" asked the policeman.

Dunbeck shook his head. He did not know. He had seen two or three of his lodgers drop to the street from second floor windows and whether all were safe he did not know. There had been fifteen lodgers in the house that night, he thought.

In a few minutes the firemen were on hand, fighting the fire and clearing a path to the upper floors through the gutted building. Their investigation brought to light the seven scorched bodies.

The cause of the fire was not ascertained. The police will investigate to determine whether it was incendiary.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

American and Adams Companies Announce New Schedule

Delivery Extended Practically to All Parts of Lowell as Has Been Done by Manchester & Concord—Extension Brought About by Board of Trade

While the members of the board of trade were discussing the succulent clam and his delightful accompaniments at Mountain Rock yesterday, the managers of the American and Adams Express companies were about town notifying the public through the press that they had decided to extend their delivery limits in Lowell as the result of the persistent and successful effort of this same board of trade.

The cynically inclined may roast the board of trade, now and then, as being a body of words without deeds, but whatever may be said against the board of trade, the fact remains that it has accomplished something of material benefit for all Lowell in getting the express companies.

In its war against the express companies for the extension the board had nothing to say against the Manchester & Concord company, for it has always been the rule of Manager Mahoney to deliver the goods, no matter how great a distance they were to be delivered. Secretary Murphy in his letter to the other companies refers to the Manchester & Concord and shows that while laboring under a handicap, at the same time that company was the only one in Lowell that the board could find no fault with.

After a hearing at which many citizens expressed themselves, Sec. Murphy, acting upon the vote of the board addressed the following letter to the managers of the American and the Adams Express companies:

July 1, 1910.

Dear Sir: The inadequate service for the delivery of express to many sections of the city has been called to the attention of the Lowell board of trade. Complaints have been received from business men and residents of various sections of the city. The complaints were so numerous and the grievances of such a nature that arrangements were made for a public hearing, to which you were invited in order that you might hear the protests of the people outside your delivery limits, and, then knowing the sentiments of the public that you might offer if possible some solution to the difficulty or suggest a remedy for existing conditions.

This hearing was held on June 28, at the board of trade rooms and a report of this meeting is appended.

It appears that your company previous to Jan. 1, 1908, delivered without limit to all parts of the city. Jan. 1, 1908, this service was curtailed to its present limits, probably on account of the business depression of that period. There is no evidence to suggest that this service had been unprofitable during normal times and as the business conditions of the community have long since regained their normal activity it would seem that the re-establishment of this original service has been unreasonably delayed.

It appears there has been considerable development in the outlying sections of our city for several years back and it is estimated that 25 per cent of our total population is now deprived the privilege of express deliveries.

It appears that the Manchester & Concord Express Co., a corporation which although deprived of the privilege of using passenger trains for their express and although only charging a fraction of the rate charged by your company, still find it profitable to maintain free delivery to all sections of the city.

It would seem that a condition of affairs that would give rise to such a general and vigorous protest should be called to the attention of whatever officials of your company are competent to pass on this matter and it would further seem that these officials could give this protest such consideration as would relieve the present unsatisfactory limitations of the service.

It would seem that favorable consideration at this time would quiet a growing discontent and make it unnecessary for the public to seek for another means of redress.

Respectfully submitted,

John H. Murphy,
Secretary.

In a surprisingly short space of time he received answers from Maurice E. Vallant, of the American Express company, and Charles A. Gale, of the Adams Express company.

Yesterday Manager Vallant of the American Express company announced the following schedule of express delivery:

Middlesex street to Wood street; Westford street to Wood street; Princeton street to Wood street, and all cross streets.

Pine street, all; Parker street, all; Stevens street to Chelmsford street; Chelmsford street to Stevens street, and all cross streets.

Gorham street to Seneca avenue; Lawrence street to Woburn street; Billerica street to Arton street, and all cross streets.

Rogers street to Butman road; Berkeley avenue to Berwick street; Boylston street to Herwick street; Andover street to Edgewood street, and all cross streets.

All of Centralville.
Varnum avenue to Dunbar avenue; Mammoth road to end of car line; Moody street to Seventh avenue, and all cross streets.

At the same time the following letter was sent to President Greene by Mr. Gale of the Adams Express company, explaining the extensions of that concern:

Lowell, Aug. 3, 1910.
Mr. Harvey R. Greene, President of the Board of Trade, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in advising you that beginning today that this company will extend its delivery limit as follows: Centralville, to 16th street, including all the belkites; Lakeview avenue to Bachman street; Andover street to Clark road; Rogers street to Butman road; Chelmsford street to the junction of Stevens; Middlesex street to Wood; Gorham street to Quebec; Mammoth road to the end of the car line and all of Moody street; Varnum avenue to Dunbar avenue. This, I believe, covers practically all territory asked for by your petitioners. Respectfully yours,

Charles A. Gale, Agent.

Manager Mahoney of the Manchester and Concord Express company, when seen this morning, said: "We were satisfying our patrons before the board of trade took up the matter and we will continue to do so."

THE ACCIDENT THAT RESULTED IN DEATH OF LOWELL MAN

The Chester (Pa.) Republican has the following account of the accident that resulted in the death of Charles Stott, a former Lowell resident:

Falling from a crane in the erecting shop of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Edystone, at an early hour yesterday morning, Charles Stott, aged 39 years, of 702 East Eighth street was fatally injured. He was admitted to the Crozer hospital, where he died about two hours later. Stott was married and survived by his wife and two children and his mother, Mrs. Emma Stott, who resides at Lowell, Mass. A telegram was sent to her notifying her of her son's death.

How the accident occurred still remains a mystery to the employees of the plant who were working with Stott at the time. The man was a crane operator and at the time of his fatal fall was supposed to be in the cage of his crane. Whether he fell from the cage while leaning out to adjust some part or was outside his cage fixing something, and received an electric shock has not been determined. When he fell, a distance of about thirty-five feet, his body struck a casting.

Other employees in the shop hearing his groans and seeing his unconscious form lying on the shop floor, ran to the office from where a hurry call was sent to the Crozer hospital. The ambulance quickly responded and conveyed him to the institution, where every effort possible was made by Dr. Hatfield, the interne, to save the man's life. Stott's condition was beyond human aid, however. Both legs and arms were broken and two ribs over the heart were fractured, one of them having penetrated the lung.

Mrs. Stott was notified of the accident, and accompanied by Police Officer Hamilton, went to the hospital. When she arrived Stott was conscious and recognized her. When she went to the operating table on which he lay he embraced her, the scene being one of the most pathetic ever witnessed by the doctors and nurses of the hospital.

Stott was a native of Pennsylvania, and had been in Lowell for many years.

APPLES ARE DEAR Counmetakos Was Charged at Rate of $12 a Dozen

Arthur Duchesne, about 31 years of age, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with feloniously assaulting Mrs. Leda Desrosiers, aged 26 years. Duchesne admitted that he and the woman had been very intimate, but denied that he assaulted her. After the testimony in the case had been offered the court found probable cause and held Duchesne under $1000 bonds for his appearance at the next sitting of the grand jury.

Costly Apples

Gelevas Counmetakos is of the opinion that the apple market took a jump skyward this morning for it cost him $12 a dozen for some apples that he stole from the orchard at the guard locks in Upper Broadway. Counmetakos and several other foreigners while passing by the orchard espied some nice apples and immediately decided they would have some. They did not ask permission of Loren M. Fuller, who has charge of the place, but walked into the yard and started throwing stones at the apples.

While they were busily engaged in filling their pockets with the nice juicy fruit Mr. Fuller observed them and soon had Patrolmen Hamilton and Ganley on the scene. Counmetakos failed to notice the approach of the officers and before he knew what had happened he was under arrest. His companions made their escape.

Drunk Offenders

Thomas Duffy, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to three months in jail. Mary Grady who recently returned from the state farm will be returned to that institution.

When the name of Desire Grouleau was called, he was among the missing. He is recuperating at the city farm and will probably not put in an appearance in court until next week.

There were two first offenders who were fined $2 each.

Philippi Released

Frank Philippi who was arrested yesterday morning on suspicion of attempting to bounce a couple of fellow countrymen in this city out of some money, was released this morning as the police had nothing to hold him on. As explained in yesterday's issue of The Sun Philippi was in a strange city without a cent and endeavored to get money enough to take him to Boston where he lives. When released this morning Philippi was told to shake the dust of Lowell from his shoes as quickly as possible or he might find himself in the jail again. The young man remarked that he would go direct to Boston as soon as possible.

PILGRIM FATHERS

Monument to Their Memory Was Dedicated Today

PROVINCETOWN, Aug. 5.—No greater duty ever devolved on Provincetown's two clerics, George Washburn, Ready and Walter Smith than their ringing announcement today of the coming of President Taft and the dedication of the tall granite shaft on Town hill, erected to the memory of the Pilgrim fathers.

Important events through the streets of the town still obtains in several Massachusetts communities like Provincetown and Nantucket and the inhabitants of this part would not feel that they had begun the day right even with so important an event as the coming of the president if it were not proclaimed by the town's human bulletin boards. Provincetown had a good rain bath last night and woke up this morning clear, dustless and considerably refreshed as well as eager for a third big day in its history. The first was Nov. 21, 1620, when the famous compact was signed in the cabin of the Mayflower. The second was the laying of the corner stone of the Pilgrims' monument Aug. 7, 1897, before a large assembly across whose heads and the sand dunes of the cape Pres. Roosevelt shouted a memorable defiance to certain corporate interests.

The tall granite shaft erected in memory of the Pilgrims and begun under the eye of President Roosevelt received its official dedication from President Taft today and once more the narrow streets of this old fishing town were taxed to their limits to hold the crowds.

Last night's storm had cleared the air and today a fine northwest was blowing straight across the bay from Beverly to Cape Cod and, running before the wind, the president's yacht Mayflower came flying across the water to be welcomed by a mighty array of the nation's naval warriors.

Preparations for receiving the crowd and the distinguished guests were completed last night and before the exercises on top of the hill began today the fleet sent ashore a couple of thousand of its sailors who formed along the streets from the wharf where the president landed to the grandstand. The principal act of the dedication of the monument was the unveiling of a bronze tablet over the door facing the harbor on which was the following inscription:

"Given by President Emeritus Charles Elliot of Harvard.

"Nov. 21, 1620, the Mayflower, carrying 102 passengers, men, women and children, cast anchor in this harbor, 67 days from Plymouth, England.

"The same day 11 adult males in the company solemnly covenanted and confirmed themselves together into a 'divine body'.

"This body politic established and maintained on the bleak and barren edge of the wilderness a state without a king or a noble, a church without a bishop or a priest, a democratic commonwealth, the members of which were straightly tied to the care of each other's goods and of the whole by everyone. For the first time in history they illustrated with long suffering devotion and sober resolutions the principles of civic and religious liberty in the practice of a genuine democracy. Therefore the remembrance of them shall be perpetual in the great republic that has inherited their ideals."

The town clock was striking nine when the Mayflower came around the little white beacon at the end of Long Point and passed in between the lines of battleships. Eight of the great war vessels were here to meet the president, the Connecticut, Michigan, Mississippi, Idaho, South Carolina, Louisiana, Kansas and New Hampshire. As the Mayflower headed in the first gun boomed from the flagship Connecticut followed by twenty-one guns from all the ships. The sailors manning the rails of the entire ship's company stood at attention. The Mayflower dropped anchor at the head of the line at 9 o'clock and President Taft immediately went on board the Connecticut where he received the commanding officers of the fleet. Mementos of details of blue-jackets and marines to the number of about two thousand had been sent ashore. They lined the street from the wharf to the base of the monument. The reception on the Connecticut lasted for about half an hour and then the president started for shore.

MRS. TAGGART IN FRANCE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—It developed yesterday through the return to her home here of Miss Rose Rooney, trained nurse, who accompanied the party on the flight abroad nearly five years ago, that Mrs. Francis Taggart, divorced wife of Major, then Captain, F. Taggart, U. S. A., and her two sons, Culver and Robert, are in France, where they have been ever since January of 1906.

It will be recalled that after the sensational divorce trial which stirred military circles the country over, Mrs. Taggart disappeared with her two little sons, only one of whom, Robert, had been awarded to her by the court.

It is not thought that the court can now interfere in the matter, as the sons in dispute between the parents, Culver, the older, has reached the age of 16, when he can choose for himself as to the parent he desires to live with. Each of the sons is heir to $500,000 from the estate of their maternal grandfather, Culver.

FUNERALS

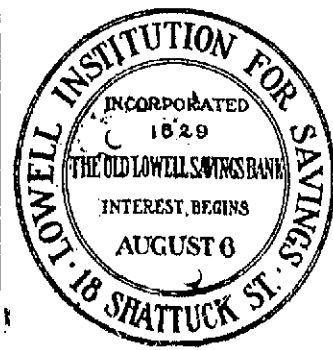

CASEY—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Casey took place yesterday afternoon from her late home, 149 Cushing street, and was largely attended. The bearers were John J. Brosnan, Daniel Sullivan, Patrick Vaughan, Michael Crowe, Daniel Shonah and John Barlow. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, in charge of Undertakers C. H. Molloy & Sons.

CONNELL—The funeral of John P. Connell took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 33 Lamb street. Rev. F. G. Alger, pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church, officiated. The service was singing by a quartet composed of Mrs. A. M. Lorr, Miss G. J. Lohachur, J. B. V. Coburn and Charles A. Richardson. The bearers were J. B. V. Coburn, Charles A. Richardson and Messrs. Howe and Perham. Burial was in Hudson, N. H., in charge of Undertaker C. M. Young.

OLEKSIN—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Oleksin took place yesterday afternoon from the chapel of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons in Market street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery.

Well Known Boston Salesman Found Dead in His Home

MEDFORD, Aug. 5.—With friends close by yet ignorant that their help could save a life, Edward M. Pearce, a well known Boston salesman, died in his own home as much alone as if on a desert island and for several days the fact of his death was unknown. Meanwhile his family in ignorance of the plight of the husband and father have been enjoying themselves at some summer place in Maine and as yet the Medford police have been unable to learn their whereabouts to convey the sad news to them.

The body of the unfortunate man was found stretched upon the kitchen floor of his home last night by the police, who had been called in by a fellow employee of Pearce, who had been sent from Boston to learn the cause of his absence from work. From all appearances the man had died in agony, for his head was bent almost at right angles with the body and against the ceiling above him. As if he had suffered a fall when taken violently ill and had been unable to move. His face was discolored, indicating that he had probably strangled to death unable to rise.

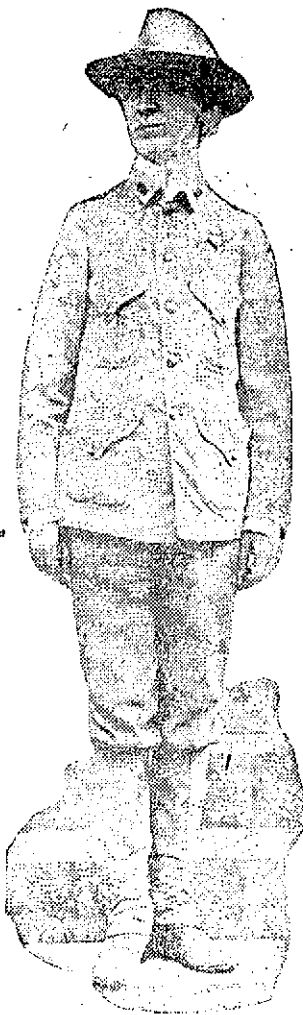

The Pearce family left the unfortunate man in good health some time ago and left for some Maine summer resort as has been their custom. Mr. Pearce was employed as a salesman by Shreve, Crump & Low, jewelers, at 147 Tremont street, Boston. Monday, feeling in ill health, he left his place of work and went home. From that time he had not been seen nor heard from. Fellow employees, knowing that his family were away and fearing that he was seriously ill, sent one of their number to his home last night. Upon arriving at the house the investigator found that the windows were up and that to all appearances some one was inside. There was no response to the ringing of the door bell nor to the pounding on the door, and as inquiry of neighbors revealed that he had not been seen the police were notified.

A patrolman was detailed to investigate above and as if he had suffered a fall when taken violently ill and had been unable to move. His face was discolored, indicating that he had probably strangled to death unable to rise.

SENATOR DICK

Dons the Uniform to Quell Riots

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—The striking car men and the managers of the trolley company having practically agreed to submit their differences to the state board of arbitration, the eldsen soldiers to the number of 1500 have been withdrawn, leaving about that many more yet in the city. When the militia was first called out United States Senator Charles Dick donned his uniform as major general and took command of the troops, much to the surprise of Governor Harmon. As soon as Senator Dick and his soldiers appeared on the Columbus streets the rioters dispersed and quiet reigned.

Steeple Broken Off

The steeple of the First Baptist church was also injured, being partly broken off at its base and left in a leaning and precarious position. The St. Mary's society also suffered some damage, the frame about the parish house being torn from its fastenings and scattered about the neighborhood.

On Oak street several chimneys were blown down, the bricks lying in every direction and in some instances crashing through windows where persons escaped injury by the merest chance. At the residence of former City Marshal James T. O'Sullivan, at the corner of Jackson and Harvard streets, a large tree was blown over and through the parlor window, wrecking the room.

An eight-story block at the corner of Elm and Short streets was unroofed, and the roof was found after the storm crashed in the street 30 yards distant. A skylight was also blown from a house in that neighborhood and was picked up two blocks away.

The majority of the damage was on Valley, Amesbury, Bradford, Haverhill, Oak, Elm, Jackson, Short, Summer, Newbury and Pleasant streets.

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 5.—Western Massachusetts was swept by a series of general thunder storms yesterday, which resulted in serious damage to crops, the burning of several buildings and the shattering of all sorts of chimneys and roofs. From a continuing rain with the clouds, wind for several hours. The rain was especially heavy, and much of the damage was due to this. In North Adams, the clouds hung so low that the city became as dark as night for a time and the people were obliged to be obliged to light up to see their way about.

The first storm was reported was at Southfield, the first across the state line, where a heavy and two large barns, owned by William J. Wright, were used by him and burned to the ground. Mr. Wright owned and was agent of insurance to cover his loss of upward of $5000. In the town of Northampton a barn belonging to Thomas Ahern was burned to the ground, and several other fires were reported in other sections.

GROOM MISSING GAMBLING LOSS SHELTER HOUSES

And the Wedding Was Called Off

BROCKTON, Aug. 5.—George A. Tibbets took out a marriage license at the office of the city clerk July 25, to be married to Miss Elizabeth M. Dalzell, and it was announced that the wedding would take place yesterday afternoon at 5 in St. Edward's church.

Yesterday Miss Dalzell said that the marriage would not take place. She said: "There is nothing more to say, other than I am not to be married to Mr. Tibbets today."

At this place of business, it was said that Tibbets had worked there until Tuesday night and that then he had left without saying a word.

Miss Dalzell was greatly disturbed at the turn of events. When told that it was reported by Tibbets' employer that he had left his work there and presumably gone away she said: "He has not disappeared. He is a gentleman. A great deal of what is being said about him is not true. I don't want to say anything, except that there is to be no marriage this afternoon, and I do not mean that much shall be said."

"Where is he?" "That's my business. As I said I'm satisfied that he is a gentleman."

According to the stories told, Tibbets had been attentive to Miss Trulove Haynes, who said: "He certainly thought that he was engaged to me, but he was not. He probably did take out the license to be married, but that is as far as it went."

Miss Mildred Cousins is also stated to have been extended attention by Tibbets. Mrs. Cousins said: "Tibbets had been coming about a month when I began to hear reports about him which I did not like. Finally I refused him permission to come to the house."

A number of times after that he came, and I sent him out each time. I have not seen him at the house for three months, and I do not think that my daughter has seen him. I do not think that they are married, or has been said. But I could not swear that they are not."

Wife Sues to Recover $40,000

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—A suit to recover $40,000, alleged to have been lost at gambling at a club in Watertown by James V. Dignowity, wealthy broker and former Brookline resident, has been brought by his wife, Mrs. Marion Dignowity, who recently brought divorce proceedings against her husband.

In the suit the defendants are the Frank J. McPeake company, with Frank J. McPeake of Watertown and James F. McPeake as individuals.

Through their attorney, James H. Vanehey, they have filed an answer denying that the money was lost to them.

They declare that Dignowity never lost money through gambling to the company, nor lost it in any established gambling place, and assert that Mrs. Dignowity, on the ground of her charge that her husband had lost large sums at the club, had for some time been trying to collect money from the company.

James V. Dignowity was known as the "rich man of Harvard" when he attended college. He dined with Miss Marion St. Clair Whittemore of Chestnut Hill, who is now suing him for divorce. When he first became acquainted with Miss Whittemore she was attending Wellesley college. She was graduated in June, 1906, and shortly afterward the two eloped. They later obtained forgiveness of the young husband's rich father, James V. Dignowity, Sr., of Philadelphia. The parties to the suit will not discuss the action.

CAR DERAILLED

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—An Orient Light rail car, bound for the North and South stations, was derailed at the corner of Meridian and London streets, East Boston, about 9:30 last night. There was a delay for about one hour before traffic was restored to normal conditions.

Repairs are being made on Meridian street, necessitating the use of one track between London and Paris streets. The car, bound for the North and South stations, and both tracks were blocked. Hundreds of persons were affected by the stoppage.

Committee Met and Discussed Them

The committee on comfort stations met last night and discussed the proposition for a station in Merriam square. Ald. Bryant and Councilman Gargan were appointed a special committee to confer with Supt. Thomas Lees, of the Boston & Northern, relative to the location of a place. They will meet him this evening at 8 o'clock.

Chairman Chapman said he had been over the plans for the shelter houses proposed for the North and South stations with Inspector Dore of the lands and buildings department. He said the plans had been secured from St. Louis, where the shelter houses have been built at a cost of $4000 each. It is proposed to have six shower baths and four closets in each shelter house, and to have a swimming tank in them during the summer. This tank can be converted into a gymnasium by means of a false floor, in the winter time. In order to install swimming pools in the shelter houses it will be necessary to change the St. Louis plans somewhat. The swimming pools would be 48 feet in length and 26 feet in width, with a depth in the center of six feet. The members of the committee will visit the shelter house in Brookline on Thursday of next week, and will also look over the public sanitary in Boston common on the same day. The committee will meet next Friday night.

CINCINNATI'S POPULATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Cincinnati, O., has a population of 361,453, according to the figures enumerated for the 1910 census and made public yesterday by Census Director Durand. This is an increase of 38,561, or 11.8 per cent, as compared with 322,892, the population in 1900.

Other population figures made public yesterday were: Birmingham, 101,338, as compared with 61,600 in 1900, and Birmingham, Tex., 4544, as compared with 5012 in 1900; Hammond, Conn., 6859, as compared with 4626 in 1900.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Heavy earthquake shocks were recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university last night lasting for a period of forty-seven minutes. The shocks began at 8:46 p.m. and continued until 9:33. They consisted of two maximum shocks and a series of lesser disturbances.

Indications were that the center of the disturbance was about 2600 miles from Washington.

ADS HAIR REVIVER

Has a tendency to give gloss, brilliancy, beauty and life to dry, harsh, brittle, unsightly hair. It cleanses the scalp, does away with dandruff, imparts healthy action of the blood to the roots and stimulates growth of the hair.

Men who want to protect their hair, and women who would add to their attractiveness, should try this preparation, which is absolutely safe and harmless, and one of the best made by the great American Druggists' Syndicate of 12,000 reputable druggists. DEFENDS WOMAN

Artist Takes Sides With Qualey and Corbett

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—William Funk, a well known artist, of 119 West 42d street, last night went to the defence of John A. Qualey and Prof. Harvey Wiley Corbett, who are accused by the widow of Dr. W. T. Bull of swindling her out of $35,000 through an investment.

Mr. Funk also spoke in warm defence of Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, who interested herself in the Magnesia-Asbestos company through her friendship for Qualey and his wife, and who, Mrs. Bull says, is primarily responsible for her having invested in the company, inasmuch as it was she who introduced the physician's widow to the promoter.

Mr. Funk, who said he is a friend of all parties concerned, including Mrs. Bull, said last night:

"I have as much money in the Magnesia-Asbestos company as Mrs. Bull has, and I am willing to put in more. My friends also have money in the enterprise and Mrs. Bull is the only one I know who is dissatisfied. The trouble is Mrs. Bull expected dividends within a couple of weeks and when she didn't get them she demanded her money back."

"My money and that of my friends have been in the enterprise for two years. Only two weeks ago I went to Newark and inspected the plant of the company and I was more than pleased. When I came back I called up Qualey and told him I would have more money to invest in the company by October."

When asked what Mrs. Hopkins' connection with the Qualey company was, Mr. Funk said that she became financially interested after he and Corbett had had a chemist report on Qualey's claim that he could produce a fine building material from dolomite stone at a remarkably low cost. He denied that Mrs. Hopkins ever used her influence to get others to invest.

Mr. Funk was indignant when shown the report that some years ago Mrs. Hopkins had promised to aid a young woman to make the acquaintance of prominent persons on condition that she have Mr. Funk paint her portrait and that it cost her $8000.

"The story is ridiculous," said Mr. Funk. "In the first place I was only a struggling young artist then, and who ever gave a beginner $8000 for a painting? Mrs. Hopkins and I have been friends for about 15 years. She took an interest in me, as she has in many other young men and women who showed talent in any line. She has introduced me to many people, some of whom I may have painted, and I have introduced her to my friends."

"I regard Mrs. Hopkins as the most wonderful woman I ever saw. It is an outrage to insinuate that she boosted an enterprise that was not exactly right. I have a cablegram from her saying that she will return from Europe on the first ship."

"To show you the sort of woman Mrs. Hopkins is, it was she who founded the school of applied design for women, which occupies a beautiful home at 30th street and Lexington avenue, and which has 500 pupils. Such men as Elihu Root have served as president, and men like J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have donated money to the school."

Two years ago Mr. Funk painted a portrait of Mrs. Hopkins, which he has exhibited several times. The portrait shows that despite her grayish tinged hair Mrs. Hopkins still retains a youthful face and much of the beauty that made her one of the most admired women in New York.

BULL WILL IN EVIDENCE
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary Nevins Bull, widow of the eminent surgeon, Dr. W. T. Bull, spent an uncomfortable two hours on the witness stand in a small examination room of Harlem police court yesterday afternoon while John F. McIntyre, counsel for John A. Qualey and Prof. H. W. Corbett, sought to break down her assertion that the two prisoners had swindled her out of $35,000 in a stock scheme.

That on one occasion she had sent Qualey a copy of her husband's will was the most interesting development of the examination.

As Mr. McIntyre produced the copy Mrs. Bull cried angrily:

"Do you mean to say that you kept that will?"

"Most assuredly, I did, madam," replied Mr. McIntyre.

Mrs. Bull was on her feet, her veil raised, her eyes blazing.

"Then you are worse than I thought you were," she retorted quickly. The lawyer bowed and the magistrate rapped for order.

Mrs. Bull threw the copy back at Mr. McIntyre and he put it in evidence. Its connection with the case did not develop.

Mrs. Bull will be recalled on Monday.

100 YEARS OLD
MILFORD MAN Celebrates His Anniversary

MILFORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—James Frost celebrated his 100th birthday yesterday at the home of his son, James Frost, Jr., upon their farm about three miles from here. Four generations of his family gathered about him and brought gifts.

The venerable gentleman entered into the spirit of the occasion, and moved about with the alacrity of a young man. He day was a joyous one to him, but he did not omit his everyday exercise with the bucksaw, which he loves to do, as he says "it keeps one's courage up."

Mr. Frost was born in Lubec, Me. He loved the sea, and his father dying when he was quite young, he early shipped before the mast. For more than 70 years he sailed and had many narrow escapes. He became an expert seaman and was one of the best sailors of his time.

For 80 years he has used tobacco, and has never had to call upon a physician except once, and that was for a broken leg. He went through a siege of yellow fever once in the Indies and he doctored himself. He has used liquor in moderation.

Mr. Frost has become totally blind within the past few years, but it has not dampened his spirits. He can find his way easily around the little farm, and in the house and requires little attendance.

He greeted all callers yesterday heartily and declared he "felt as young as he used to be."

Man Charged With Assault and Robbery

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charged with assaulting and robbing William G. Locke of Oxford, Me., who is visiting Boston, and with attempted larceny at the North station, Charles M. Murphy, 25 years old, of Piedmont street, was held in $2000 on the former charge and in $1000 on the latter by Judge Duff in the municipal court yesterday. He was remanded to Charles street jail.

Mr. Locke, who is a middle-aged man, testified that Tuesday night while on Atlantic avenue he was held up and beaten and robbed of his watch, a ring and $20 in money.

A check for a bag which he had left at the North station was also taken from his pocket. Murphy went to the station with the check and took out the bag. When questioned by policemen, who had waited at the station for some one to turn up with the check, Murphy

MAYOR GAYNOR

Gets After the Police Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mayor Gaynor's sudden descent Wednesday on the night court bore fruit yesterday in another characteristic denunciation of police stupidity, venality and brutality. In part, he said:

"Two-thirds of those brought in Wednesday night were stupidly and needlessly arrested, and one or two of them corruptly to extort money, and I understand that proportion is the rule."

"One policeman brought in a boy who threw a rubber ball on the street. Another brought in a boy who danced on a building platform. Another brought in two men who had been quarreling. Their dispute was perfectly harmless. It was only necessary to stop them and tell them to go along. A London policeman would have hardly noticed them."

"Another brought in a man for disrupting in a hall with his sister-in-law. When the man took his number the officer arrested him."

"One officer arrested a cook for stealing a cold chicken. Someone said he stole it. That an officer may not arrest without a warrant for such a crime unless he saw it committed seemed never to have entered his head. He looked too stupid to understand it. There was no evidence of the larceny."

THEIR SERVICES

DOCTORS WILL GIVE THEM FREE AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

The following physicians have volunteered to give their attendance on one day of each week to the playground children: On the North common, Dr. F. R. Brady; South common, Dr. R. C. Stewart; Algon street, Dr. George O. Lavallee; Mr. Wilton, the head supervisor, has a plan under consideration for a physicians' conference with the mothers on each playground once each week. It is also hoped to give talks to the boys on subjects relating to personal hygiene.

Medical inspection for the children is one of the problems that the playground supervisors have been called upon to meet and now that the doctors have volunteered their services the problem is solved.

90 YEARS OLD
ALEXANDER GIBSON, FOUNDER OF TOWN OF MARYSVILLE

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 5.—The most interesting figure in the industrial life of New Brunswick is Mr. Alexander Gibson, who, on August 1st, attained his ninetieth birthday, and is still able to walk about the streets of the town of Marysville, of which he was the founder. Many years ago Mr. Gibson, after having risen from the position of a young day laborer in a sawmill to that of the owner of a mill, disposed of the latter property and removed to the site of the present town of Marysville, on the Naskawak river. The Naskawak is a tributary of the St. John, which it enters near Fredericton. There was an abandoned mill on the property when Mr. Gibson began operations. He bought a large area of timber land, cleared the stream and constructed driving dams, built a sawmill and began to manufacture lumber. As time passed he leased more timber land, built more mills, opened a brickyard, erected a cotton mill and brick tenement houses for workmen, built a large church and presented it to the Methodist denomination, and, in short, established a thriving town on the site of the old abandoned sawmill. He also operated a sawmill at Blackville, on the Miramichi, assisted in building a line of railway to Woodstock in one direction, and to Chatham in another, and became a railway magnate as well as "the lumber king" of New Brunswick.

Mr. Gibson himself took no part in public life, but one of his sons was for a term a member of the parliament of Canada. In Mr. Gibson's later years he met with business reverses, and the immense property went into the hands of a company in which he had a large interest. Recently he retired and the property of the company, which became involved in legal difficulties, will be sold to satisfy the claims of creditors in Canada and England. The cotton mill has already been purchased by the Canadian Colored Cotton company. Both sawmills and cotton mills continue to be operated, and Marysville is still a thriving town—a monument to the foresight and energy of a man who was compelled to earn his own living from his boyhood days, and who produced a property that is today worth some millions of dollars.

KANSAS GELDING SEEKS A FORTUNE EXPLOSION ON BOAT

Has Things All His Own Way Man Was Left on a Train 52 Years Ago Two Men Dead and Several Others Were Badly Injured

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Rather tame racing was furnished by the Grand Circuit horses that performed here yesterday. This was something of a disappointment to another large crowd, as the program had the free-for-all pacers as a headliner.

Canada's crack side-wheeler, The Del, was absent when the roll was called, and neither Darkey Hal nor Allen Wilson was able to give the big Kansas gelding, Giltine, any sort of a battle. Miles in 2:03.7, 2:04.7, disposed of the mare, and it looked to be just a nice jog for the son of Online, who carried most of the money that was wagered on the result.

Giltine drew the pole and did not lose it, a brush at the word giving him a daylight lead before getting into the turn in both heats.

The veteran William ("Knapsack") McCarthy put down two first monies, one with Nancy Rovee in the 2:09 trot, which was conceded to the big black Allerton mare as soon as her entry was made public, and the other fell to Annette R. a daughter of Axel, entirely overlooked in the speculation.

This was in the 2:16 trot, in which Alfonso, the favorite, turned up late and could only go one heat. McCarthy's entry did not show until after the Austrian bred, English-owned Dora, appeared to have the money won by outracing the big field twice in 2:13.7, 2:13.3.

The foreigner blew up going away in the third heat and then Annette came through winning in 2:13.4, 2:13.4.

The 2:15 pace, which was won by Hallie Lee, was a very decided one, with the finish in the 2:07 trot.

The finish of the 2:09 trot started on Wednesday was worth seeing. Ella Ambulator, under one of Murphy's best drivers, just nosed out Walter Hal and Earl Jr. in 2:05.4—a splendid mile, as the wind blew a gale, blasting the horses up the back stretch.

The gray son of Walter Direct out-gamed the mare in the fourth heat, marching the last end in 39 seconds, with no help from his youthful driver.

Yesterday afternoon Trainer Will Andrews, acting for John Hall of Lexington, Ky., sold the three-year-old trotter Eva Langens, 2:16.7, by Peter Goshen, N. Y.

This price paid was $10,000. Glenmore stable is the racing name of Robert Goel and John R. Townsend. The summary:

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Abandoned in a carpet bag fifty-two years ago, when he was but nine days old, Alfred Sommers Molyneux, of No. 665 Grove street, Jersey City, has determined to devote the remaining years of his life to clearing up the mystery of his birth.

Molyneux is the name he got from his adopted parents, Henry and Betsy Molyneux, who took him into their home to replace a son who was born the day he was found, September 10, 1858, and died the next day. Both his adopted parents are now dead. While they lived Molyneux respected their wishes and did not attempt to solve the mystery of his birth. It was not until he was twenty-eight years old that he even knew that he was not their own son.

He was then told how the carpet bag, fitted with air holes, in which he was left to his fate, had been found aboard a train on the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

A man and a woman had boarded the train at Princeton Junction. They occupied separate cars. The man carried the carpet bag. He left the train before it reached Perth Amboy ferry, and the bag was found beneath the seat he had filled. There were no cries from the bag, a sleeping potion having been given the child.

There were some six hundred or more passengers who took the ferry to New York City. Among them was Mrs. King, of Jersey City, who took the baby to her home. The following day Dr. Lusk, her physician, told her of the loss of the Molyneux, and his fear that Mrs. Molyneux would not survive unless she had a child to replace her dead baby.

Molyneux believes that one of his parents was English, and that he was born at Washington. He also has reason to believe that he was heir to considerable wealth.

When he started upon the search for his relatives he learned that when he was between six and seven years old, or just at the close of the Civil war, a tall, dark stranger, who looked very much as he looks now, made inquiries in Jersey City for an abandoned baby. He called upon Dr. Lusk, and the doctor, who had promised Mr. and Mrs. Molyneux that he would never disclose the history of their adopted son, misled him and sent him away without enlightening him. The man said he must find the child or the record of his death in order to settle up a big estate in Washington.

When he was seventeen years old Molyneux was taken before a justice of the peace named Allen, and Mrs. Molyneux had him sign some papers, telling him to be sure to sign his full name, "Alfred Sommers Molyneux." He did not know what the papers contained.

When he was twenty-three years old, Frederick Payne, brother of Mrs. Molyneux, asked him one day to sign two papers, which he said were applications for a position at Washington for a friend. After he had signed Molyneux became suspicious and asked to see the papers. Payne ordered him from the office.

Molyneux attempted to compel Payne, through proceedings in the court of chancery, to disclose the nature of the papers he signed, but because he could not swear that he had suffered properly the effort failed.

For over twenty years Molyneux has been employed by the Lackawanna railroad, and he now holds a responsible position at the shops at Hoboken. He married Anna Elms in 1898.

His six months' shipments of this article during the preceding five years, a loss of over 13 per cent is shown. The shipments during the same period of cured meats, 204,423,490 pounds, show a loss of 20 per cent when compared with the average for the above period. The shipments of canned meats, 23,887,625 pounds in the 5 months of 1910, have not yet reached the record lost since 1905. The 6 months' shipments of lard, 125,738,800 pounds, show a loss of over 30 per cent when compared with the average for the six months' period of the 5 preceding years.

A decline of over 25 per cent is shown in the eastward movement from Kansas City, a loss of 24 per cent. Omaha, a loss of 20 per cent, and St. Louis, a loss of only 5 per cent. The over-all loss in the commercial supply of cattle is less pronounced, the six months' receipts for the present year being about 6 per cent below the average half yearly receipts for the preceding five years. It should be stated, however, that the cattle figures for Omaha and St. Louis include the receipts of calves. Inasmuch as the six months' receipts of calves for the present year at the five markets which report them separately were over 22 per cent larger than the average six months' receipts for the preceding five year period, it follows that the receipts of cattle at the seven leading markets were really lower than stated above, and the losses, as compared with earlier years, correspondingly larger. As compared with the above average, the receipts of sheep at the seven leading markets, 3,820,256 head, show a loss of over 11 per cent. It is noteworthy that the decline in the supply of sheep began after 1906, that of cattle after 1907, and that of hogs after 1908.

Live stock receipts for June at the four principal Atlantic seacoast cities, $19,751 head, were larger than for any other month of the year, though falling short of the June, 1909 and 1908, totals of 865,579 and 920,236 head, respectively. The aggregate live-stock receipts at these four cities for the first half of the year, 3,855,500 head, likewise show a decided decline from the corresponding 1909 and 1908 figures of 4,457,080 and 4,805,694 head. Here also the largest loss is shown in receipts of hogs, while the number of calves marketed shows a substantial increase over the figures of earlier years. The six months' supply of hogs at the four seacoast markets, 1,696,301 head, fell about 20 per cent below the average six months' figures for the preceding five years. The largest receipts of hogs, as in the case of the principal interior markets, are shown for the first six months in 1908. This number of sheep handled at these four markets during the first half of the year, 1,284,245 head, likewise indicate a continuous decline since 1906.

The shipments during June of pack-horse products from Chicago, 176,820,550 pounds, show the largest monthly total for the year, though falling below the June, 1909 and 1908 shipments of 188,655,020 and 204,823,305 pounds. The six months' figures for 1910, 903,953,975 pounds, for the first time during the more recent period fell below a billion pounds, and were almost 20 per cent below the monthly average for the preceding five years. The largest item of shipment for the six months, fresh beef, 416,288,600 pounds, showed a gain of over 60 million pounds over the 1908 figures. As compared, however, with the average for the same period of the preceding five years, the loss was 10 per cent.

The quantity of fresh beef exported fell from 201,154,105 pounds in 1908 to 75,729,604 pounds in the fiscal year just ended. The quantities of hog products exported show even heavier decreases. Thus foreign shipments of bacon which comprised 211,188,323 pounds in 1908 went down to 152,163,107 pounds in 1910; hams and shoulders, and 769,634 pounds in 1908 to 140,885,385 pounds in 1910; fresh, cured and pickled pork from 170,527,127 pounds in 1908 to 45,113,399 pounds in 1910, and lard from 603,413,770 pounds in 1908 to 362,927,571 pounds in 1910.

The stocks of meat at the end of June held in five principal stockyard centers, 197,870,860 pounds, show some increase since January of the present year, though compared with the five-year average for the same date, a decrease of over 26 per cent is shown.

Both General Weyler, the captain-general of Catalonia, and Count Sagasta, the minister of the interior, will go to San Sebastian to be in immediate charge in case of disorder.

NO SPECIAL TRAINS
SINCE the government has ordered the railroad companies not to furnish special trains for the proposed demonstration at San Sebastian Sunday, the Catholic adherents are already commencing to leave for the summer capital upon the ordinary trains. Feeling in the city runs high. The committee which is organizing the demonstration today sent a telegram of protest to the king against the interference of the authorities with the manifestation and also issued a statement urging their followers to refrain from any acts of violence.

Parrot, the Lawrence outfielder, has been released. He was fast in spots.

Where, oh where is Billy Burke? He is the Lynn item. At last accounts he was turning out the finest Egyptian cotton underwear in the world. Try the Lawrence blosier.

Here's hoping Tom Bannon makes good.

Now if the team will take three of the next four games from Lawrence all will be forgiven. They certainly gave the public a punk exhibition Wednesday.

Because Lowell was shown up badly by Worcester Wednesday it doesn't follow by any means that the team is no good. Such is not the case, for Lowell has a good team, only it had an off day Wednesday.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
At Graniteville Wednesday evening, for like the great northwest Graniteville goes in for twilight baseball. The Regulars defeated the Jolly Champs of Lowell by a score of 10 to 4.

Duckworth, Ledwith and Hanson did the battery work for the Regulars, while Holstein and Spinner were in the points for the champs. A return game will be played between these two clubs on next Monday afternoon. Game called at 8 p.m.

The McIntoshes would like to arrange a game with any 17 or 18 year old team for Saturday, Aug. 13. Send all challenges to L. Gerson, 27 Daly street, City.

The Lincolns who have made quite a name for themselves by winning to straight games in the City league will cross bats with the Pelham A. C. on Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon the Palmers and the South Ends meet for a game at 3:30. There is no need of going into details about what happens when two rival teams from the South End get together. Game called at 3 p.m.

The Y. M. C. A. third team will play the O. M. L. Club Juniors at Middlesex Village Saturday afternoon. Players are requested to be at the grounds at 2 o'clock.

Next Saturday afternoon on the Allen street grounds the Dixwells and O. M. L. Clubs of the Lowell and Suburban league will meet in what promises to be a fast game.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Two persons were killed and several injured in the explosion of a steamship on the fishing excursion steamer Satellite as she was proceeding down the harbor yesterday. The injured were landed at once at one of the city hospitals.

The dead are: STEPHEN CALLAHAN, fireman.

ROBERT LAING, fireman. The seriously injured: Michael Bennett.

Several others were slightly soiled. The accident occurred off Castle Island, and as soon as the steam was shut off, Callahan, Laing and Bennett were removed to a tugboat and taken to the hospital on Long Island. Laing died soon after reaching the hospital and Callahan an hour later.

The passengers on the boat were considerably alarmed by the escaping steam for a short time, but there was no panic and they remained on board while the boat was being towed to her wharf. The Satellite was not badly damaged.

THEY MUST GO
PUBLIC DRINKING CUPS TO BE ABOLISHED

Everybody who expects to drink at any public place must carry a pocket drinking cup or go dry after October 1, as the new law of the state goes into operation then, making it an offense punishable with a fine of $25 for cups to be provided at hotels, public parks, streets, public buildings, theatres, railroad stations or ferry boats.

All public drinking places must be of the bubbling style, or discontinued altogether, as far as any cups attached to them are concerned, and notices to that effect are now being sent out by the state board of health, the inspectors of all local boards to be instructed to see that the law is strictly enforced.

This is the result of the agitation for better safeguards for public health and to expedite to prevent the possibility of communicable diseases spreading through contaminated public drinking vessels, which, it has been claimed, have been responsible for many epidemics that could be traced through no other agency.

A dividend of $2 per share will be payable August 15, 1910, by the Tremont & Suffolk mills to stockholders of record at close of business July 5, 1910.

PLANS FOR Y. M. C. A. BUILDING
Plans for the new Y. M. C. A. building have been filed with the inspectors of buildings. The plans were prepared by a Chicago architect.

Mary A. Cullery has been granted a permit to build a three story, three tenement house at 24 by 52. The estimated cost is $5000.

A Sawyer will build a two story, two family house in White street. The house will be 24 by 50 feet and the estimated cost is $3000.

PRISONER WEDS
RELEASE BRINGS CLIMAX TO LONG CONTINUED ROMANCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—What has happened to the mysterious prisoner of Portsmouth since he was released from the prison ship Southern last week has just been made public here. Behind a sordid tale of desertion, forgery, trial and imprisonment there shines a bright story of the romantic attachment of a faithful woman who stuck by her lover in his trouble and who is now his bride.

Three days after Charles S. Lauer was whisked away in an automobile from the prison ship where he had served half of his seven year sentence on four charges, involving desertion and forgery, he was married to Miss Katherine Sevin, a Washington girl, whose love and unflinching trust in the "man of mystery," he said, was his incentive to the "good behavior and excellent service" which resulted in his release. The couple were married on Saturday morning at Rockville, Md.

"I am down here for a rest and to plan our future," said Lauer yesterday at Chesapeake Bay. "We are both happy, and I am sure the day is coming when I shall be exonerated. Mrs. Lauer knows all the circumstances surrounding my conviction, so her love was not blind."

"We became engaged before the unfortunate circumstances, but she never wavered in her trust, knowing full well that time would clear my name. We are both of an age when we would do nothing without full consideration."

Lauer would not discuss in detail the nature of the charges, except to say that the alleged forgery consisted of signing certain checks. He expects ultimately to receive a pardon. He gained the respect and confidence of the naval authorities while in prison.

ESCAPED INJURY
BUT TWO WOMEN WERE BADLY SCARED

A house at 1195 Lawrence street, occupied by Henry Hudson and his family, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon, but the damage done was slight.

The lightning struck the roof of the front part of the house, tore away a number of shingles, then ran down the chimney and blew out a few bricks.

Mrs. Hudson and her mother were in the house at the time, and though they escaped injury they were badly frightened.

MAN ASSAULTED

He is Believed to be a Black Hand Victim

BEVERLY, Aug. 5.—Antonio Callagher, about 35 years of age, is at the Beverly hospital, where he is recovering from a severe cut on the head received while he was doing considerable work in this section.

About 3 yesterday afternoon Callagher, who claims he came from Boston to this city last Tuesday, took a stroll into the woods and while there he was attacked by three men, who he claimed tried to rob him, throwing him to the ground and hitting him over the head with the end of a revolver, after which they cut him in several places with a knife. They made their escape into the woods and have not since been seen.

After the men had made their escape Callagher started out of the woods into Elliott street, bleeding from head and face quite badly and when near the Elliott street railroad crossing he was taken into an automobile driven by William L. Wood, a well known business man of this city, and carried to the police station.

Patrolman Joseph F. Clayton, who was on duty at the station at the time, sent for City Physician David C. Coleman, who dressed the man's wounds and ordered him removed to the hospital, where further examination was made as to the extent of his injuries, which are considered serious. He received a deep cut in the back of the neck, several cuts about the face and a severe cut on the head received with the end of a revolver.

Patrolman Timothy Foley was sent to the scene of the assault and about 200 feet in the woods from Green street was found a pool of blood. An effort was made to try and locate the suspected robbers, but no trace of them could be found. A number of Italian houses were visited by the police along Rantoul, Elliott and Park streets.

Bruce Bright, the 11-year-old son of James Bright of Green street, stated to the police that he was in the woods some distance away from the scene of the assault and heard a shot from a revolver and on his way home passed the place of the accident, discovering a pool of blood, and when he reached the street saw Callagher badly cut about the face and making his way for the center of the city. The police are trying to locate the men.

Only a few months ago some unknown person or persons entered the Italian shanty on the D. N. Lincoln estate at Prides Crossing and robbed the Italians of all of their belongings.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER

Was on Porch to Meet Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—John D. Rockefeller yesterday was served personally with summons to appear in court in the suit for $550,000 damages brought against him and the Standard Oil company at Findlay, O., last week by Thomas B. Kelly and others.

Deputy Sheriff Halloran took the summons to Forest Hill, the Rockefeller home. Gatekeeper Pat Lynch sent the deputy on to the house in a carriage.

Mr. Rockefeller was standing on the front porch when Halloran arrived. He cordially shook the officer by the hand, and asked him into the house.

The carriage was again placed at Halloran's disposal when he made ready to leave. He declined, saying he would rather walk and get a good look about the grounds.

"O, if you want to walk," said Mr. Rockefeller, "go this way. It is much prettier."

He accompanied Halloran a short distance. The petition in the case recites that through its monopoly of the oil business, the Standard Oil company has caused the complainants to lose the amount sued for.

LABOR MARKET

IS REPORTED TO BE NORMAL

As viewed by the state free employment office the labor market is normal for this season. The demand for summer hotel help the past month has been excessive, with only a limited supply available.

A slight decrease is noted in the demand for industrial help. Manufacturers are not taking on many additional employees because of fear of over production.

The demand for stenographers and bookkeepers as substitutes during the vacation months is fairly brisk, with a seasonable supply. There is a decrease in the demand for female factory help.

While a considerable number of building tradesmen are idle, the number is not as large as last year at this time. There is a slightly less demand for machine shop and factory hands.

Statistics for the past month, issued by the bureau last evening, show the number of applications for employment as 1795 men and 900 women, a total of 2695, an increase of 10.40 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

The number of persons applied for by employers was 1122 men and 768 women, a total of 1890, an increase of 30.32 per cent over July, 1909. The number of offers of positions was 3573, an increase of 26.70 per cent, and the number of positions reported filled was 1371, an increase of 18.25 per cent over the same month a year ago.

It was announced also in the same dispatch that the question of an international celebration of the opening of the Panama canal had been left to the governing board of the bureau of American republics, composed of the diplomatic representatives of the various South and Central American countries and presided over by the secretary of state.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

I Continue Today and Tomorrow My Remarkable Mid-Summer Clearing Offer

The enthusiastic response to my announcement in last Wednesday's Citizen dumfounded me. I expected business—big business—because the extraordinary values and prices demanded nothing less—and to say that my expectations were realized doesn't do justice. I am overwhelmed.

From all over Lowell and suburbs men have called to see these goods. I have yet to meet the man who did not admit it to be the finest suit for anything like the price ever offered through regular channels of trade. I have yet to produce an offer that approaches it in popularity.

Get one on my recommendation.

Was Voted to Andrew Carnegie

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Andrew Carnegie was voted a gold medal by the Pan-American congress, now in session in Buenos Ayres, according to a dispatch received yesterday by John Barrett, director of the international bureau of American republics.

The medal was awarded because of Mr. Carnegie's prominence as a "benefactor of humanity," and it will be the joint gift of all the republics of the western hemisphere.

It was announced also in the same dispatch that the question of an international celebration of the opening of the Panama canal had been left to the governing board of the bureau of American republics, composed of the diplomatic representatives of the various South and Central American countries and presided over by the secretary of state.

WANTS $10,000

"LITTLE SUNSHINE POETESS" ALLEGES CRUEL TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Miss Alice Halloran, known as "the little sunshine poetess of America," who has numbered among her friends several ex-presidents of the United States, has filed a damage suit for $10,000 against Clarence L. Gilpin, a young Maryland farmer, charging cruel treatment.

One year ago Wednesday Miss Halloran, according to the papers filed, was visiting her sisters at Sandy Springs, Md. When she refused to leave she says that Gilpin was asked to take her to Washington, and charged that she was forced into a closed carriage and the door tied, in spite of her struggles and screams.

POLICE GUARD

WILL BE PROVIDED FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

SAINT PAUL, Minn., Aug. 5.—When Theodore Roosevelt arrives in Saint Paul on September 8th, to speak to the second national conservation congress, he will be guarded by the police as carefully as he would be if he were still president. Every precaution will be taken to see that he is fully protected from the crowd that will be near him all the time during his stay in the city.

As president, Col. Roosevelt always was under the eyes of at least four secret service men whenever he was surrounded by a crowd. He didn't like the idea of being guarded and used to try to avoid it, but the keen-eyed sleuths stick closely to him and were ever alert for his safety. Now that he is a private citizen, he does not have this body-guard and it fell into the lot of the police of the cities he visits to furnish proper protection.

Following a conference with members of the local committee on arrangements, Chief of Police John J. O'Connor of Saint Paul began working on a plan which, when perfected, will result in Col. Roosevelt being under the care of the guardians of the law from the minute he steps into Saint Paul until the minute he leaves the city. The best men on the city's force will be on hand all the time. They will not be in evidence as they will be in civilian clothes, but it will be their duty to see that there is a clear passage for the former president. These precautions are not taken with any thought of danger of attack on Col. Roosevelt, who is a favorite in Saint Paul, but there are always people in great crowds who want to shake the hand of the former president. There are others who would have a word or two with him on some subject or other. Should he stop ten seconds with each of these, there would be little time left for him to speak and attend the functions planned for him.

Upon his arrival in Saint Paul, Col. Roosevelt will be met at the Union station by Governor Elbert, as many of the governors of other states as have arrived, cabinet members, Gifford Pinchot, the reception committee of the National Conservation congress and the welcoming committee, composed of members of Saint Paul's commercial and civic organizations.

While these dignitaries and organizations will attract attention, the center of interest will be in the original Roosevelt club, a Saint Paul organization which is known all over the country. Every member of the club has promised to be present to welcome the former chief executive and act as his escort wherever he goes.

The plans now made include a visit by Col. Roosevelt to the Minnesota State Fair grounds, where he will make a brief speech. Then he will return to the new Saint Paul hotel, where a suite will have been specially prepared for him. In the afternoon he will deliver the main speech before the congress in the auditorium. After he has delivered his address, Col. Roosevelt will return to the Saint Paul hotel, where, if present plans are carried out, an informal reception will be held. In the evening he will depart for Milwaukee.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Carlisle's Dogtown Pantomime company, including "Tom," the world's greatest talking pony, will furnish the free amusement and sensation at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening next week. They are regarded as one of the most wonderful troupes of performing animals in the country, and their almost human intelligence is the marvel of all who have watched them.

The dogs, to the delight of the children as well as the grownups, will perform remarkable tricks. They imitate human beings. For example, one of the dogs goes out shopping and feels as much perplexity in the duty as any Lowell housewife. Another needs a canine dub and fights with him from a window with all the grace of a charming young actress in one of Mr. Flinn's musical comedies. Still another assumes the role of a policeman and arrests a delinquent brute whom he can identify as a tramp. Dogtown is in fact just like any other town and the stage is set so as to give it a true village appearance. Toward the close of the act musical selections are rendered by the Dogtown quartet, the only dogs in the world playing perfect music on stage.

As the dogs please the children and entertain the older folks, so will the ponies. Chief among the ponies is "Tom," who actually talks. He talks in a language peculiar to ponies and his words cannot be translated directly into English, but there is not the slightest doubt that everyone in the audience will understand every syllable he utters. He has a most intelligent face, and if any pony possesses brains like human beings it is certain he does. Much of the fun in watching the dog-pony drama is in interpreting what Tom says.

The show in Dogtown is all free.

BOY HELPLESS

HE DRANK LIQUOR THAT HE FOUND AT CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Francis P. Mulcahy, 9 years old, son of John Mulcahy of 26 Beacham street, Everett, was found in a helpless condition on Main street, Charlestown, about 6.10 last evening by Patrolman Webb, suffering from the effects of liquor.

The child was carried to the Reiter hospital in the patrol wagon, in which he relieved himself of some of the liquor in his stomach.

For the past two days the boy has been staying with his aunt, Mrs. Julia Donovan of 208 Main street, with whom he was left until the return of his mother from Connecticut, where she went to attend a funeral.

Toys with whom young Mulcahy played yesterday afternoon informed the police that Mulcahy found the liquor in his stomach.

Mrs. Donovan was notified of his condition. She called at the Reiter hospital at 10 last night and took the lad home.

BURIED AT SEA
CAPTAIN ATWOOD WANTED TO BRING WIFE'S BODY HOME

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—After carrying out the dying wishes of his wife that her body be brought to her old home at Cape Cod or sunk in the ocean, Capt. E. H. Atwood of Provincetown arrived here yesterday as a passenger on the steamship Verona from Jamaica. Ruby Foster Atwood, Capt. Atwood's wife, succumbed to heart trouble at Port Antonio on July 26. The body was placed in a hermetically sealed casket, which was secured to the deck of the Verona.

Capt. Atwood had decided to bring the body to be interred in the family lot at Wollfleet. It became necessary, however, to bury the body at sea, and on Aug. 1, when the Verona was in lat. 30 degrees 45 minutes north, lon. 73 degrees 3 minutes west, the sad ceremony of a sea burial took place. The Verona, with her colors half-mast, was hoisted to, Capt. Oxholm read the prayers for the dead.

Cap. Atwood has been stationed at Port Antonio for some time and his wife's death occurred at his home there. She was 67 years of age.

AN EXPERT'S OPINION OF SKIN DISEASES
A prominent national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dandruff, pimples, black heads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. A. W. Dows will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Perhaps you have noticed it, and then again perhaps you have not, but most of the auto accidents happen on the way home. There's a reason.

We notice automobile factories starting up from time to time in various parts of the country. Why can't our board of trade do something towards starting one in the city of Lowell?

Anything which tends to reduce the chances of accidental drownings in our canals and rivers should be worthy of serious consideration. There are several spots, particularly those bordering on our canals, which could be made safer by the expenditure of a small sum for fencing. Why not do it now and not wait until it is too late?

IT'S BOUND TO COME

Owners of real estate have come to the conclusion that either the cost of building material and labor must come down or rents must go up. Meanwhile a vast amount of building that ought to be done in the business and residential sections awaits the settlement of this most important question.

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP

Before you decide to buy an automobile be sure that you can afford to pay for it and also pay for the expense of running it. Many have found to their sorrow that they forgot several important items when they concluded to go into the ranks of the automobilists. If you find it necessary to mortgage your house to get the money to pay for an auto, stop right there. You cannot afford to buy one or to own one or to run one.

COMPOUNDING A FELONY

After every bank robbery or defalcation nowadays we hear hints about compromising the offence with the bank officials. This trick is about played out, and it is time a law was enacted to prevent it altogether. We had a specimen of this sort of compounding when our last great bank robbery was perpetrated in Lowell. Something of the kind was done at that time and no one was punished, although they got away with a good share of the swag. But what is more, if rumors are true, the fellows who made away with the swag from our local bank were not the only ones who soaked the institution, although the second crop of raiders are said to have done their job on strictly legal lines. But let us have no more of these legal or illegal bank robberies without complete criminal proceedings. When the law is violated no one should be permitted to profit in any way by conniving at the escape of the violators.

THE STATE MILITIA

Of late we hear many people poking fun at the militia men who recently went into camp, intimating that they were simply playing soldier. If the time should ever come when a local mob got beyond police control these very people would be the first to cry out, "Where is the militia?" People are very apt to forget that in the final crisis the state militia is the only force that stands between them and the horrors of mob rule. For some reason or other the state militia never receives the consideration to which it is entitled. What would the citizens of this commonwealth do if all our young men should refuse to go into the militia? They would certainly be in a serious predicament. Perhaps they would then have a little more respect for the men who, filled with patriotism, come forward to give their time, their service and if necessary their lives to protect the citizen in his civil rights and to uphold the power and dignity of the state and the majesty of the law. Let us have less scoffing and more respect for the young men of the state militia.

ADVANTAGE OF TECHNICAL TRAINING

No one who has traveled in the old country, particularly in manufacturing districts, can have failed to notice the general distribution of technical knowledge among workmen in nearly every craft. This is especially the case in France and Germany where apprentices in nearly every trade are obliged to have some technical training before they are enrolled as an apprentice. This is a great advantage to any man working at a trade. We have too many workmen in this country who know that by mixing two substances together certain results will follow, but they have not the technical education to know why. The European craftsman understands the chemical properties of every substance he handles and therefore makes fewer mistakes than the average American artisan who trusts to luck, and when he gets into trouble sends for a chemist or scientifically trained man to get him out of his dilemma. Our educators have been gradually awakening to the necessity of technical training in all branches of industry and are establishing schools in various parts of the country to give our young men the necessary training to perfect them in the various crafts to which they aspire. If this system is followed persistently it will not be long before the American in every craft will be superior to his brethren in the old country. Our local textile school is a good illustration of the new policy. A young man graduating from the Lowell Textile school has a great advantage in any of our factories over one who has confined his education to mere observation and practice in the mills. No man can dye cloth successfully without knowing the chemical nature of the dye stuff he handles. No man can spin or weave fabrics of beautiful designs without having some idea of art designing as well as a knowledge of the intricacies of the delicate and complicated mechanism which produces these goods. The old days of guess work are gone by. Everything is done nowadays according to rule and the manufacturer or workman who has the best technical knowledge is the man who is most likely to be successful in producing marketable fabrics as well as the various other products of our wonderfully diversified industries.

SEEN AND HEARD

The east winds hug the earth more closely and gather moisture, dust and bacteria. They are cold and humid, altogether forming an enervating influence on human and animal life and rendering it susceptible to the disease germs which the winds carry and disseminate.

The cool, pure, northwest winds come from a region of dry, highly electrified air where ozone exists in comparatively large quantities. They are invigorating. The framework of nerves in the human being is like a delicate electrical apparatus, the nerves being the wires and the brain and ganglia receiving and distributing centres.

Everyone knows that a telephone works better on a clear, dry day than on a wet, muggy one. The moist atmosphere lessens vitality. The nerve wires grow placid and heavy. The messages become confused. Hence low spirits, melancholia, distorted mental outlook, faulty assimilation, and disease.

The opposite effects flow from the northwest winds. The west and northwest winds keep the nervous membranes of the body in good working order. The coating of moisture which is always present with the east wind disappears. Absence of any wind if long continued has a bad effect on the human body and mind.

A prolonged calm means lack of ventilation on a great scale. The winds served to mix in normal proportions the gases which compose the atmosphere, and in this way they are conducive to health up to a certain point. Beyond about twenty miles an hour their influence begins to be unfavorable.—Chicago Tribune.

PUBLIC OPINION

If we all did as others think we should, Would this old world be better off or worse?

The question is an interesting one. Deserving, maybe, sixteen lines of verse.

If we all did as others think we should—

Alas! all others do not think alike, And if we started out to please them

We very soon would want to go on strike.

If we all did as others think we should—

Let others come to an agreement first.

And then we may consider their ideas. And find, maybe, that ours are not the worst.

Meanwhile, we'd better do as we think best.

And let the others think whatever they please.

The man who aims at pleasing everyone

Will not find life a flowery bed of ease.

WANTS LETTER PUBLISHED

For the Benefit of Women Who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. G. Moran, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we know it is genuine.

REPRIEVE FOR WYNNE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Through a presidential reprieve, announced yesterday, John Wynne, an officer employed on the U. S. S. Rosecrans, at Honolulu, Hawaii, who was sentenced to be hanged on September 5, will not execute the crime of which he was convicted until 90 days after the date fixed for the execution.

Wynne killed Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon, who he imagined was trying to make him lose his position. Wynne was intoxicated and killed the officer with a hammer. The reprieve was granted on the ground that the attorney general could not consider this case, as required by law, before the date first fixed for the execution.

It is estimated that 500 will compete for the grand Chicago handicap on Aug. 31 for which the Chicago Association of Commerce has provided a $200 trophy.

The largest legal fee ever given to a woman attorney was won by Miss Mary E. Miller, a Chicago attorney, when a jury in Judge Gibson's court gave her a verdict for $22,500. The verdict was against the heirs of the late John Ross, former lieutenant governor of Illinois, whom Miss Miller represented in a will litigation. To make her victory all the more complete, Miss Miller conducted her own case, examining witnesses and making her own argument to the jury.

PARK COMMISSION

Opposed to Expenditure of $3000 on Little Canada Playground

The park commission is opposed to the expenditure of $3000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground. This much was brought out at a meeting of the commission held last night. The members of the board wanted it understood that they were not adverse to the improvement of the Little Canada playground but, under present conditions, they did not think it feasible or advisable to spend that amount of money.

The matter was introduced by Chairman Pickman. He said the board did not in any way wish to have it appear that the board wanted to direct the work of the city government. "We constitute a different body," he said, "and this matter of appropriating $3000 does not come before us in any way. However, in view of the fact that the money, once appropriated, must be spent under our direction we feel that we should say something about the place."

Harvey B. Greene said: "Last year the city government voted the sum of $2000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground and park. Of that amount, $1500 was expended and we therefore had a surplus of $500. This we wanted to turn back to the general treasury fund and until tonight we believed that it had been. We find, however, upon consulting the statement relative to the city's finances issued by the city auditor, that the sum of $500 was appropriated this year for the improvement of the Little Canada park.

"We plan to get the street department to dump in dressing during the fall and winter months and thus make a good filling for the place. With the money placed in our hands we can purchase lawn and seed and whatever else is needed and I feel we can put the place in good shape."

Mr. Greene then discussed the matter and the consensus of opinion was that it be deemed inexpedient to purchase the land from the Locke and Canals corporation for the sum of $70,000. The city is a tenant at will of the land, no lease for years having been given by the corporation. If the corporation desired the land, the city, even after the expenditure of $3000 or any other sum of money, would be obliged to vacate it at once, or else purchase.

Chairman Pickman said, relative to this phase of the situation: "We have no assurance that we can hold the land. We would have to step aside, even after spending the money. This expenditure would not be a good business move, and the $500 will not put the place in good condition, as we feel it will at the present time, then no more need be appropriated."

Mr. Parker said that there is at least 15 feet of cinders covering part of the park, while Mr. Hill said it would require at least three feet of loam all over the place in order that anything might grow. The chairman said that it is mighty slow business watching trees grow, and that if some were purchased and set out the corporation might desire the land before the trees had attained any size. It was voted to recommend that the order for $500 be withheld, inasmuch as $500 at the present time is enough to spend on the place.

The order in question has passed the board of aldermen and is now held up in the common council, on a notice of reconsideration.

CONG. FASSETT

MAKES A PLEA FOR BETTER MERCHANT MARINE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Congressman J. Sloot Fassett of Elmira, N. Y., made a plea for a stronger and more efficient American merchant marine in an address here last night. He was speaking before the joint banquet of the Cycle parts and accessories association, the National association of bicycle jobbers, the Motorcycle manufacturers' association and the Bicycle manufacturers' association. Mr. Fassett said in part:

"The best welfare of the present and the future of our country is wrapped up in the restoration of the American merchant marine to something like its former strength and efficiency. Ninety per cent of the markets of the world are reached by salt water. We are the great manufacturing and trading nation. We furnish one-sixth of the over-sea international trade of the world, but we carry less than one-sixth."

"We export and import about $1,000,000,000 worth of goods every year and yet in our ships we carry less than eight per cent of it. In other words, of every $100 worth of trade from America to foreign nations, American ships carry $8 worth."

"The United States, which is richer than Japan and Germany combined, has less than 100,000 tons of shipping engaged in the over-sea trade in first class steamships, and our merchant marine has been steadily dwindling since 1856. The only country in the world that has a smaller merchant marine than ours is China."

"The members of all our political parties agree that the situation is humiliating. Sooner or later we must overcome this handicap. We must use the same weapons our rivals use."

"We are to spend $500,000,000 of good American dollars for the Panama canal, and yet today we have not a single ship to send through it. We expend $50,000,000 a year on harbors and many millions for 40-foot channels, yet we have not a single American ship requiring a 40-foot channel. Isn't it time now, before it is too late, to spend some money for our own business and for the safety and prosperity of our own country and our own children?"

BUSY SEASON

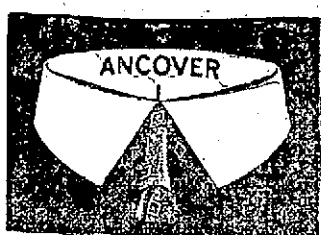

AT THE NAVY YARD IN CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charlestown navy yard workmen learned yesterday that the navy department has authorized that they stay there of the U. S. scout cruiser Albatross and the gunboat Cassin for repairs. The Albatross will be at the yard possibly two months and her turbine engines will be entirely overhauled and other repairs made.

The gunboat Cassin, which was run ashore at Provincetown several weeks ago to prevent her sinking after she had been rammed under water by the submarine Bontia, will remain at the yard during August at least. The puncture in her bottom has been repaired, but it was decided that while the necessary overhauling of her electrical equipment was underway it would be economical to make other changes in electrical appliances.

With the work authorized on the battleships New Jersey and Missouri, in reserve at the yard, the battleship Illinois, which is to be reconstructed and the auxiliaries Ajax and Vestal the prospect for steady employment looks good. The amount of money appropriated to the yard is the only important drawback in the work. Especial economy is being observed in that matter, it is stated.

FORMAL DEMAND

Made for the Extradition of Charlton

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Italy made a formal demand yesterday on the United States for the extradition of Porter Charlton, in jail in Jersey City, charged with the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, at Lake Como. The documents were received at the state department yesterday morning.

Immediately upon their receipt and without opening or examining them, the acting secretary of state returned them to the Italian embassy at Rome, clear by the State's policy instructions that they must be forwarded to the court now having jurisdiction over the prisoner. The papers had been sent to the department by the Italian charge d'affaires.

The secretary of state will pass on the case when the court has rendered its decision. The president is the last reviewing officer and court of last resort. He signs the warrant of arrest, turning the prisoner over to the authorities making the demand for extradition.

The department will honor the requisition of the Italian government unless the court rules that Charlton has insane at the time he committed the crime, according to officials high in the administration. While it was admitted that Charlton may not go back, it was also said that only a verdict of insanity by the court could save him. It will probably be months before the matter is settled.

Now that it is decided that there is really no time limit in which a country can make a demand for extradition, it is believed tonight for the defense, which includes Judge Phil Charlton, the prisoner's father, will prolong the case.

That an attempt will be made to have the report of the five insanity experts who examined Charlton accepted by the court and have the court refuse the extradition on those grounds and then in turn order the prisoner confined in an insane asylum in the belief here. Judge Charlton refuses to comment on the action taken by Italy, but says he will see that his son receives every legal aid possible.

DROPPED DEAD

While on His Way to Give Evidence

CLAREMONT, N. H., Aug. 5.—Public spending by parents took the place of a sentence when a young school boy given two boys in court here yesterday, charged with taking packages of tobacco from the store of Louis A. Bean, a blind man.

The affair was not all comedy, for when Mr. Bean was notified to appear at court to testify against the boys he started on the way from his grocery store at the lower village, got as far as the store occupied by Mr. Bartlett on Main street and dropped dead. It is reported that he was troubled by heart disease and it is thought that the excitement was too much for him.

Wednesday night the boys who stole the tobacco went into the store and added for a cream cake, and when Mr. Bean went for it discovered the theft, the tobacco and slipped over. Mr. Bean recognized their voices and had other Whittier hunt up the case.

Mr. Bean was a native of Fairlee, Conn., and came to Claremont when 25 years of age, beginning life as a tin peddler. He married and had two children, the youngest being 12 years old, and in 1850 he married a third time, having two children from this marriage. He then went to Whittier, N. H., starting a notion store. Then to Charlestown in the same business. He bought a farm, but it was too difficult without his eyesight, so he came back to Claremont 16 years ago, starting the grocery store which he now considers his money. He owned his own home and the store building.

He was happy, for he had often said, "I never lived over the loss of my eyesight, but look at the many other blessings that God has given me, a family, wife and good children."

DRACUT

A well attended meeting of the Young Men's Republican club of Dracut was held Wednesday night at the Hotel company's quarters in the Navy Yard. Ex-Secretary Fred A. Bassett was chosen president of the organization and Hiram E. Lincolnton will act as secretary. The treasurer is Harold Lurvey of Dracut Center.

Arthur M. Colburn, Warren H. Fox and Representative George H. Stevens were appointed a committee to bring in a set of by-laws.

The choice of an executive committee was deferred until the next meeting. Nearly all those present contributed remarks as to the work which the organization had before it and the sentiment was that the organization should be a permanent fixture for accomplishing the success of the party candidates in local as well as state and national elections.

The proposition that the club should hold an outdoor picnic next month met with general favor.

Only Guaranteed Foot Relief

EAZ-ALL ONLY FOOT TABLETS WITH COOLING MENTHOL

Now is the time to take special care of the feet if you wish to avoid suffering from corns or callouses, or aching, burning, swollen feet the rest of the summer, for the July sun brings on foot troubles that will stay all through the hot weather unless treated with Eaz-all, the only mentholated foot tablet, hence its cooling powers.

Nearly everybody wears larger shoes than necessary in hot weather, when the feet swell and hurt. This can all be avoided and the appearance of the feet be greatly improved by small shoes if the feet are given an Eaz-all bath regularly for a week. And the feet will be comfortable and free from stinging, burning and smarting.

Get from your druggist 25c worth of Eaz-all (the only foot remedy sold under guarantee), and the first application will show its wonderful soothing, cooling and healing qualities.

Young Men's Christian Association Building

Sealed proposals will be received at the Young Men's Christian Association Building, Hurd street, Lowell, Mass., until 12 o'clock noon, August 31st, 1910, for the erection of a four-story Young Men's Christian Association building in Lowell.

Plans and instructions to bidders may be secured by contractors at the Young Men's Christian Association Building every week day from 8.30 a. m. to 12.30 p. m. Proposals for constructing the entire building only will be received. Any person desiring to submit to general contractors bids for any portion of the building may obtain the requisite information at the same time and place. Copies of said plans will also be on file at the Builders' Exchange, Lowell, Mass., and at the Master Builders' Association, No. 146 Devonshire street, Boston, Mass.

A LANDSLIDE

On the Erie Road Caused the Loss of Three Lives

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A landslide on the Erie railroad five miles west of here caused the wreck of an eastbound fast freight and the loss of three lives. The dead: JAMES J. BRADLEY, engineer, of Port Jervis; HOWARD E. TAYLOR, fireman, of Port Jervis; GEORGE CARPENTER, brakeman, of Jersey City.

The landslide is believed to have been caused by heavy rain which loosened the hillside and caused large quantities of rock to fall down and block the track. The freight hit the obstruction with a terrific impact and was badly wrecked, eight large refrigerator cars being thrown off the track. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene to clear the road.

A STRANGE MAN REV. SR. URSULE

May Have Murdered Little Girl To Open Large Orphanage in Quebec

DENVER, Aug. 5.—A strange man who he says called at the church several times, ostensibly looking for a former janitor, may be responsible for the murder of 5-year-old Alma Kellner, of Louisville, was the statement made last night by Joseph Wendling, charged with the child's murder. Wendling made the statement while enroute to Kentucky from California in charge of detectives. Wendling reiterated that he fled from Louisville to escape from his brother-in-law.

Rev. Sr. Ursule, of the Gray Nuns, who opened and has developed the French-American Orphanage, in Pawtucket street, has been called to Quebec by the mother-superior to open a new and large orphanage there. Her successor will be Rev. Sister St. Beatrice, who has come from Quebec and is now already in charge as superior.

U. S. CONSUL SAYS HE WAS INSULTED BY A WOMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Ethan Allen Weinberg, who says he has been appointed consular agent at Morocco, and who lives at 51 Montrose avenue, Williamsburg, wrote a letter to Magistrate O'Reilly in the Manhattan avenue court yesterday declaring that he was grossly insulted by a woman, Mrs. Phelan, against whom he appeared in court this morning.

If Ethan Allen Weinberg will write his reports as he wrote the letter of complaint, United States manufacturers will get some very interesting readings as soon as Ethan Allen takes up his duties on January first next.

TO WED MANICURE WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A romance between a wealthy chairman and a manicurist became known here yesterday when a license was taken out by Mr. Loren B. Johnson to marry Miss Cecelia Kennedy this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Miss Cecelia Kennedy, it is said, met Dr. Johnson while pursuing her professional duties.

The letter follows: "I have a case of law which no doubt will be tried before your honor, this Friday morning. It is one of insult and slander in public. On Aug. 1 about 5 p. m., I was talking to a young lady on the street within 150 feet of my home. A lad of about 14 years of age, who has quite a reputation as a tough, threw a stone at this girl, striking her in the heel. Apparently not satisfied with this he picked up a petrified apple and threw it also at the girl, staining her silk waist.

"I resented these attacks by cracking him one across the ear, whereupon the defendant, Mrs. Phelan, called me the most vile names heard. She also cracked the children to throw rocks, etc., at me, which they did, destroying my hat. Between yourself as a justice and I, a representative of the government, do you think that a person of my capacity and standing should contend with being satisfied with such remarks which the defendant passed to the crowd which besieged us? I suffer humiliation in taking this case to court, but I find out that this is the only possible recourse to justice. I would ask you, however, to severely reprimand the defendant when brought before you."

THEATRE VOYONS

No matter how cynical one is once this while a genuine love story strikes him just right and "An Unexpected Reward," shown at the Theatre Voyons today will come pretty near pleasing everyone. It is the old story of a rich young man much of a end and a coward at heart, his fiancée whose parents want him to marry, and a common, everyday chap with courage and honesty as his principal assets. The heroine nearly drowns and but for the common young man would have while her high-toned lover refuses to risk his precious life. In the end the girl gets her rescuer and her former fiancé is turned away. One of the features of the program is a magnificent production of Capello, a dramatization of Dumas' "Memoirs of a Physician" that is most interesting and incidentally very beautiful in costuming. There are several comedies and a musical program of more than ordinary worth, one of its features being "The Bitter Land," a beautiful contralto solo sung by Lillian Bates.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"St. Elmo," this week's production at Lakeview theatre, is a tremendous hit. The crowds keep increasing as the days go by and each day is better than the day before, which is probably due to the excellent presentation given the great book play, and the fact that so many people have read the book and desire to see the play.

All the qualities that make the book so interesting are still retained in the play, nothing of the feeling or virtues has been lost, and the scenic and electrical effects are all that could be desired.

James Thatcher plays the role of "St. Elmo," and does it in a prisonworthy manner as does Florence Farr, who plays "Edna Barle." All the other members of the company are good. Matinees are given every day except Monday at 2.30, and evenings at 8.15. Seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Shorburne's drug store.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 5.—Three-year-old child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Chavinsky, of 12 Chalkstone avenue, was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Dr. Max H. Gombert of Chalkstone avenue, yesterday.

INSURGENTS OF IOWA FOLLOW LEAD OF THEIR KANSAS BRETHREN

The first day of the Iowa republican convention was more of an ovation to the "insurgent" leaders Senators Cummins and Dolliver than to the administration. The regulars were beaten at nearly every point, and like the situation in Kansas, where Senator Elishew and Representative Muddock made substantial gains, it seems that the progressives will win the majority of the nominations.

TROLLEY FIRE FINGER PRINTS

Was Started by an Automobile Led to Capture of Alleged Thief

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Broadway and 34th street saw a 24 minute display of pyrotechnics last night that caused a block at that point.

A few minutes after 10 o'clock an automobile crossing the car tracks of the Broadway line pulled a chain from the rear tire of the machine. The chain wound itself about the hub of the wheel, and a piece of it dropped into the slot through which the feet were run. The chain wedged in the slot, held the auto where it was and the contact with the lead wire started the electrical display.

The auto blocked the southbound tracks and the cars came to a halt in a short time the block extended to 42d street. There was a constant display of fireworks as the auto remained anchored. When it was found that nothing about the machine was being damaged and in no manner, the electric current was in no danger of setting it afire, an effort was made to break the connection by putting power on the machine. The chain held, however.

With the gathering of the crowd came the usual number of persons with suggestions as to the best thing to do. Some suggested attaching another auto to the one that was anchored and trying to move it. This idea did not appeal to the owners of other machines, brought to a stop.

In the meanwhile word had been sent for the wrecking wagon, and it was reported on the way. While waiting for it a conductor on one of the long line of stalled cars examined the portion of the chain, and with an insulated instrument resembling a clasp knife wedged a minute and freed the chain. The machine then went on its way.

REFUSED SALARY INCREASE

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 5.—W. Scott Eames, New Haven's director of public works, has established a precedent in public official life by refusing to accept an increase in his salary.

Mr. Eames was appointed director of public works last January at a salary of $2500 a year. Last night a special committee of the board of aldermen voted to recommend an increase of $500 a year in his salary.

When Mr. Eames heard of the recommendation he said: "I knew what the salary and the duties of the director of public works were when I accepted the position. I appreciate the action of the committee in recommending an increase in my salary, but I neither wish nor would I accept any increase in salary."

FIVE WERE KILLED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 5.—A west bound passenger train on the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad yesterday crashed into three handcars loaded with Hungarian workmen on a bridge over a canyon east of Spangle river. Five of the Hungarians were killed, falling to the ground 200 feet below the bridge. A number of others were injured.

MAN FOUND DEAD

It Is Thought He Committed Suicide

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—In an effort to prove that Ira Rawn, president of the Menon railroad, was murdered and did not commit suicide, as hinted in a corner's jury verdict, a reward of $5000 has been offered by the Rawn estate for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of murderers. Mr. Rawn was found dead in his home at Winnetka on the morning of July 20.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 5.—Urgo Breal, a well known artist of this city, was found dead in his studio at 245 Bennett street today with every evidence that he had committed suicide by asphyxiation. Gas was pouring from all four jets and the windows and doors were tightly closed while nearby was a note addressed, "My whom it may concern," in which he made arrangements for the disposition of his property. Breal was prominent as a portrait painter and many prominent men, including governors and other officials, had sat for him.

No positive reasons are known for his act, but it is believed that he had been worrying over his financial condition.

LAWRENCE, Aug. 5. Notices were posted in the Everett mill today announcing a shutdown from Friday, Aug. 19, to Tuesday morning, Sept. 5.

GOT A DIPLOMA

Student Then Beat the College Dean

SYRACUSE, Aug. 5.—Herbert W. Faus, commodore of the Syracuse (1909) crew, yesterday assaulted Dean Sheppard, of the Layman C. Smith college of Applied Science at Syracuse university, and then attacked Professor Paul C. Nugent, at the latter's home. Faus, who is prominent socially on University hill, was not graduated last June as a civil engineer. He was behind in two subjects owing to his athletic and social activities. He has since made up the work under Professor W. P. Graham. When he called on Professor Nugent for a certificate for his diploma it was refused, although Professor Nugent admitted the work was made up, until Professor Graham should telegraph from Canada.

Yesterday afternoon Faus, who comes from Elmhurst, Pa., walked into the dean's office for the sheepskin. As it was handed to him he remarked to the dean: "If you want to see what I think of your instruction and the diploma, I will show you." He then touched a match to the diploma and started to light a cigar with it. "Don't try that, young man, or there will be trouble," said Dean Sheppard. "Take off your glasses if that is what you mean," shouted Faus to the dean. Dean Sheppard then struck Faus on the nose, drawing blood with a ring on his finger. Then the dean got a severe beating at the hands of Faus. Dean Sheppard called on men in the office for assistance, but none was offered him. Faus dared him to summon the police. Leaving the college, Faus went to the home of Professor Nugent and administered a severe beating to him also. News of the battle in the dean's office and at Professor Nugent's created a sensation in the University hill section.

At police headquarters last night it was said no report had been made of the occurrence, and that no warrant had been requested.

STREET PAVING QUESTION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 5.—St. John now has a vigorous controversy over the question of street paving. The inspector, who was looking after the city's interests, has resigned, declaring that material is being used for foundation work that is 50 per cent cheaper than that called for by the specifications. The city engineer contends that the material is all right. The press has been demanding an investigation, but thus far the city council has pinned its faith to the engineer and refuses to take any action.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Made Addresses at Board of Trade Outing

Despite the inclement weather the board of trade carried out its outing program in full even to the out-door sports and Sec. Murphy, who was the chief hustler of the occasion, was complimented on all sides for his good work.

The early part of the outing was reported in yesterday's editions, the speeches being reached too late for publication.

The speeches were a most important feature of the day for the subjects were those in which Lowell is vitally interested and the speakers were men who were well informed on the subjects on which they spoke. Owing to the number of speakers each was limited to 10 minutes.

President Harvey B. Greene opened the post-prandial exercises with a brief address of welcome, after which he introduced as the first speaker Mayor John F. Meehan.

Mayor Meehan's Remarks

Mayor Meehan was warmly welcomed as he arose and he spoke in part as follows:

"I certainly feel honored to speak before such a representative gathering of men, men who represent enterprises and wealth, not only in this city but throughout the Merrimack Valley. I have always found it a most pleasant duty to talk to the members of the Lowell board of trade because it represents such good and progressive principles. One of the aims of this body is to bring about better conditions in the city of Lowell, to encourage others to come here and to advance the whole city's interests. To the board of trade the city looks for good things and for progress that we have not seen in the least disappointed, especially by our present board. They have accomplished things and indications point to continued accomplishments."

"I was going to talk some on the commendable proposition of the Ames interurban road but I find my time limited and cannot devote as much time to it as I intended. Lowell has not the facilities that a seaport town has. Why should we be paying 35 cents per ton for coal for its transportation of 25 miles by rail? Now what is the cause? In Lowell the public service corporations are endeavoring to make the city progress in many ways. The cure for this transportation evil is a waterway to tide water. Then only will Lowell start to move over progressive and prosperous lines."

"The public men of the cities along the Merrimack valley should arouse themselves to the possibilities in many ways. Some people may scoff at the politicians and public servant but it is to them they all look when in want of public improvements and advantages. Let the representatives of the masses, then, unite in their endeavors to bring these much needed changes to the city. Let the city make any value which it can and the community in general will benefit. A waterway from this city, or Nashua, to the sea is not a Utopian dream, it can be realized, and it is my earnest wish that it will in the near future. If my personal efforts can assist I gladly offer them to you."

Secretary Murphy Cheered

At this point President Greene in forceful remarks presented John H. Murphy, the hustling secretary of the board, and Mr. Murphy was given a hearty cheer. He responded briefly and wittily.

Sen. Joseph H. Hibbard

Senator Hibbard was the next speaker, and he devoted his time to one of his favorite subjects, the state highway between Lowell and Lawrence. He set forth very forcibly the need for a road of this kind and concluded his remarks by assuring the local board of trade that if returned to the state house in the fall his services would be at the call of the organization whose aim was for the good and welfare of not one individual but the whole city.

Rep. E. B. Barlow

Rep. E. B. Barlow of corporation tax fame was warmly received, and he spoke on the subject of taxation, to which he has given much hard study. Rep. Barlow said, in part:

"I wish to impress on the minds of all of you that we are confronting a rather difficult task for the future. The state tax rate is slowly but surely increasing, year by year, and the way things are being carried on at the present time there seems no way to check the advance. The two ways I see that the thing may be remedied are either by decreasing the appropriations of the state or by revising the method of levying taxes in Massachusetts. The stock transfer tax would assist. It is a law in New York and seems to be carried on very successfully there. The inheritance tax would be another way to help keep the tax rate lower. I would advise the Lowell board of trade to look more deeply into the matter and it might be possible to bring relief to many in various ways."

Francis W. Qua

Francis W. Qua, Esq., was the following speaker. He said, in part:

"I feel sincerely honored in coming here to say a few words to the Lowell board of trade. I like it because the objects of the organization are not of the selfish sort. Such an organization which has for its principle, improvements and advantages for the whole people and not for this or that individual, cannot but appeal to any man of good, sound judgment. The board has accomplished much in and for Lowell. When I was city solicitor we had rather expensive litigation over

IS GOING BLIND

Mabel Hite May Never Act Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mabel Hite, the actress, may never go on the stage again. At present she is at her cottage in Sheephead Bay under the treatment of two New York eyesight specialists. She is wearing the darkest of dark glasses, keeping out of the strong sunlight, and what she knows of the world outside of what she hears is what she has read to her. The rehearsals of her company have practically been abandoned, and the opening performance in New York postponed from August 15 to October 1.

This postponement is in the hope by that date the eyesight will permit her to resume her place on the stage. So grave is the condition of the young woman that it is said that Mike Donlin, her husband, who went from the baseball diamond to the stage after his marriage to her, is timbering up a bit to be prepared to the return to the disabled in case Miss Hite cannot return to the stage.

Miss Hite made her debut as a star last season in a play called "A Certain Party," written by E. M. Townsend and Frank O'Malley. There was no time after its production in the west to put the play on in this city after the favorable impression it had made in Chicago, Cincinnati, Boston and other places. It was arranged that the opening this season should be in New York early.

Feeling that she was certain of a long run in New York as a star, Miss Hite and Donlin sailed for Europe at the close of the season. Three weeks ago they came back. Miss Hite was wearing dark glasses, but appeared cheerful. Those members of the company that had been re-engaged from last season reported for rehearsals. Then it became known as the days dragged on that something was wrong.

It was reported on Broadway yesterday that Miss Hite was totally blind. The rumor caused the actors and actresses to leave the theatre, for few persons are more popular than the little woman who robbed baseball of its star.

BARN DESTROYED

Lightning Caused Damage in Dracut

The barn belonging to John Callahan on the lot at Dracut in Leadville just before Dracut Centre was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon and the building was doomed before assistance could arrive. A volunteer brigade which was later assisted by the Dracut Centre fire company, succeeded in saving the residence.

Two horses, three cows and a large number of poultry and various farming implements were removed to a place of safety before the flames reached them, but a large quantity of hay which was stored in the barn was destroyed.

Mr. Callahan and his family were in the house at the time that the barn was struck. The first intimation that he knew anything was wrong was when he noticed that the barn was ablaze.

Employees of Fred Fox whose farm is close by were attracted to the scene and they succeeded in saving a great many of the things stored in the barn together with the live stock. Five hundred feet of hose was laid from Mr. Fox's place to the scene of the fire and the men were able to protect the house until the Dracut Centre fire company appeared on the scene.

TO SHIP IRON ORE

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 5.—It is announced that iron ore from the Drummond mines in Gloucester county will be shipped from the port of Newcastle by the middle of August. The branch railway, connecting the mines with the Intercolonial railway, has been completed, and shipping facilities have been provided at Newcastle. In the meantime a dredge is now at work in the harbor at Bathurst, near the mines, and it is expected that this place will ultimately be the shipping port. There is now quite a village at the Drummond mines and a post office to be known as Iron Mountain is to be opened there. The mines will have a capacity of one or two thousand tons of ore per day. Most of it will be shipped to the United States, although some cargoes have been ordered for the old country.

His train is due in Baltimore at 3:20 this afternoon.

WORKMAN KILLED

Another Was Injured By Fall
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Two laborers were thrown from the top to the ground of a seven story building at 79 Macdougall street yesterday afternoon when a concrete arch upon which they were working collapsed. Edward Darlington, 38 years old, of 453 Clinton street, Brooklyn, was killed and his companion, George Egan, 21 years old, of 211 East 196th street was badly injured.
The building, which has been under construction but a short time, is to be a seven story apartment house. The floors have not yet been laid and with the exception of a few steel beams a space is open from the roof to the ground. The arch upon which the men were working was intended as a support for the roof. It gave way so suddenly that the men were dropped down without a chance to save themselves. Dr. Murray was summoned from St. Vincent's hospital and found that Darlington had been killed instantly. Egan was taken to the hospital suffering from a lacerated wound of the face and internal injuries.

Over Love for Her Daughter
REVERLY, Mass., Aug. 5.—When President Pedro Monti of Chile and his wife arrive in Beverly Saturday they will be received by President and Mrs. Taft at their summer home here, and it is likely that an informal dinner will be served and other entertainment provided. The South American executive arrived in New York Wednesday and was met at the steamer by Major General William H. Carter, chief of staff of the war department, and Captain Harry R. Huse, commandant of the Brooklyn navy yard, in full uniform. Both will accompany him to Beverly.

WEALTHIEST BOY

Was Saved From a Kidnapper
BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 5.—At 3 o'clock yesterday morning Simeon Blake, one of the watchmen employed to guard the kidnapping of E. H. McLean's eight-months-old baby, Vinson, on watch by the burglar alarm dial outside Mrs. McLean's chamber, heard the alarm and noted that it was registered from a window of Mrs. McLean's room, where the wealthiest boy in the world was asleep.
He aroused Mr. McLean, who found the northeast window open. Stepping out upon the balcony he saw a man running off into the woods on the John I. Kane estate. He fired three shots at the man, and Blake, who had also seen the man running for cover, joined in the fusillade. A thorough search of the McLean grounds, the briars, was made, but no clue was found. Every effort has been made to discover the burglar, who undoubtedly was bent on kidnapping the wealthy child. The baby is the grandson of John R. McLean and of the late millionaire mine owner, John F. Walsh.
Mr. McLean has taken every precaution to guard against a possible kidnapping of the boy, and several watchmen are constantly on duty. The attempt made yesterday morning is a severe shock to Mrs. McLean, who, it is said, has not since left her room. Every effort was made to keep the frustrated night visit a secret, but the story of the affair came out yesterday.
The police are on the lookout for a suspicious-looking character seen about the McLean estate for the past day or two and who is now missing.
Mr. McLean's aim necessarily was hastily taken, as the man was running fast and it was very dark. Blake was never, but the runaway dodged among the trees just as the watchman reached the veranda. Blake is of the opinion that one of Mr. McLean's bullets found its mark.
The burglar alarm is tested often and the intruder would probably have accomplished his purpose if the alarm had not sounded as he raised the window.

WOMAN IN COURT

Over Love for Her Daughter
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A mother's love for her child was the cause yesterday of a mother being summoned to a police court in Brooklyn by the father. The persons concerned are Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kelly and Miss Purcell Kelly, their seventeen-year-old daughter.
The father and mother have not lived together for eight years, having separated under an agreement that the husband would pay the wife $10 a week, so long as she did not take her daughter away from Brooklyn. For some time past they have been living in Boston.
Yesterday Kelly had his wife summoned before Judge Voorhees, claiming that the wife had written a paper called "The Sorrows of My Life" and sent it to many of his friends and to his lawyer. It was not until the case came before the magistrate that the real facts came out.
The father said that under their agreement the wife was to keep the girl in Brooklyn. Because she had violated that agreement he would not send her the $10 a week, as stipulated in the agreement. Then it was that the mother explained that the daughter would not live in Brooklyn, because she was studying music in Boston, and the mother, with every effort she could put forth, was trying to school her to become a music teacher. The mother herself has been teaching music in Boston to aid her daughter. The court dismissed the case, advising the wife to write no more papers.

WOMAN IN COURT

Over Love for Her Daughter
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Two laborers were thrown from the top to the ground of a seven story building at 79 Macdougall street yesterday afternoon when a concrete arch upon which they were working collapsed. Edward Darlington, 38 years old, of 453 Clinton street, Brooklyn, was killed and his companion, George Egan, 21 years old, of 211 East 196th street was badly injured.
The building, which has been under construction but a short time, is to be a seven story apartment house. The floors have not yet been laid and with the exception of a few steel beams a space is open from the roof to the ground. The arch upon which the men were working was intended as a support for the roof. It gave way so suddenly that the men were dropped down without a chance to save themselves. Dr. Murray was summoned from St. Vincent's hospital and found that Darlington had been killed instantly. Egan was taken to the hospital suffering from a lacerated wound of the face and internal injuries.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Joseph Russo of 98 Ashland place, Joseph McGowan of 281 Mott street and Carl Crombie of 230 West 116th street, who have been in the Elmira reformatory, were arraigned in Jefferson Market court yesterday afternoon on a grand larceny charge and held in $2000 bail each for trial by Magistrate Carrigan. "I always like to greet you Elmira alumni," remarked the magistrate as he held them.
Dr. Felix J. Beagin of 226 East Twentieth street was nozing on a Madison Square Park bench at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on which Russo, McGowan and Crombie also sat. Dr. Beagin said he was there because the heat was oppressive at home. Detectives Howry and Tackowski were passing through the park and declared they saw Russo take $4 and a gun metal watch from the sleeping physician's pockets. They say Russo passed the articles to McGowan and McGowan in turn to Crombie. Howry then ran over and took possession of the money and watch and arrested the men.

WEALTHIEST BOY PRESIDENT OF CHILEAN REPUBLIC

GUEST OF UNCLE SAM AND MR. TAFT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—President Taft has granted a reprieve for ninety days to John Wynne, who was an officer on the United States steamship Rosecrans and was convicted of murder at Honolulu and sentenced to be hanged on September 5. Wynne murdered Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon of the Rosecrans while in a violent rage because he had conceived the notion that the engineer was trying to bring about his dismissal.
An application for commutation of sentence has been filed, but Attorney General Wickham found there was not time enough before September 5 in which to investigate the case. For that reason a reprieve was recommended and granted.
Announcement was also made yesterday at the department of justice that the president had commuted the jail sentence of Ami E. Todd, serving three months in jail at Fremont, Neb., on a charge of having fraudulently sought to acquire title to a homestead. Todd has served most of his sentence and is reported to be dying.

GUEST OF UNCLE SAM AND MR. TAFT
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Robert E. Lewis, a broker, of 31 East Seventy-seventh street, with offices at 15 William street, who was one of the trustees to whom Col. Edwin A. Stevens of Castle Point, Hoboken, transferred all his real and personal estate, expressed surprise yesterday at the publication of the terms of the deed. He had resigned as trustee since the instrument was drawn, he said, and did not know who, if any one, had been substituted. The deed of trust was drawn on Feb. 24, 1908. At that time Col. Stevens was in poor health and, it is said, feared nervous prostration. Whether his sickness was the sole reason for the transfer of his estate could not be learned from such of his friends as could be seen yesterday.
Rufus C. Benson of the law firm of Benson, Alexander & Stevens of Hoboken said on Wednesday evening that the deed was filed for record by him for Mr. Lewis.

WEALTHIEST BOY PRESIDENT OF CHILEAN REPUBLIC

GUEST OF UNCLE SAM AND MR. TAFT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Regular republican leaders have decided to support democratic candidates in a majority of those congress districts in which insurgents received the party nominations in primaries or in conventions. They prefer the election of a democratic house to the triumph of insurgency, and by such measures they will aim to retain control of the republican organization until such time as it is possible to return it to power.
This is according to Representative James T. Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the democratic congressional committee. The disposition of republicans to aid the democrats was the subject of a series of conferences between Mr. Lloyd and his lieutenants at the democratic headquarters in Chicago next week.
"I had an idea when I started out that the dissatisfaction in the republican party was confined to Kansas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Minnesota," he said, "but I find it widespread in almost every state west of the Mississippi. There is a big light on in California between the regulars and insurgents for the state administration and there are numerous insurgent congressional candidates. I think the democrats will gain four California districts."
"In fact unless there is a wonderful change in sentiment there is no doubt that a democratic house will be elected. We stand a better show even than when congress adjourned. Speaker Cannon appears to be a big factor in the situation, and to an outsider it would seem that he is making a mistake in attacking the insurgents."
"The attitude toward the administration is generally unfavorable. Most people, republicans as well as democrats, hold that the president is not making good. There is special dissatisfaction with his course on the tariff and with his cabinet. This looks like a democratic year to me."

Coumetakos Was Charged at Rate of $12 a Dozen

Arthur Duchesne, about 21 years of age, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with feloniously assaulting Mrs. Leda Desrosiers, aged 26 years. Duchesne admitted that he and the woman had been very intimate, but denied that he assaulted her. After the testimony in the case had been offered the court found probable cause and held Duchesne under $1000 bonds for his appearance at the next sitting of the grand jury.

Costly Apples
Gleaves Coumetakos is of the opinion that the apple market took a jump skyward this morning for it cost him $12 a dozen for some apples that he stole from the orchard at the guard locks in upper Broadway. Coumetakos and several other foreigners while passing by the orchard espied some nice apples and immediately decided they would have some. They did not ask permission of Loren M. Fuller, who has charge of the place, but walked into the yard and started throwing stones at the apples.

While they were busily engaged in filling their pockets with the nice juicy fruit Mr. Fuller observed them and soon had Patrolmen Hamilton and Ganley on the scene. Coumetakos failed to notice the approach of the officers and before he knew what had happened he

HESTER IS DEAD

Famous Police Horse Was Shot

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A distinguished and learned member of the police department died in harness yesterday. His name was Hester and he had served the department for fifteen years. He had been in this world of few late and much work for two years before he had the P. D. on his saddle, and he really was a veteran. All the men of the mounted squad knew Hester and his record, and when he fell and hurt his knees a few weeks ago in West Chester it would have been a brave officer indeed who would have ordered the animal shot.

They put the injured horse in a comfortable stall and rigged up a sling for his bruised knees and did everything they could to make him comfortable. A veterinary from headquarters came up to the West Chester police station and looked Hester over and shook his head dubiously but said that he would wait a while before he did anything final.

The horse grew worse, however, and yesterday the captain called the men of the West Chester station out onto the floor and told them that Hester must be shot. He asked for volunteers. Not a man came forward. So the captain sent for the veterinary again and when he arrived he got a cold greeting from the reserves. They begged him not to shoot Hester but to try some other way of healing matters, and he consented. Just how the horse was finally destroyed no one knows, because none of the men went into the stall with the veterinary, and they didn't question the doctor when he came out.

Hester had his reward for all the years of service last May when he got the blue ribbon in the procession for his part in the grandest man in this town on that day was Sergeant West, Hester's rider, as he went up to the grandstand and got the ribbon for his horse and in addition to that received a medal in Hester's name from Mrs. James Speyer. But soon after that West was promoted to sergeant and Hester went into new hands. They say those who know the ways of horses, that Hester didn't hold his head up in the old manner when West no longer rode him and that if ever a horse felt that he was growing old it was that same Hester. Of course that may be the sentimental imagination that the police are noted as possessing.

Those who were in the habit of going down to Rockaway beach about six years ago may remember Hester. For he used to have the beach patrol in those days, and when he took his daily swim all the bathers came along to watch. It was Sergeant Pepper who taught Hester to take to the water and at the same time made him useful in hunting out folks who had gone beyond the life lines. This got to be a sort of second nature with the horse and there are many recuses to his credit that are not down in any books, but that will probably be not forgotten by the folks whom Hester saved.

The horse burned his grade in Central park his first assignment, and stopped many runaways there. Then he went to Prospect park in Brooklyn, and Rockaway and finally up to West Chester and Sergeant West's care.

MRS. TAGGART IN FRANCE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—It developed yesterday through the return of home here of Miss Kate Reaney, trained nurse, who accompanied the party on the flight abroad nearly five years ago, that Mrs. Francis Taggart, divorced wife of Major, then Captain, E. F. Taggart, U. S. A., and her two sons, Oliver and Robert, are in France, where they have been ever since January of 1906.

It will be recalled that after the sensational divorce trial which stirred military circles the country over, Mrs. Taggart disappeared with her two little sons, only one of whom, Robert, had been awarded to her by the court.

It is not thought that the court can now interfere in the matter, as the son in dispute between the parents, the older, has reached the age of 17 when he can choose for himself as to the parent he desires to live with. Each of the sons is heir to $500,000 from the estate of their maternal grandfather, Oliver.

PILGRIM FATHERS

Monument to Their Memory Was Dedicated Today

PROVINCETOWN, Aug. 5.—No greater duty ever devolved on Provincetown's two clerics, George Washburn Ready and Walter Smith than their inspiring announcement today of the coming of President Taft and the dedication of the tall granite shaft on Town hill, erected to the memory of the Pilgrim fathers. The custom of erecting important events through the streets of the town still obtains in several Massachusetts communities like Provincetown and Nantucket and the inhabitants of this old port would not feel that they had begun the day right even with so important an event as the coming of the president if it were not proclaimed by the town's human bulletin boards. Provincetown had a good rain but last night and woke up this morning clear, dustless and considerably refreshed as well as eager for a third big day in its history. The first was Nov. 21, 1620, when the famous compact was signed in the cabin of the Mayflower. The second was the laying of the corner stone of the Pilgrims monument, Aug. 7, 1907, before a large assembly across whose heads and the and dunes of the cape Pres. Roosevelt shouted a memorable defiance to certain corporate interests.

The tall granite shaft erected in memory of the Pilgrims and begun under the eye of President Roosevelt received its official dedication from President Taft today and once more the narrow streets of this old fishing town were taxed to their limits to hold the crowds.

Last night's storm had cleared the air and today a fine northwester was blowing straight across the bay from Beverly to Cape Cod and bringing from the west the president's yacht, the Mayflower came lying across the water to be welcomed by a mighty array of the nation's naval warriors. Preparations for receiving the crowd and the distinguished guests were completed last night and before the exercises on top of the hill began today. The Pilgrims' monument, which was erected by the Pilgrims' association, was dedicated by President Taft today. The monument is a granite shaft, 100 feet high, and is dedicated to the memory of the Pilgrims. The monument is a granite shaft, 100 feet high, and is dedicated to the memory of the Pilgrims.

people to find salvation in large statistics. The spiritual and the intellectual bloom and flourish when the material is withered and dead. High ideals in the conduct of life are what survive and that is why the Pilgrim narrative stands forth in the pages of every history as one of the great events of the time, not because they were among the founders of the republic, but because they had great purposes and by their conception of duty influenced the fate of men.

William B. Lawrence of Medford accepted the monument on behalf of the memorial association, and a quartet sang "The Landing of the Pilgrims," by Mrs. Hemans.

Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, who supported the bill in congress for a governmental appropriation to assist in the erection of the monument, was the next speaker. It was well past the noon hour when Governor Draper rose to introduce President Taft.

President Taft was warmly applauded when he arose to speak. He touched on the circumstances which led to the pilgrims to New England and on their influence on the history of America.

"The spirit which prompted them to brave the seas has furnished the United States the highest ideals of moral life and political citizenship," said the president. President Taft's address was as follows:

"Here, two hundred and ninety years ago, a band of one hundred pilgrims in a small, crowded and leaking vessel first saw their new home. They had been preceded by the French on the St. Lawrence and by the English at Jamestown and other efforts had been made to establish a permanent colony in the New England coast to four cloudy miles before them. But this was the first attempt made by men seeking political and religious independence to secure an asylum in America where they might escape the fussy, meddling, narrow and tyrannical restraints imposed by the first of the Pilgrims. They were not of the upper middle class. They were of the peasantry of the former class. Their ministers were university bred men but the rest were humble, God-fearing persons who were avowed non-conformists and had been persecuted as such in their homes in the eastern part of England. As early as 1609 they fled to Amsterdam and then to Leyden to enjoy the freedom of religious worship for which Holland was then distinguished among the countries of the world.

"It was there that, years before, Erasmus had preached the wisdom and virtue of toleration of religious beliefs and the elimination of the Spanish Inquisition. The Netherlands, the refuge of those persecuted for their faith. The wish to remain Englishmen finally induced this venturesome band to seek another refuge in the wilderness where they could maintain a theocracy based on a human democracy.

"The differences between the Pilgrims and Puritans emphasize the heroism of the Plymouth colonists. The Puritans had wealth and social influence as the principle. They sailed to America to live here, but the danger and the came in thousands. Not so with the Pilgrims. They were the humble men whose faith was extreme in its simplicity and stern. The spirit which prompted them to brave the seas to land on this forbidding coast in winter and to live here, has made the history of this country what it is. It prompted and fought the Revolutionary war. It welcomed and fought the Civil war and has furnished the United States the highest ideals of moral life and political citizenship.

"The Pilgrims were the first of our early history the Pilgrims may have shown to those differing with them in religious belief. Out of the logic of their processes intellectually there came religious freedom while in the energy of their religious faith they uncompromisingly maintained the principle that is inevitable with religious liberty. It is meet, therefore, that the United States as well as the state of Massachusetts should unite in placing here a memorial to the Pilgrims. The warships that are here with their cannons, still are the reminder that the strength of that government whose people have derived much from the spirit and example of the heroic band. Gov. Bradford, Elder Brewster, and Capt. Miles Standish are the types of men in whom as ancestors either we are proud to claim and the citizens of America may well take pride. This magnificent monument may fittingly remind the traveler by sea of the beginning of New England and note the fact that those whose spirit of liberty was to persist for centuries, still are the foundation and the preservation of our great republic, here first saw the land and here first put foot upon the shore."

The exercises at the monument were brought to a close with the unveiling of a bronze inscription tablet by Miss Barbara Hoyt, a descendant of Edgar, the first settler, and by Henry Baker of Hyannis.

The guests were then escorted to the town hall where luncheon was served to about 100 persons. The interior of the hall was hand decorated.

BILLION-IN SAVINGS
ALBANY, Aug. 5.—According to figures compiled by Superintendent Cheney of the State Banking department yesterday from the reports of the 112 savings banks in the state July 1 last, the resources of these institutions increased $88,488,767 during the year and now stand at $1,676,416,322.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

American and Adams Companies

Announce New Schedule

Delivery Extended Practically to

All Parts of Lowell as Has Been Done by Manchester & Concord - Extension Brought About by Board of Trade

While the members of the board of trade were discussing the succulent clam and his delightful accompaniments at Mountain Rock yesterday, the managers of the American and Adams Express companies were about town notifying the public through the press that they had decided to extend their delivery limits in Lowell as the result of the persistent and successful effort of the same board of trade.

The cynically inclined may roast the board of trade, now and then, as being a body of words without deeds, but whatever may be said against the board of trade the fact remains that it has accomplished something of material benefit for all Lowell in getting the express companies.

In its war against the express companies for the extension the board had nothing to say against the Manchester & Concord company, for it has always been the rule of Manager Mahony to deliver the goods, no matter how great a distance they were to be delivered. Secretary Murphy in his letter to the other companies refers to the Manchester & Concord and shows that while laboring under a handicap, at the same time that company was the only one in Lowell that the board could not do without.

After a hearing at which many citizens expressed themselves, Sec. Murphy, acting upon the vote of the board addressed the following letter to the managers of the American and the Adams Express companies:

July 1, 1910.
Dear Sir: The inadequate service for the delivery of express to many sections of the city has been a constant complaint of the board of trade. Complaints have been received from business men and residents of various sections of the city. The complaints were so numerous and the grievances of such a nature that arrangements were made for a public hearing, to which you were invited in order that you might hear the protests of the people outside your delivery limits, and then knowing the sentiments of the public that you might offer if possible some solution to the difficulty or suggest a remedy for existing conditions.

This hearing was held on June 23, at the board of trade rooms and a report of this meeting is appended. It appears that your company previous to Jan. 1, 1908, delivered without limit to all parts of the city.

Jan. 1, 1908, this service was curtailed by the present limits, probably on account of the business depression of that period. There is no evidence to suggest that this service had been unprofitable during normal times and as the business conditions of the country have long since regained their normal status, it would seem that the re-establishment of this original service has been unreasonably delayed.

It appears there has been considerable development in the outlying sections of our city for several years back and it is estimated that 25 per cent of our total population is now deprived of the privileges of express deliveries.

It appears that the Manchester & Concord Express Co., a corporation which although deprived of the privilege of using passenger trains for their express and although only charging a fraction of the rate charged by your company, still are now profitable to maintain free delivery to all sections of the city.

It would seem that a condition of affairs that would give rise to such a general and vigorous protest should be called to the attention of whatever officials of your company are competent to pass on this matter and it would further seem that these officials could give this protest such consideration as would relieve the present unsatisfactory limitations of the service.

It would seem that favorable consideration at this time would quiet a growing discontent and make it unnecessary for the public to seek for another means of redress.

Respectfully submitted,
John H. Murphy, Secretary.

In a surprisingly short space of time he received answers from Maurice B. Vallant, of the American Express company and Charles A. Gale, of the Adams Express company.

Yesterday Manager Vallant of the Adams Express company announced the following schedule of express delivery:

Middlesex street to Wood street; Westford street to Wood street; Princeton street to Wood street, and all cross streets.

Pine street, all; Parker street, all; Stevens street to Chelmsford street; Chelmsford street to Stevens street, and all cross streets.

Gorham street to Seneca avenue; Lawrence street to Woburn street; Blinclair street to Acton street, and all cross streets.

Rogers street to Butman Road; Berkeley avenue to Berwick street; Boylston street to Berwick street; Andover street to Edgewood street, and all cross streets.

All of Centralville.
Varnum avenue to Dunbar avenue; Mammoth Road to end of car line; Moody street to Seventh avenue, and all cross streets.

At the same time the following letter was sent to President Express by Mr. Gale of the Adams Express company, explaining the extensions of that concern:

Lowell, Aug. 3, 1910.
Mr. Harvey B. Greene, President of the Board of Trade, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in advising you that beginning today this company will extend its delivery limit as follows: Centralville, to 18th street, including all the heights; Lakeview avenue to Bachman street; Andover street to Clark road; Rogers street to Butman Road; Chelmsford street to the junction of Stevens; Middlesex street to Wood; Gorham street to Quebec; Mammoth Road to the end of the car line and all of Moody street; Varnum avenue to Dunbar avenue. This, I believe, covers practically all territory asked for by your petitioners.

Respectfully yours,
Charles A. Gale, Agent.

Manager Mahony of the Manchester and Concord Express company, when seen this morning, said: "We were satisfied our patrons before the board of trade took up the matter and we will continue to do so."

THE ACCIDENT
THAT RESULTED IN DEATH OF LOWELL MAN
The Chester (Pa.) Republican has the following account of the accident that resulted in the death of Charles Stott, a former Lowell resident:

Falling from a crane in the erecting shop of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Eldersville, at an early hour yesterday morning, Charles Stott, aged 39 years, of 702 East Eighth street was fatally injured. He was admitted to the Crozer hospital, where he died about two hours later. Stott was married and is survived by his wife and two children and his mother, Mrs. Emma Stott, who resides at Lowell, Mass. A telegram was sent to her notifying her of her son's death.

How the accident occurred still remains a mystery to the employees of the plant who were working with Stott at the time. The man was a crane operator and at the time of his fatal fall was supposed to be in the cage of his crane. Whether he fell from the cage while leaning out to adjust some part, or was outside his cage fixing something and received an electric shock has not been determined. When he fell, a distance of about thirty-five feet, his body struck a casting.

Other employees in the shop hearing his groans and seeing his unconscious form lying on the shop floor, ran to the office from where a hurry call was sent to the Crozer hospital. The ambulance quickly responded and conveyed him to the institution, where every effort possible was made by Dr. Hatfield, the internist, to save the man's life. Stott's condition was beyond human aid, however. Both legs and arms were broken and two ribs over the heart were fractured, one of them having penetrated the lung.

Mrs. Stott was notified of the accident and, accompanied for the remainder of the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Charles H. Wilson of City Point.

6 O'CLOCK BIG AUTO RACES Tournament in This City to Last For One Day

Injunction or no injunction, Lowell will have an automobile race. That much was vouched for today by good authority. It is generally conceded that it was a mistake to have called the races off. Letters received by Mr. Heinze and others interested in the races are indicative of the great interest in the Lowell races in other cities than Lowell.

The manufacturers, too, are anxious to have the race go on. As to the magnitude of the race nothing has been said, but a good race is promised, though it will be for one day only and will be held between the 16th and 22nd of September.

The race was called off a few days ago principally because of the injunction that the promoters knew was being prepared. It was thought at that time that it would not be advisable to get into any legal tangle over it, but it has since been decided that the injunction will have to be met some time, if any races are to be held in the future and the promoters allowed that it would be as well to meet it now as any time. There is but a short time left in which to make preparations for the race, but the time is sufficient to insure one day of good racing.

Although the race had been called off the boulevard and entire course have been undergoing repairs, so far as the road is concerned little has been lost. The boulevard is being repaired by the street department and the road through the town is being repaired by the state highway commission.

THE GLOVER CASE JACOB NEWMAN

Four Brothers Granted a Rehearing

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Judge Morton in the supreme court today handed down a decision granting to the four brothers of Clarence Glover, the murdered William laundress, a rehearing of their contest to break their brother's will. The new hearing will be before a jury and a judge of the supreme court in East Cambridge in October. Today's decision overrules the decision handed down by Judge McIntyre of the probate court who ruled in favor of Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of the murdered man and Seymour Glover.

LOWELL CAMPERS

Had Lively Experience at No. Chelmsford

A small sized tornado struck North Chelmsford about dark last night and put a party of Lowell campers out of commission.

The party consisted of Police Officer McCann and his two sons, Billy Chase, the well known athletic instructor, and Gerald Beane, and their outfit consisted of two tents and two canoes. Two of the party had just arrived at the camp in the canoes which were loaded with provisions, etc., when the storm broke. At the outset the bigger of the two tents went to pieces, the ridge pole being snapped in twain. A can containing kerosene oil was thrown into the open fire chest, the oil finding its way all over the only food left in the camp. The second tent stood the effects of the storm fairly well. But while some of the party were kept busy holding down their belongings, all the others had to go to the river and hold on for dear life to the canoes which threatened to overturn with their precious contents, momentarily. The excitement lasted 20 minutes by actual time, but it seemed an hour to the campers. After the storm subsided it was necessary to light lanterns and seek the effects that had been scattered in all directions. Some of the clothing had not been recovered up to noon today, having been blown away by the fury of the storm. Every one of the party was wet to the skin and all had to bunk last night under the one tent which withstood the fury of the elements.

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SENATOR GORE

Continued
C. B. Ames, counsel for McMurray.
"About two minutes," said Creager.
"Did you state to Sen. Gore that an attempt had been made to influence you?"

"I did not. All I said was that at the proper time I would rise in the house to a question of personal privilege."

"On or about May 4 did Senator call you on the telephone and tell you a little bird had whispered to him something important about the McMurray contracts?"

"He did not."

"You were friendly with McMurray?"

"Yes, I saw him frequently."

"Mr. Creager then said he was the author of a bill providing for the sale of the lands on a $30,000,000 basis."

"Did McMurray help you frame that bill?"

"Yes."

"Then that bill expressed the wishes of McMurray?"

"Some of his wishes. We went over the bill together."

"Were your conferences with McMurray secret?"

"No, not secret."

"Did McMurray ever make any improper proposals to you to influence you to obtain legislation for him?"

"He never did."

"Did your bill meet the approval of the Oklahoma delegates in congress?"

"Not entirely. They approved of it as a whole, but disagreed as to some details."

"In previous testimony you said that Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma lived in the hotel at Washington with Hammon and Murray. Did you mean they actually occupied the same rooms?"

"Congressman McGuire frequently was in their rooms but I think his rooms were one or two stories higher up. The hotel was frequented by congressmen generally."

Questioned by Senator Gore, Mr. Creager said that his bill provided for the sale of lands by the secretary of the interior and did not provide for any attorneys fees.

Chairman Burke of the investigating committee authorized a statement that Vice President Sherman would not be summoned to appear before the committee. It was stated that no evidence had been introduced to show that Mr. Sherman could throw any light on the investigation.

Estimates were introduced to show that at the time the contracts were under discussion Hammon was in Washington. Mr. Ames pointed out in the questioning that Hammon was representing Governor Haskell of Oklahoma.

Senator Gore at that time had introduced a bill providing that a senate committee appointed to investigate the "third degree" should also investigate the condition which led up to the indictment of Gov. Haskell in the Muskogee town lot case.

BRANDED AS UNTRUTH

BIG MOOSE LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—

Vice-President Sherman branded as an untruth today any statement purporting to connect him with a personal interest in the McMurray Indian land contracts.

Sitting before a blazing log at Camp Crane where he is summing up his family, Mr. Sherman read carefully the testimony of Senator Gore at Muskogee yesterday. Laying aside the paper the vice president said:

"I never heard my name mentioned in connection with the contracts which were the subject of Senator Gore's testimony yesterday."

"If any person has said I had any interest in this or any other Indian contract he has stated what is not true."

"No personal interest, I mean."

SHOT BY HIS CHUM

UTICA, Aug. 5.—Jesse Lewis, 16 years old, a resident of Deansboro, is dying at a Utica hospital of a pistol shot wound, accidentally inflicted yesterday by his chum, Lynn Hamlin, 18 years old, while the two were debating the relative penetrating power of bullets fired from pistols and rifles. Lewis had a rifle and Hamlin a revolver.

Both weapons supposedly were unloaded, but when Hamlin pointed his pistol at Lewis and pulled the trigger the bullet penetrated the latter's chest near the heart.

ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Jersey City detectives yesterday arrested Ira Hansen, 27 years old, of 7 Exchange place on the charge of murdering Nathan Ames, whose body was found near Pier B in Jersey City on Wednesday afternoon. Hansen admitted having fought with Ames but denied responsibility for his death. O. E. Stappert, who works in a store near the pier, told the police he saw Hansen knock down Ames and drag him to the place where the body was found.

MIDDY ALWAYS SEASICK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Suffering from chronic seasickness, Midshipman Julian S. Hatcher has decided to quit the naval service. Hatcher went to the Annapolis Naval Academy in July, 1905. Although he has tried hard to qualify Hatcher has come to the conclusion that a life on the bounding wave will not do for him. The rocking of a ship makes him seasick.

He has handed in his resignation as a midshipman and it has been accepted. At present Hatcher is serving aboard the battleship Delaware of the Atlantic fleet. He is a Virginia boy.

ED. WETMORE TREASURE SHIP

Mentioned for the Strong Guard Is Put On It

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt had nothing to say regarding the charges by Senator Gore of attempted bribery in the Indian contracts. U. S. District Attorney Young of Brooklyn called and suggested the name of Edmund Wetmore, a New York lawyer, as good New York gubernatorial timber.

IN THE LABOR WORLD
The British trade union congress this year will open in Sheffield on Sept. 12.

Philadelphia street car men now have a women's auxiliary which has a membership of 6000.

A permanent arbitration board has been appointed for five years to deal with longshoremen's disputes at Montreal, Can.

Birmingham, Ala., is making great preparations to entertain the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which meets there in October.

The Japanese laborers on the California fruit farms are organizing. They have a union of 2000 in one county alone, and a fixed minimum wage scale at $3 a day of nine hours.

The founder of the Window Glass Workers' association, L. Michels, died recently. He called together the first labor union convention in the United States in Pittsburgh 32 years ago.

The Arkansas State Federation of Labor is active in urging upon the people of that state an amendment to the constitution providing for the initiative referendum. It is forming clubs for the purpose throughout the state.

The trade unionists of Los Angeles, Cal., have organized a union labor party and are preparing to enter the field of politics. It is expected by the leaders of the movement to exercise labor's power in the city and county elections.

Protests from all parts of the state are being telegraphed to St. Louis, Mo., against the signing of the proposed contract for the sale of 2100 Missouri convicts for four years at the rate of 70 cents a day to a combination of prison labor contractors.

The attempt to amalgamate the two principal unions of railway workers in Great Britain has failed. The General Railway Workers union definitely refused the proposal that it should combine with the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants.

The American Federation of Labor, which is organizing the sugar refinery employees, has just issued charters to three newly formed unions with a total membership of 1000. The refinery workers are endeavoring to obtain a minimum wage scale of 18 cents an hour.

The Associated Blacksmiths of Great Britain have made a request of the federated employers for an advance in wages, which means the registration of a reduction enforced last year. The blacksmiths are negotiating for an amalgamation of other kindred societies, so as to have one united association.

An agreement has been made between the United Brewery Workers' union of Boston and the United States Brewers association by which the employers will submit to the union for consideration a plan of liability insurance for the workmen. It is the first plan of the kind between an employers' association and the union of employees.

Recent investigations in Egyptian history disclosed the details of labor difficulties at Thebes in the year 1400 B. C. The strike was very similar to that going on today. It was in the building trades, and the strikers were workmen. They were paid in rations at the end of the month, and they claimed that these were insufficient to sustain them and their families until the following payday.

DEATHS AFTER 40 YEARS
TROY, Kan., Aug. 5.—For the first time in forty years Dr. Leland's precinct in Vanhook county failed to elect him county treasurer. A young insurance agent, Ernest Williams, defeated Mr. Leland Tuesday with a majority of twenty-three votes.

After unavailing efforts to keep William from running against him, Leland spent a number of days before the primary a thorough personal campaign. The fight was so warm that his politics was almost forgotten, and at the Troy precinct more republican votes were cast than were voted two years ago when Leland was running for governor.

GIRL MAY DIE

Alleged That She Was Shot Twice by Buffalo Man

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A special from Rochester says:
"Ruth Richards, aged 18, daughter of a farmer at Warren Corners, N. Y., is lying dangerously wounded from bullets fired into her mouth and left lung by Frank Ranney of Buffalo. The girl and Ranney Thursday evening went riding, Ranney inviting the girl to an outing. They quarreled and Ranney confessed when she resented his action to kiss her, he shot her, first in the mouth and then through the lung. KANSAS GELDING SEKS A FORTUNE EXPLOSION ON BOAT

Has Things All His Own Way Man Was Left on a Train 52 Years Ago Two Men Dead and Several Others Were Badly Injured

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Rather tame racing was furnished by the Grand Circuit horses that performed here yesterday. This was something of a disappointment to another large crowd, as the program had the free-for-all pacers as a headliner.

Canada's crack side-wheeler, The Earl, was absent when the roll was called, and neither Darkey Hal nor Alleen Wilson was able to give the big Kansas gelding, Giffline, any sort of a battle. Miles in 2:03 1/2, 2:04 1/2, disposed of the mares, and it looked to be just a nice jog for the son of Ondine, who carried most of the money that was wagered on the result.

Giffline drew the pole and did not lose it, a brush at the word giving him a daylight lead before getting into the turn in both heats.

The veteran William ("Knapsack") McCarthy pulled down two first monies, one with Nancy Boyce in the 2:09 trot, which was conceded to the big black Alleen mare as soon as her entry was made public, and the other fell to Annette R., a daughter of Alleen, entirely overlooked in the speculation.

This was in the 2:15 trot, in which Alleen, the favorite, turned up late and could only go one heat. McCarthy's entry did not show until after the Austrian bred, English-owned Dora appeared to have the money won by outracing the big field twice in 2:13 1/2, 2:15 1/2.

The foreigner blew up going away in the third heat and then Annette came through winning in 2:13 1/2, 2:12 1/2, 2:16 1/2. The 2:15 pace, which was won by Hallie Lee, was a very decided one-sided affair like the 2:09 trot.

The finish of the 2:07 pace started Wednesday was worth seeing. Ella Ambulator, under one of Murphy's best drivers, just nosed out Walter Hal and Earl Jr. in 2:05 1/2—a splendid mile, as the wind blew a gale, breasting the horses up the back stretch.

The gray son of Walter Direct out-gained the mare in the fourth heat, making the last end in 30 seconds, with no help from his youthful driver. Yesterday afternoon Trainer Will Andrews, acting for John Hall of Lexington, Ky., sold the three-year-old trotter Eva Tanguay, 2:10 1/2, by Peter the Great, to the Glenmore stables of Goshen, N. Y.

The price paid was $10,000. Glenmore stable is the racing name of Robert Goetz and John R. Townsend. The summary:

A BIG SHORTAGE
In Annual Food Supply in Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Commercial movements of live stock and meat products for the first half of 1910, as reported to the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, to some extent reflect the shortage of the animal food supply in the country.

While the June movements were in most cases heavier than for the earlier months, the record for the first half of the year, 1910, receipts of 2,959,994 head, of the total 65,187,910 head were cattle; 101,400 head, calves; 1,582,692 head, hogs; 653,638 head, sheep; and 20,231 head, horses and mules. This June receipts of hogs, while decidedly higher than in either of the three preceding months, still continue much below the average for like periods in earlier years, while the cattle figures exceed the corresponding 1909 and 1908 totals.

The shortage in the commercial supply of live stock is best seen from a comparison of the half yearly figures, which totaled 16,463,756 head in 1910, compared with 16,081,725 head in 1909, and 20,820,893 head in 1908. The loss of over 2 1/2 million head, as compared with 1909, is due almost entirely to the smaller number of hogs brought to market. Assuming that the average six months' receipts for the last five years at the seven primary markets represent the normal commercial supply, the shortage in hog receipts thus far in 1910 is almost 25 per cent. However, the larger average weight of the animals reported for the present year offsets, to some extent, the loss in numbers. The distribution of this loss in hog receipts is far from uniform. Chicago shows a loss of 31 per cent, as compared with the above average; Kansas City, a loss of 26 per cent; Omaha, a loss of 20 per cent, and St. Louis, a loss of only 1 per cent.

The curtailment in the commercial supply of cattle is less pronounced, the six months' receipts for the present year being about 6 per cent below the average half yearly receipts for the preceding five year period. It should be stated, however, that the cattle figures for Omaha and St. Louis include the receipts of calves, inasmuch as the six months' receipts of calves for the present year at the five markets which report them separately were over 22 per cent larger than the average six months' receipts for the preceding five year period. It follows that the receipts of cattle at the seven leading markets were really lower than stated above, and the losses, as compared with earlier years, correspondingly larger. As compared with the above average, the receipts of sheep at the seven leading markets, 3,520,256 head, show a loss of over 11 per cent. It is noteworthy that the decline in the supply of sheep began after 1906, that of cattle after 1907, and that of hogs after 1908.

Live stock receipts for June at the four principal Atlantic seacoast cities, 519,754 head, were larger than for any other month of the year, though falling short of the June, 1909 and 1908, totals of 565,576 and 920,236 head, respectively. The aggregate live-stock receipts at these four cities for the first half of the year, 3,865,290 head, likewise show a decided decline from the corresponding 1909 and 1908 figures of 4,657,050 and 1,805,936 head. Here also the largest loss is shown in receipts of hogs, while the number of calves marketed shows a substantial increase over the figures of earlier years. The six months' supply of hogs at the four seaboard markets, 1,636,304 head, fell about 20 per cent below the average six months' figures for the preceding five years. The largest receipts of hogs are in the case of the principal interior markets, are shown for the first six months in 1908. The number of sheep marketed at these four markets during the first half of the year, 1,281,245 head, likewise indicate a continuous decline since 1906.

The shipments during June of packing-house products from Chicago, 176,320,556 pounds, were the largest monthly total for the year, though falling below the June, 1909 and 1908 shipments of 185,685,096 and 204,834,206 pounds. The six months' figures for 1910, 993,953,375 pounds, for the first time during the more recent period fell below 1 billion pounds and were almost 20 per cent below six months' average for the preceding five years. The largest item of shipment for the six months, fresh beef, 418,288,600 pounds, showed a gain of over 50 million pounds over the 1909 figures. As compared, however, with the average six months' shipments of this article during the preceding five years, a loss of over 13 per cent is shown. The shipments during the same period of cured meats, 294,423,460 pounds, show a loss of 20 per cent when compared with the average for the above period. The quantities of canned meats, 29,387,625 pounds in the 6 months of 1910, have not yet regained the ground lost since 1906. The 6 months' shipments of lard, 125,739,800 pounds, show a loss of over 30 per cent when compared with the average for the six months' period of the 5 preceding years.

A decline of over 25 per cent is shown in the eastward movement from Chicago of provisions, which are stated as 446,435 tons for the first six months of 1910, as compared with an average of over 600,000 tons for the corresponding months of the preceding five years.

The export trade in live animals and meat products reflects the same downward tendency. Thus the foreign shipments of cattle, which as late as the fiscal year 1905 comprised 349,210 head, fell during the fiscal year just ended to 130,438 head. The quantity of fresh beef exported fell from 201,154,105 pounds in 1908 to 75,729,556 pounds in the fiscal year just ended. The quantities of hog products exported show even heavier decreases. Thus foreign shipments of bacon which comprised 24,139,929 pounds in 1908 went down to 152,163,107 pounds in 1910; hams and shoulders, and 769,634 pounds in 1908 to 146,856,335 pounds in 1910; fresh, canned and pickled pork from 170,837,427 pounds in 1908 to 45,113,899 pounds in 1910, and lard from 603,413,770 pounds in 1908 to 282,927,571 pounds in 1910.

The stocks of meat at the end of June held in five principal stockyard centers, 197,870,550 pounds, show some increase since January of the present year, though compared with the five-year average for the same date, a decrease of over 40 per cent is shown.

When he started upon the search for his relatives he learned that when he was between six and seven years old, or just at the close of the Civil war, a tall, dark stranger, who looked very much as he looks now, made inquiries in Jersey City for an abandoned baby. He called upon Dr. Lusk, and the doctor, who had promised Mr. and Mrs. Molyneux that he would never disclose the history or their adopted son, misled him and sent him away without enlightening him. The man said he must find the child or the record of his death in order to settle up a big estate in Washington.

The dead are: STEPHEN CALLAHAN, fireman.

ROBERT LAING, fireman.

The seriously injured: Michael Bennett.

Several others were slightly scalded. The accident occurred off Castle Island, and as soon as the steam was shut off Callahan, Laing and Bennett were removed to a tugboat and taken to the hospital on Long Island. Laing died soon after reaching the hospital and Callahan an hour later.

The passengers on the boat were considerably alarmed by the escaping steam for a short time, but there was no panic and they remained on board while the boat was being towed to her wharf. The Satellite was not badly damaged.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Two persons were killed and several injured in the explosion of a steamship on the fishing excursion steamer Satellite as she was proceeding down the harbor yesterday. The injured were landed at once at one of the city hospitals.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Abandoned in a carpet bag fifty-two years ago, when he was but nine days old, Alfred Sommers Molyneux, of No. 655 Grove street, Jersey City, has determined to devote the remaining years of his life if necessary to clearing up the mystery of his birth.

Molyneux is the name he got from his adopted parents, Henry and Betsy Molyneux, who took him into their home to replace a son who was born the day he was found, September 10, 1858, and died the next day. Both his adopted parents are now dead. While they lived Molyneux respected their wishes and did not attempt to solve the mystery of his birth. It was not until he was twenty-eight years old that he even knew that he was not their own son.

He was then told how the carpet bag, fitted with air holes, in which he was left to his fate, had been found aboard a train on the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

A man and a woman had boarded the train at Princeton Junction. They occupied separate cars. The man carried the carpet bag. He left the train before it reached Perth Amboy ferry, and the bag was found beneath the seat he had filled. There were no cries from the bag, a sleeping potion having been given the child.

There were some six hundred or more passengers who took the ferry to New York City. Among them was a Mrs. King, of Jersey City, who took the baby to her home. The following day Dr. Lusk, her physician, told her of the loss of the Molyneux, and his fear that Mrs. Molyneux would not survive unless she had a child to replace her dead baby.

Molyneux believes that one of his parents was English, and that he was born at Washington. He also has reason to believe that he was heir to considerable wealth.

When he was twenty-three years old, Frederick Payne, brother of Mrs. Molyneux, asked him one day to sign two papers, which he said were applications for a position at Washington for a friend. After he had signed Molyneux became suspicious and asked to see the papers. Payne ordered him from the office.

Molyneux attempted to compel Payne, through proceedings in the court of chancery, to disclose the nature of the papers he signed, but because he could not swear that he had suffered properly from the effort failed.

For over twenty years Molyneux has been employed by the Lackawanna railroad, and he now holds a responsible position at the shops at Hoboken. He married Anna Elch in 1898.

Both General Weyler, the captain-general of Cuba, and Count Sagasta, the minister of the interior, will go to San Sebastian to be in immediate charge in case of disorder.

NO SPECIAL TRAINS
BILBAO, Aug. 5.—Since the government has ordered the railroad companies not to furnish special trains for the proposed demonstration at San Sebastian Sunday, the Catholic adherents are already commencing to leave for the summer capital upon the ordinary trains. Feeling in the city runs high. The committee which is organizing the demonstration today sent a telegram of protest to the king against the interference of the authorities with the manifestation and also issued a statement urging their followers individually to telegraph similar messages to King Alfonso. A telegram of sympathy was also sent to the pope.

Double header at Lawrence today.

Double header with Lawrence at Lowell tomorrow.

With Jim Bannon managing Lawrence and Tom Bannon managing Haverhill there'll be need for more than two umpires in the game.

Muddy grounds were responsible for yesterday's lay-off.

Perritt, the Lawrence outfielder, has been released. He was fast in spots.

"Where, oh where is Billy Burke?" waits the Lynn item. At last accounts he was turning out the finest Egyptian cotton underwear in the world. Try the Lawrence hosiery.

Here's hoping Tom Bannon makes good.

Now if the team will take three of the next four games from Lawrence all will be forgiven. They certainly gave the public a punk exhibition Wednesday.

Because Lowell was shown up badly by Worcester Wednesday it doesn't follow by any means that the team is no good. Such is not the case, for Lowell has a good team, only it had an off day Wednesday.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

At Graniteville Wednesday evening, for like the great northwest Graniteville goes in for twilight baseball. The Regulars defeated the Jolly Campers of Lowell by a score of 10 to 4.

Duckworth, Lowell and Hanson did the battery work for the Regulars, while Holstein and Spinner were in the points for the campers. A return game will be played between these two clubs on next Monday afternoon. Game called at 6 p. m.

The Meteors would like to arrange a game with any 17 or 18 year old team for Saturday, Aug. 13. Send all challenges to I. Gerson, 27 Daly street, City.

The Lineouts who have made quite a name for themselves by winning 10 straight games in the City league will cross bats with the Pelham A. C. on Saturday afternoon.

Saturday afternoon the Palmers and the South Ends meet for a purse of $25. There is an end of some into details about what happens when two rival teams from the South End get together. Game called at 3 p. m.

The Y. M. C. A. third team will play the O. M. L. Cadet Juniors at Millbrook Village Saturday afternoon. Players are requested to be at the grounds at 2 o'clock.

Next Saturday afternoon on the Allen street grounds the Dixwells and O. M. L. Cadets of the Lowell and Saburam leagues will meet in what promises to be a fast game.

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—With the teams in that there will be nothing to it, as the big leagues, hearing the home team Sox have shown that they can more stretch the fans are boiling with hope than hold their own with the Tigers for their favorite clubs. Although the Philadelphia has a nice lead, the good work of the Boston Speed Boys has given them a lead in the American league. The Sox are the fans here great hope that Patsy Donovan's crew will get force the Quakers to give up first place. And if this batting and fielding like trends. This can be done many experts here believe Speaker is now at the heels of Lajoie and Cobb for the batting honors of the American league. Bill Carrigan, the Red Sox star catcher, is also hitting the ball at a great rate, besides putting up a sterling game behind the bat. Pitcher Joe Wood is displaying good form in the box this season. Taken all in all, the race in the Ban Johnson league promises to be as close as it was last year.

MAN ASSAULTED

He is Believed to be a Black Hand Victim

BEVERLY, Aug. 5.—Antonio Caligherie, about 35 years of age, is at the Beverly hospital, his name is on the dangerous list and it is suspected he is a victim of the Black Hand society, which it is said is doing considerable work in this section.

About 3 yesterday afternoon Caligherie, who came from Boston to this city last Tuesday, took a stroll into the woods, and while there he was attacked by three men, who he claimed tried to rob him, throwing him to the ground and hitting him over the head with the end of a revolver, after which they cut him in several places with a knife. They made their escape into the woods and have not since been seen.

After the men had made their escape Caligherie started out of the woods into Elliott street, bleeding from head and face quite badly and when near the Elliott street railroad crossing he was taken into an automobile driven by William L. Wood, a well known business man of this city, and carried to the police station.

Patrolman Joseph M. Clayton, who was on duty at the station at the time, sent for Physician David C. Coleman, who dressed the man's wounds and ordered him removed to the hospital, where further examination was made as to the extent of his injuries, which are considered serious. He received a deep cut in the back of the neck, several cuts about the face and a severe cut on the head received with the end of a revolver.

Patrolman Timothy Foley was sent to the scene of the assault and about 300 feet in the woods from Green street was found a pool of blood. An effort was made to try and locate the suspected robbers, but no trace of them could be found. A number of Italian houses were visited by the police along Randall, Elliott and Park streets.

Bruce Bright, the 11-year-old son of James Bright of Green street, stated to the police that he was in the woods some distance away from the scene of the assault and heard a shot from a revolver and on his way home passed the place of the assault, discovering a pool of blood, and when he reached the street saw Caligherie badly cut about the face and making his way for the center of the city. The police are trying to locate the men.

Only a few months ago some unknown person or persons entered the Italian shanty on the D. N. Lincoln estate at Fridge crossing and robbed the Italians of all of their belongings.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER

Was on Porch to Meet Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—John D. Rockefeller yesterday was served personally with summons to appear in court in the suit for $550,000 damages brought against him and the Standard Oil company at Findlay, O., last week by Thomas B. Kelly and others.

Deputy Sheriff Halloran took the summons to Forest Hill, the Rockefeller home. Gatekeeper Pat Lynch sent the deputy on to the house in a carriage.

Mr. Rockefeller was standing on the front porch when Halloran arrived. He cordially shook the officer by the hand, and asked him into the house.

The carriage was again placed at Halloran's disposal when he made ready to leave. He declined, saying he would rather walk and get a good look about the grounds.

"O, if you want to walk," said Mr. Rockefeller, "go this way. It is much prettier."

He accompanied Halloran a short distance. The petition in the case recites that through the monopoly of the oil business the Standard Oil company has caused the complainants to lose the amount sued for.

LABOR MARKET

IS REPORTED TO BE NORMAL

As viewed by the state free employment office the labor market is normal for this season. The demand for summer hotel help the past month has been excessive, with only a limited supply available.

A slight decrease is noted in the demand for industrial help. Manufacturers are not taking on many additional employees because of fear of over production.

The demand for stenographers and bookkeepers as substitutes during the vacation months is fairly brisk, with a reasonable supply. There is a decrease in the demand for female factory help. While a considerable number of building tradesmen are idle, the number is not as large as last year at this time. There is a slightly less demand for machine shop and factory hands.

Statistics for the past month, issued by the bureau last evening, show the number of applications for employment as 1795 men and 300 women, a total of 2095, an increase of 10.40 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

The number of persons applied for by employers was 1132 men and 763 women, a total of 1895, an increase of 30.32 per cent over July, 1909. The number of offers of positions was 3578, an increase of 26.79 per cent, and the number of positions reported filled was 1371, an increase of 16.23 per cent over the same month a year ago.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

I Continue Today and Tomorrow My Remarkable Mid-Summer Clearing Offer

The enthusiastic response to my announcement in last Wednesday's Citizen dumfounded me. I expected business—big business—because the extraordinary values and prices demanded nothing less—and to say that my expectations were realized doesn't do justice. I am overwhelmed.

From all over Lowell and suburbs men have called to see these goods. I have yet to meet the man who did not admit it to be the finest suit for anything like the price ever offered through regular channels of trade. I have yet to produce an offer that approaches it in popularity.

Get one on my recommendation.

Was Voted to Andrew Carnegie

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Andrew Carnegie was voted a gold medal by the Pan-American congress, now in session in Buenos Ayres, according to a dispatch received yesterday by John Barrett, director of the international bureau of American republics.

The medal was awarded because of Mr. Carnegie's prominence as a "benefactor of humanity," and it will be the joint gift of all the republics of the western hemisphere.

It was announced also in the same dispatch that the question of an international celebration of the opening of the Panama canal had been left to the governing board of the bureau of American republics, composed of the diplomatic representatives of the various South and Central American countries and presided over by the secretary of state.

WANTS $10,000

"LITTLE SUNSHINE POETESS" ALLEGES CRUEL TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Miss Alice Hallows, known as "The little sunshine poetess of America," who has numbered among her friends several ex-presidents of the United States, has filed a damage suit for $10,000 against Clarence L. Gilpin, a young Maryland farmer, charging cruel treatment.

One year ago Wednesday Miss Hallows, according to the papers filed, was visiting her sisters at Sandy Springs, Md. When she refused to leave she says that Gilpin was asked to take her to Washington, and charged that she was forced into a closed carriage and the door tied, in spite of her struggles and screams.

POLICE GUARD

WILL BE PROVIDED FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

SAINT PAUL, Minn., Aug. 5.—When Theodore Roosevelt arrives in Saint Paul on September 5th, to speak to the second national conservation congress, he will be guarded by the police as carefully as he would be if he were still president. Every precaution will be taken to see that he is fully protected from the crowd that will be near him all the time during his stay in the city.

As president, Col. Roosevelt always was under the eyes of at least four secret service men whenever he was surrounded by a crowd. He didn't like the idea of being guarded and used to try to avoid it, but the keen-eyed slouches stick closely to him and were ever alert for his safety. Now that he is a private citizen, he does not have this body-guard and it falls to the lot of the police of the cities he visits to furnish proper protection.

Following a conference with members of the local committee on arrangements, Chief of Police John J. O'Connor of Saint Paul began working on a plan which, when perfected, will result in Col. Roosevelt being under the care of the guardians of the law from the minute he steps into Saint Paul until the minute he leaves the city. The best men on the city's force will be on hand all the time. They will not be in evidence as they will be in civilian clothes, but it will be their duty to see that there is a clear passage for the former president. These precautions are not taken with any thought of danger of attack on Col. Roosevelt, who is a favorite in Saint Paul, but there are always people in great crowds who want to shake the hand of the former president. There are others who would have a word or two with him on some subject or other. Should he stop ten seconds with each of these, there would be little time left for him to speak and attend the functions planned for him.

Upon his arrival in Saint Paul, Col. Roosevelt will be met at the Union station by Governor Eberhart, as many of the governors of other states as have arrived, cabinet members, Gifford Pinchot, the reception committee of the National Conservation congress and the welcoming committee, composed of members of Saint Paul's commercial and civic organizations.

While these dignitaries and organizations will attract attention, the center of interest will be in the original Roosevelt club, a Saint Paul organization which is known all over the country. Every member of the club has promised to be present to welcome the former chief executive and act as his escort wherever he goes.

The plans as now made include a visit by Col. Roosevelt to the Minnesota State Fair grounds, where he will make a brief speech. Then he will return to the new Saint Paul hotel, where a suite will have been specially prepared for him. In the afternoon he will deliver the main speech before the congress in the auditorium. After he has delivered his address, Col. Roosevelt will return to the Saint Paul hotel, where, if present plans are carried out, an informal reception will be held. In the evening he will depart for Milwaukee.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Carlisle's Dogtown Vaudeville company, including "Tom," the world's greatest talking pony, will furnish the free amusement and sensation at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening next week. They are regarded as one of the most wonderful troupe of performing animals in the country, and their almost human intelligence is the marvel of all who have watched them.

The dogs, to the delight of the children as well as the grownups, will perform remarkable tricks. They imitate human beings. For example, one of the dogs goes out shopping and feels as much perplexity in the duty as any Lowell housewife. Another meets a window with all the grace of a charming young actress in one of Mr. Flynn's musical comedies. Still another assumes the role of a policeman and arrests a dishonest brute whom he considers a tramp. Dogtown is in fact just like any other town and the stage is set so as to give it a true village appearance. Toward the close of the act musical selections are rendered by the Dogtown quartet, the only dogs in the world playing perfect music on staff bells.

As the dogs please the children and entertain the older folks, so will the ponies. Chief among the ponies is "Tom," who actually talks. He talks in a language peculiar to ponies and his words cannot be translated directly into English, but there is not the slightest doubt that everyone in the audience will understand every syllable he utters. He has a most intelligent face, and if any pony possesses brains like human beings it is certain he does. Much of the fun in watching the dog-pony drama is in interpreting what Tom says.

The show in Dogtown is all free.

HE DRANK LIQUOR THAT HE FOUND AT CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Francis P. Mulcahy, 9 years old, son of John Mulcahy of 26 Beaneham street, Everett, was found in a helpless condition on Main street, Charlestown, about 8.10 last evening by Patrolman Webb, suffering from the effects of liquor.

The child was carried to the Reiter hospital in the patrol wagon, in which he relieved himself of some of the liquor in his stomach.

For the past two days the boy has been staying with his aunt, Mrs. Julia Donovan of 206 Main street, with whom he was left until the return of his mother from Connecticut, where she went to attend a funeral.

Boys with whom young Mulcahy played yesterday afternoon informed the police that Mulcahy found the liquor in his home.

Mrs. Donovan was notified of his condition. She called at the Reiter hospital at 10 last night and took the lad home.

BURIED AT SEA

CAPTAIN ATWOOD WANTED TO BRING WIFE'S BODY HOME

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—After carrying out the dying wishes of his wife that her body be brought to her old home at Cape Cod or sunk in the ocean, Capt. E. H. Atwood of Provincetown arrived here yesterday as a passenger on the steamship Verona from Jamaica. Ruby Foster Atwood, Capt. Atwood's wife, succumbed to heart trouble at Port Antonio on July 28. The body was placed in a hermetically sealed casket, which was secured to the deck of the Verona.

Capt. Atwood had decided to bring the body to be interred in the family lot at Wellfleet. It became necessary, however, to bury the body at sea, and on Aug. 1, when the Verona was in lat. 30 degrees 45 minutes north, lon. 72 degrees 5 minutes west, the sad ceremony of a sea burial took place. The Verona, with her colors half-mast, was hoisted to the dead.

Capt. Atwood has been stationed at Port Antonio for some time and his wife's death occurred at his home there. She was 57 years of age.

AN EXPERT'S OPINION OF SKIN DISEASES

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. A. W. Dow's will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Perhaps you have noticed it, and then again perhaps you have not, but most of the auto accidents happen on the way home. There's a reason.

We notice automobile factories starting up from time to time in various parts of the country. Why can't our board of trade do something towards starting one in the city of Lowell?

Anything which tends to reduce the chances of accidental drownings in our canals and rivers should be worthy of serious consideration. There are several spots, particularly those bordering on our canals, which could be made safer by the expenditure of a small sum for fencing. Why not do it now and not wait until it is too late?

IT'S BOUND TO COME

Owners of real estate have come to the conclusion that either the cost of building material and labor must come down or rents must go up. Meanwhile a vast amount of building that ought to be done in the business and residential sections awaits the settlement of this most important question.

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP

Before you decide to buy an automobile be sure that you can afford to pay for it and also pay for the expense of running it. Many have found to their sorrow that they forgot several important items when they concluded to go into the ranks of the automobilists. If you find it necessary to mortgage your house to get the money to pay for an auto, stop right there. You cannot afford to buy one or to own one or to run one.

COMPOUNDING A FELONY

After every bank robbery or defalcation nowadays we hear hints about compromising the offence with the bank officials. This trick is about played out, and it is time a law was enacted to prevent it altogether. We had a specimen of this sort of compounding when our last great bank robbery was perpetrated in Lowell. Something of the kind was done at that time and no one was punished, although they got away with a good share of the swag. But what is more, if rumors are true, the fellows who made away with the swag from our local bank, were not the only ones who soaked the institution, although the second crop of raiders are said to have done their job on strictly legal lines. But let us have no more of these legal or illegal bank robberies without complete criminal proceedings. When the law is violated no one should be permitted to profit in any way by conniving at the escape of the violators.

THE STATE MILITIA

Of late we hear many people poking fun at the militia men who recently went into camp, intimating that they were simply playing soldier. If the time should ever come when a local mob got beyond police control these very people would be the first to cry out, "Where is the militia?" People are very apt to forget that in the final crisis the state militia is the only force that stands between them and the horrors of mob rule. For some reason or other the state militia never receives the consideration to which it is entitled. What would the citizens of this commonwealth do if all our young men should refuse to go into the militia? They would certainly be in a serious predicament. Perhaps they would then have a little more respect for the men who, filled with patriotism, come forward to give their time, their service and if necessary their lives to protect the citizen in his civil rights and to uphold the power and dignity of the state and the majesty of the law. Let us have less scoffing and more respect for the young men of the state militia.

ADVANTAGE OF TECHNICAL TRAINING

No one who has traveled in the old country, particularly in manufacturing districts, can have failed to notice the general distribution of technical knowledge among workmen in nearly every craft. This is especially the case in France and Germany where apprentices in nearly every trade are obliged to have some technical training before they are enrolled as an apprentice. This is a great advantage to any man working at a trade. We have too many workmen in this country who know that by mixing two substances together certain results will follow, but they have not the technical education to know why. The European craftsman understands the chemical properties of every substance he handles and therefore makes fewer mistakes than the average American artisan who trusts to luck, and when he gets into trouble sends for a chemist or scientifically trained man to get him out of his dilemma. Our educators have been gradually awakening to the necessity of technical training in all branches of industry and are establishing schools in various parts of the country to give our young men the necessary training to perfect them in the various crafts to which they aspire. If this system is followed persistently it will not be long before the American in every craft will be superior of his brethren in the old country. Our local textile school is a good illustration of the new policy. A young man graduating from the Lowell Textile school has a great advantage in any of our factories over one who has confined his education to mere observation and practice in the mills. No man can dye cloth successfully without knowing the chemical nature of the dye stuff he handles. No man can spin or weave fabrics of beautiful designs without having some idea of art designing as well as a knowledge of the intricacies of the delicate and complicated mechanism which produces these goods. The old days of guess work are gone by. Everything is done nowadays according to rule and the manufacturer or workman who has the best technical knowledge is the man who is most likely to be successful in producing marketable fabrics as well as the various other products of our wonderfully diversified industries.

SEEN AND HEARD

The east winds hug the earth more closely and gather moisture, dust and bacteria. They are cold and humid, altogether forming an enervating influence on human and animal life and rendering it susceptible to the disease germs which the winds carry and disseminate.

The cool, pure, northwest winds come from a region of dry, highly electrified air where ozone exists in comparatively large quantities. They are invigorating. The framework of nerves in the human being is like a delicate electrical apparatus, the nerves being the wires and the brain and ganglia receiving and distributing centres.

Everyone knows that a telephone works better on a clear, dry day than on a wet, muggy one. The moist atmosphere lessens vitality. The nerve wires grow placid and heavy. The messages become confused. Hence low spirits, melancholia, distorted mental outlook, faulty assimilation, and disease.

The opposite effects flow from the northwest winds. The west and northwest winds keep the mucous membranes of the body in good working order. The coating of moisture which is always present with the east wind disappears. Absence of any wind if long continued has a bad effect on the human body and mind.

A prolonged calm means lack of ventilation on a great scale. The winds served to mix in normal proportions the gases which compose the atmosphere, and in this way they are conducive to health up to a certain point. Beyond about twenty miles an hour their influence begins to be unfavorable. Chicago Tribune.

PUBLIC OPINION

If we all did as others think we should, Would this old world be better off or worse?

The question is an interesting one. Deserving, maybe, sixteen lines of verse.

If we all did as others think we should,

Alas! all others do not think alike. And if we started out to please them all,

We very soon would want to go on strike.

If we all did as others think we should—

Let others come to an agreement first.

And then we may consider their ideas. And find, maybe, that ours are not the worst.

Meanwhile, we'd better do as we think best.

And let the others think whatever they please.

The man who aims at pleasing everyone

Will not find life a flowery bed of ease.

For the Benefit of Women Who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. J. Moulton, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we know it is genuine.

One hundred and eighty under-graduate students of the University of Vienna are to sail for this country this week to sing here in public. In addition to these young members of the Academic Singing Society, we would call it a glad club over here—seventy graduates will accompany them. The company will start from Vienna on August 6, arrive in New York August 22 and give the concert at Carnegie hall on August 23. The society will be quartered at the Plaza Hotel in New York, and will be entertained by the Arion society.

On the day after the New York concert the society will go to Boston and thence to Beverly to be received by President Taft. Visits to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia will follow. The return trip will begin on August 31 on the Pennsylvania for Hamburg. The students will all wear in this country the student dress of the university of Vienna. This consists of white trousers, high boots, a velvet tunic and a cap. To this attire is added an appropriate order of sash with other insignia to indicate the particular college corps to which the wearer belongs.

REPRIEVE FOR WYNNE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Through a presidential reprieve, announced yesterday, John Wynne, an officer employed on the U. S. S. Rosecrans, at Honolulu, Hawaii, who was sentenced to be hanged on September 5, will not execute the crime of which he was convicted until 90 days after the date fixed for the execution.

Wynne killed Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon, who he harassed was trying to make him lose his position. Wynne was intoxicated and killed the officer with a hammer. The reprieve was granted on the ground that the attorney general could not consider this case, as required by law, before the date first fixed for the execution.

It is estimated that the will complete for the grand Chicago handicap on Aug. 31 for which the Chicago Association of Commerce has provided a $200 trophy.

PARK COMMISSION

The park commission is opposed to the expenditure of $3000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground. This much was brought out at a meeting of the commission held last night. The members of the board wanted it understood that they were not adverse to the improvement of the Little Canada playground but, under present conditions, they did not think it feasible or advisable to spend that amount of money.

The matter was introduced by Chairman Pickman. He said the board did not in any way wish to have it appear that the board wanted to direct the work of the city government. "We constitute a different body," he said, "and this matter of appropriating $3000 does not come before us in any way. However, in view of the fact that the money, once appropriated, must be spent under our supervision, we feel that we should say something about the place."

Harvey B. Greene said: "Last year the city government voted the sum of $2000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground and park. Of that amount $1500 was expended and we therefore had a surplus of $500. This we wanted to turn back to the general treasury fund and until tonight we believed that it had been. We find, however, upon consulting the statement relative to the city's finances issued by the city auditor, that the sum of $500 was appropriated this year for the improvement of the Little Canada park."

"We plan to get the street department to dump in dressing during the fall and winter months and thus make a good filling for the place. With the money placed to our credit we can purchase loam and seed and whatever else is needed and I feel we can put the place in good shape." Mr. Greene then discussed the matter and the consensus of opinion was that it be deemed inexpedient to purchase the land from the Locks and Canals corporation for the sum of $70,000. The city is a tenant at will of the land, no lease for years having been given by the corporation. If the corporation desired the land, the city, even after the expenditure of $8000 or any other sum of money, would be obliged to vacate it at once, or else purchase.

Chairman Pickman said, relative to this phase of the situation: "We have no assurance that we can hold the land. We would have to step aside, even after spending the money. This expenditure would not be a good business move, and if $500 will put the place in good condition, as we feel it will at the present time, then no more need be appropriated."

Mr. Parker said that there is at least 15 feet of cinders covering part of the park, while Mr. Hill said it would require at least three feet of loam all over the place in order that anything might grow. The chairman said that it is mighty slow business watching trees grow, and that if some were purchased and set out the corporation might desire the land before the trees had attained any size. It was voted to recommend that the order for $2000 be withheld, inasmuch as $500 at the present time is enough to spend on the place.

The order in question has passed the board of aldermen and is now held up in the common council, on a notice of reconsideration.

CONG. FASSETT

MAKES A PLEA FOR BETTER MERCHANT MARINE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Congressman J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, N. Y., made a plea for a stronger and more efficient American merchant marine in an address here last night. He was speaking before the joint banquet of the Cycle parts and accessories association, the National association of bicycle jobbers, the Motorcycle manufacturers' association and the Bicycle manufacturers' association. Mr. Fassett said in part:

"The best welfare of the present and the future of our country is wrapped up in the restoration of the American merchant marine to something like its former strength and efficiency. Ninety per cent of the markets of the world are reached by salt water. We are the great manufacturing and trading nation. We furnish one-sixth of the over-sea international trade of the world, but we carry less than one-sixtieth."

"We export and import about $4,000,000,000 worth of goods every year and yet in our ships we carry less than eight per cent of it. In other words, of every $100 worth of trade from America to foreign nations, American ships carry $8 worth."

"The United States, which is richer than China and Germany combined, than England and France combined, has less than 100,000 tons of shipping engaged in the over-sea trade in first class steamships, and our merchant marine has been steadily dwindling since 1855. The only country in the world that has a smaller merchant marine than ours is China."

"The members of all our political parties agree that the situation is humiliating. Sooner or later we must overcome this handicap. We must use the same weapons our rivals use."

"We are to spend $500,000,000 of good American dollars for the Panama canal, and yet today we have not a single ship to send through it. We expend $55,000,000 a year on harbors and many millions for 40-foot channels, yet we have not a single American ship requiring a 40-foot channel. Isn't it time now, before it is too late, to spend some money for our own business and for the safety and prosperity of our own country and our own children?"

BUSY SEASON

AT THE NAVY YARD IN CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charlestown navy yard workmen learned yesterday that the navy department has authorized the stay there of the U. S. scout cruiser Salem and the gunboat Grasp for repairs. The Salem will be at the yard possibly two months and her turbine engines will be entirely overhauled and other repairs made.

The gunboat Castine, which was run ashore at Provincetown several weeks ago to prevent her sinking after she had been rammed under water by the submarine Bonita, will remain at the yard during August at least. The puncture in her bottom has been repaired, but it was decided that while the necessary overhauling of her electrical equipment was underway it would be economical to make other changes in electrical appliances.

With the work authorized on the battleships New Jersey and Albatross in reserve at the yard, the battleship Illinois, which is to be reconstructed, and the auxiliaries Ajax and Vestal the prospect for steady employment looks good. The amount of money appropriated to the yard is the only important drawback in the work. Especial economy is being observed in that matter, it is stated.

FORMAL DEMAND

Made for the Extradition of Charlton

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Italy made a formal demand yesterday on the United States for the extradition of Porter Charlton, in jail in Jersey City, charged with the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, at Lake Como. The documents were received at the state department yesterday morning.

Immediately upon their receipt and without opening or examining them, the acting secretary of state returned them to the Italian embassy at Manchester-by-the-Sea, with instructions that they must be forwarded to the court now having jurisdiction over the prisoner. The papers had been sent to the department by the Italian charge d'affaires.

The secretary of state will pass on the case when the court has rendered its decision. The president is the last reviewing officer and court of last resort. He signs the warrant in such cases, turning the prisoner over to the authorities making the demand for extradition.

The department will honor the requisition of the Italian government unless the court rules that Charlton was insane at the time he committed the crime, according to officials high in the administration. While it was admitted that Charlton may not go back, it was also said that only a verdict of insanity by the court could save him. It will probably be months before the matter is settled.

Now that it is decided that there is really no time limit in which a country can make a demand for extradition it is believed counsel for the defense, which includes Judge Phil Charlton, the prisoner's father, will prolong the case.

That an attempt will be made to have the report of the five insanity experts who examined Charlton accepted by the court and have the court refuse the extradition of those grounds and that in turn order the prisoner confined in an insane asylum is the belief here. Judge Charlton refuses to comment on the action taken by Italy, but says he will see that his son receives every legal aid possible.

DROPPED DEAD

While on His Way to Give Evidence

CLAREMONT, N. H., Aug. 5.—Public speaking by passing the place of a sentence to the industrial school given two boys in court here yesterday, charged with taking packages of tobacco from the store of Louis A. Bean, a blind man.

The affair was not all comedy, for when Mr. Bean was notified to appear at court to testify against the boys he started on the way from his grocery store at the lower village, got as far as the store occupied by Mr. Bartlett on Main street and dropped dead. It is reported that he was troubled by heart disease and it is thought that the excitement was too much for him.

Wednesday night the boys who stole the tobacco went into the store and asked for a yeast cake and when Mr. Bean went for it downstairs they took the tobacco and slipped out. Mr. Bean recognized their voices and had Officer Whitney hunt up the case.

Mr. Bean was a native of Bashier, Can., and came to Claremont when 29 years of age, beginning life as a tinsmith. He married and had two children. He became blind 24 years ago and in 1889 he married Della Charlton, having two children from this marriage. He then went to Windsor, Vt., starting a notion store; then to Charlestown in the same business. He bought a farm, but it was too difficult work without his eyesight, so he came back to Claremont 16 years ago, starting the grocery store, where he made considerable money. He owned his own home and the store building.

He was happy, for he had often said: "I never brood over the loss of my eyesight, but look at the many other blessings that God has given me, a loving wife and good children."

DRACUT

A well attended meeting of the Young Men's Republican club of Dracut was held Wednesday night at the Rose company's quarters in the Navy Yard. Ex-Secretary Fred A. Fassett was chosen president of the organization and Hiram E. Linscott will act as secretary. The treasurer is Harold Linscott of Dracut Center.

Arthur W. Colburn, Warren H. Fox and Representative George H. Stevens were appointed a committee to bring in a set of by-laws.

The choice of an executive committee was deferred until the next meeting. Nearly all those present contributed remarks as to the work which the organization had before it and the sentiment was that the organization should be a permanent fixture for accomplishing the success of the party candidates in local as well as state and national elections.

The proposition that the club should hold an outing some time next month met with general favor.

Only Guaranteed Foot Relief

EZ-ALL ONLY FOOT TABLETS WITH COOLING MENTHOL

Now is the time to take special care of the feet if you wish to avoid suffering from corns or callouses, or aching, burning, sweaty, swollen feet the rest of the summer. For the foot sun brings on foot troubles that will stay all through the hot weather unless treated now with Ez-all, the only mentholated foot tablet, hence its cooling powers.

Nearly everybody wears larger shoes than necessary in hot weather, when the feet swell and puff. This can all be avoided and the appearance of the feet be greatly improved by small shoes if the feet are given an Ez-all bath regularly for a week. And the feet will be comfortable and free from stinging, burning and smarting.

Get from your druggist the worth of Ez-all (the only foot remedy sold under guarantee), and the first application will show its wonderful soothing, cooling and healing qualities.

A LANDSLIDE

On the Erie Road Caused the Loss of Three Lives

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A landslide on the Erie railroad five miles west of here caused the wreck of an eastbound fast freight and the loss of three lives. The dead: JAMES J. BRADLEY, engineer, of Port Jervis. HOWARD E. TAYLOR, fireman, of Port Jervis. GEORGE CARPENTER, brakeman, of Jersey City.

The landslide is believed to have been caused by heavy rain which loosened the hillside and caused large quantities of rock to fall down and block the track. The freight hit the obstruction with a terrific impact and was badly wrecked, eight large refrigerator cars being thrown off the track. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene to clear the road.

A STRANGE MAN REV. SR. URSULE

May Have Murdered Little Girl

DENVER, Aug. 5.—A strange man who he says called at the church several times, ostensibly looking for a former janitor, may be responsible for the murder of 8-year-old Alma Kellner, of Louisville, was the statement made last night by Joseph Wendling, charged with the child's murder. Wendling made the statement while enroute to Kentucky from California in charge of detectives. Wendling reiterated that he fled from Louisville to escape from his brother-in-law.

"I was never alone at the church at any time," declared the former janitor of the Louisville Catholic church in which the girl was murdered. "Two or three times a strange man called at the church to see the former janitor who slept in the basement. Once I awoke him down there. The priest knew who he was and he knows too that I was never alone in the church at any time."

TO WED MANICURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A romance between a wealthy clubman and a manicurist became known here yesterday when a license was taken out by Dr. Loren B. Johnson to marry Miss Cecilia Kennedy this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Miss Cecilia Kennedy, it is said, met Dr. Johnson while pursuing her professional duties.

Dr. Johnson belongs to exclusive Washington circles. He is a Metropolitan clubman, a Mayflower descendant and heir to a fortune. His name has been connected several times with notable Washington belles. He was regarded as one of the most eligible of bachelors.

INSURGENTS OF IOWA FOLLOW LEAD OF THEIR KANSAS BRETHREN

The first day of the Iowa republican convention was more of an ovation to the "insurgent" leaders Senators Cummins and Doolittle than to the administration. The regulars were beaten at nearly every point, and, like the situation in Kansas, where Senator Bristow and Representative Murdoch made substantial gains, it seems that the progressives will win the majority of the nomination.

TO OPEN LARGE ORPHAN-AGE IN QUEBEC.

U. S. CONSUL

Rev. Sr. Ursule, of the Gray Nuns, who opened and has developed the French-American Orphanage in Pawtucket street, has been called to Quebec by the mother superior to open a new and large orphanage there. Sr. Ursule came here in September, 1908, and met with great success from the start. She is a woman of exceptional executive ability and hence the demand for her services in Quebec. Her successor will be Rev. Sister St. Beatrice, who has come from Quebec and is now already in charge as superior.

SAYS HE WAS INSULTED BY A WOMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Ethan Allen Weinberg, who says he has been appointed consular agent at Morocco, and who lives at 61 Montrose avenue, Williamsburg, wrote a letter to Magistrate O'Reilly in the Manhattan avenue court yesterday declaring that he was grossly insulted by a woman, Mrs. Phelan, against whom he appeared in court this morning.

If Ethan Allen Weinberg will write his reports as he wrote the letter of complaint, United States manufacturers will get some very interesting reading as soon as Ethan Allen takes up his duties on January first next.

The letter follows: "I have a case of law which no doubt will be tried before your honor, this Friday morning. It is one of insult and slander in public. On Aug. 1 about 5 p. m. I was talking to a young lady on the street within 150 feet of my home. A girl of about 14 years of age, who has quite a reputation as a tough, threw a stone at this girl, striking her in the heel. Apparently not satisfied with this he picked up a petrified apple and threw it also at the girl, staining her silk waist.

"I resented these attacks by cracking him one across the ear, whereupon the defendant, Mrs. Phelan, culled me the most vile names heard. She also incited the children to throw rocks, etc., at me, which they did, destroying my hat. Between yourself as a justice, and I, a representative of the government, do you think that a person of my capacity and standing should remain with being satisfied with such remarks which the defendant passed to the crowd which besieged us? I suffer humiliation in taking this case to court, but I find out that this is the only possible recourse to justice. I would ask you, however, to severely reprimand the defendant when brought before you."

THEATRE VOYONS

No matter how cynical one is once in a while a genuine love story strikes him just right and "An Unexpected Reward" shown at the Theatre Voyons today will come pretty near pleasing everyone. It is the old story of a rich young man much of a cad and a coward at heart, his fiancée whose parents want him to marry, and a common everyday chap with courage and honesty as his principal assets. The heroine nearly drowns and but for the common young man would have while her high-toned lover refuses to risk his precious life. In the end the girl gets her rescue and her former fiancé is turned away. One of the features of the program is a magnificent Fats production of "Cagliostro," a dramatization of Dumas' "Memoirs of a Physician" that is most interesting and incidentally very beautiful in costuming. There are several comedies and a musical program of more than ordinary worth, one of its features being "The Better Land," a beautiful contralto solo sung by Lillian Bates.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

"St. Elmo," this week's production at Lakeview theatre, is a tremendous hit. The crowds keep increasing as the days go by and each day is better than the day before, which is probably due to the excellent presentation given the great book play, and the fact that so many people have read the book and desire to see the play.

All the qualities that make the book so interesting are still retained in the play, nothing of the feeling or virtues has been lost, and the scenic and electrical effects are all that could be desired.

James Thatcher plays the role of "St. Elmo," and does it in a praiseworthy manner as does Florence Farr, who plays "Edna Earle." All the other members of the company are good. Matinees are given every day except Monday at 2:30, and evenings at 8:15. Seats in advance can be secured at Carter & Sherburne's drug store.

CHILD STRUCK BY AUTO

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 5.—Bessie Chomely, 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Chomely, of 12 Chalkstone avenue, was knocked down by an automobile owned and driven by Dr. Max H. Gombert, of Chalkstone avenue, yesterday.

The child was cut about the face and head. She was sent to the hospital. The child was picked up after the accident by Mrs. Merba Goldstein, of 60 Chalkstone avenue and taken into a store.

TROLLEY FIRE FINGER PRINTS

Was Started by an Automobile Led to Capture of Alleged Thief

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Broadway and 34th street saw a 20 minute display of pyrotechnics last night that caused a block at that point.

A few minutes after 10 o'clock an automobile crossing the car tracks of the Broadway line pulled a chain from the rear tire of the machine. The chain wound itself about the hub of the wheel and a piece of it dropped into the slot through which the road wire runs. The chain wedged in the slot, held the auto where it was and the contact with the feed wire started the electrical display.

The auto blocked the southbound tracks and the cars came to a halt. In a short time the block extended to 42d street.

There was a constant display of fireworks as the auto remained anchored. When it was found that nothing about the machine was being damaged and, in some manner, the electric current was in no danger of setting it afire, an effort was made to break the connection by putting power on the machine. The chain held, however.

With the gathering of the crowd came the usual number of persons with suggestions as to the best thing to do. Some suggested attaching another auto to the one that was anchored and trying to move it. This idea did not appeal to the owners of other machines brought to a stop.

REFUSED SALARY INCREASE

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 5.—W. Scott Eames, New Haven's director of public works, has established a precedent in public official life by refusing to accept an increase in his salary.

Mr. Eames was appointed director of public works last January at a salary of $2300 a year. Last night a special committee of the board of aldermen voted to recommend an increase of $500 a year in his salary.

When Mr. Eames heard of the recommendation he said: "I know what the salary and the duties of the director of public works were when I accepted the position. I appreciate the action of the committee in recommending an increase in my salary, but I neither wish nor would I accept any increase in salary."

"There are other public officials whose salaries should be increased before mine. The duties of the director of public works are increasing, and the time will come when the salary should be increased. But I am not in favor of it at present."

FIVE WERE KILLED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 5.—A west-bound passenger train on the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad yesterday crashed into three handcars loaded with Hungarian workmen on a bridge over a canyon east of Snake river. Five of the Hungarians were killed, falling to the ground 200 feet below the bridge. A number of others were injured.

A NEW SKIN REMEDY

That Stops Itching At Once

A peculiar feature of Cadum, the new medical preparation for all skin diseases, is that, when applied, it stops the itching at once and the healing process begins immediately. It also excludes the air, as well as germs and microbes, from the affected parts. This, together with its soothing, healing properties, makes Cadum wonderfully effective in curing Eczema, Salt Rheum, and troubles like Psoriasis, Ringworm, Scaly Skin, Rash, Acne, Herpes, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Blackheads. Trial boxes at all druggists 10c; large boxes 25c.

MAN FOUND DEAD

It Is Thought He Committed Suicide

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 5.—Hugo Broad, a well known artist of this city, was found dead in his studio at 225 Bennett street today with every evidence that he had committed suicide by asphyxiation. Gas was pouring from all four jets and the windows and doors were tightly closed while nearby was a note addressed, "To whom it may concern," in which he made reference to the disposition of his belongings.

Broad was prominent as a portrait painter and many prominent men, including governors and other officials, had sat for him.

No positive reasons are known for his act, but it is believed that he had been worrying over his financial condition.

MILLS TO CLOSE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 5.—Notices were posted in the Everett mill today announcing a shutdown from Friday, Aug. 19, to Tuesday morning, Sept. 6.

Student Then Beat the College Dean

SYRACUSE, Aug. 5.—Herbert W. Faus, commodore of the Syracuse (1909) crew, yesterday assaulted Dean Sheppard, of the Layman C. Smith college of Applied Science at Syracuse university, and then attacked Professor Paul C. Nugent, at the latter's home.

Faus, who is prominent socially on University hill, was not graduated last June as a civil engineer. He was behind in two subjects owing to his athletic and social activities. He has since made up the work under Professor W. P. Graham. When he called on Professor Nugent for a certificate for his diploma it was refused, although Professor Nugent admitted the work was made up, until Professor Graham should telegraph from Canada.

Yesterday afternoon Faus, who comes from Elysburg, Pa., walked into the dean's office for the sheepskin. As it was handed to him he remarked to the dean:

"If you want to see what I think of your instruction and the diploma, I will show you." He then touched a match to the diploma and started to light a cigar with it.

"Don't try that, young man, or there will be trouble," said Dean Sheppard. "Take off your glasses if that is what you mean," shouted Faus to the dean. Dean Sheppard then struck Faus on the nose, drawing blood with a ring on his finger. Then the dean got a severe beating at the hands of Faus.

Dean Sheppard called on men in the office for assistance, but none was offered him. Faus dared him to summon the police.

Leaving the college, Faus went to the home of Professor Nugent and administered a severe beating to him also. News of the battle in the dean's office and at Professor Nugent's created a sensation in the University hill section.

At police headquarters last night it was said no report had been made of the occurrence, and that no warrant had been requested.

STREET PAVING QUESTION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 5.—St. John now has a vigorous controversy over the question of street paving. The inspector, who was looking after the city's interests, has resigned, declaring that material is being used for foundation work that is 50 per cent cheaper than that called for by the specifications. The city engineer contends that the material is all right. The press has been demanding an investigation, but thus far the city council has pinned its faith to the engineer and refuses to take any action.

FAMILY ABSENT

Well Known Boston Salesman
Found Dead in His Home

MEDFORD, Aug. 5.—With friends close by yet ignorant that their help could save a life, Edward M. Pearce, a well known Boston salesman, died in his own home as much alone as if on a desert island and for several days the fact of his death was unknown. Meanwhile his family in ignorance of the plight of the husband and father have been enjoying themselves at some summer place in Maine and as yet the Medford police have been unable to learn their whereabouts to convey the sad news to them.

The body of the unfortunate man was found stretched upon the kitchen floor of his home last night by the police, who had been called in by a fellow employee of Pearce, who had been sent from Boston to learn the cause of his absence from work. From all appearances the man had died in agony, for his head was bent almost at right angles with the body and against the sheathing above the floor, as if he had suffered a fall when taken violently ill and had been unable to move. His face was discolored, indicating that he had probably strangled to death unable to rise.

The Pearce family left the unfortunate man in good health some time ago and left for some Maine summer resort as has been their custom. Mr. Pearce was employed as a salesman by Shreve, Crump & Low, jewelers at 147 Tremont street, Boston. Monday, feeling in ill-health, he left his place of work and went home. From that time he had not been seen nor heard from. Fellow employees, knowing that his family were away and fearing that he was seriously ill, sent one of their number to his home last night. Upon arriving at the house the investigator found that the windows were up and that to all appearances some one was inside. There was no response to the ringing of the door bell nor to the pounding on the door, and as inquiry of neighbors revealed that he had not been seen the police were notified.

A patrolman was detailed to investigate and was horrified to find the body of Mr. Pearce lying as described. Medical Examiner Durrell was notified and viewed the body. He gave the opinion that the man met his death by strangulation after falling on the floor when taken suddenly ill.

SENATOR DICK

Dons the Uniform to Quell Riots

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—The striking car men and the managers of the trolley company having practically agreed to submit their differences to the state board of arbitration, the citizens soldiers to the number of 1500 have been withdrawn, leaving about that many more yet in the city. When the militia was first called out United States Senator Charles Dick donned his uniform as major general and took command of the troops, much to the surprise of Governor Harmon. As soon as Senator Dick and his soldiers appeared on the Columbus streets the rioters dispersed and quiet reigned.

A twisted and tangled heap.

Steeple Broken Off
The steeple of the First Baptist church was also injured, being partly broken off at its base and left in a leaning and precarious position. The St. Mary's society also suffered some damage, the fence about the parish house being torn from its fastenings and scattered about the neighborhood.

On Oak street several chimneys were blown down, the bricks lying in every direction and in some instances smashing through windows where persons escaped injury by the merest chance. At the residence of former City Marshal James T. O'Sullivan, at the corner of Jackson and Haverhill streets, a large tree was blown over and through the parlor window, wrecking the room.

An eight-tenement block at the corner of Elm and Short streets was unroofed, and the roof was found after the storm wrecked in the street 50 yards distant. A skylight was also blown from a house in that neighborhood and was picked up two blocks away.

The majority of the damage was on Valley, Amherst, Bradford, Haverhill, Oak, Elm, Jackson, Short, Summer, Newbury and Pleasant streets.

DAMAGE TO CROPS

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 5.—Western Massachusetts was swept by a series of severe thunder storms yesterday which resulted in serious damage to crops, the burning of several buildings and the shutting off of many of the cities and towns from communication with the outside world for several hours. The rain was exceedingly heavy, and much of the damage was due to this. In North Adams the clouds hung so low that the city became as dark as night by 4 o'clock and shopkeepers and families were obliged to light up to see their way about.

The most serious fire reported was at Southfield, Ct., just across the state line, where a house and two large barns, owned by William J. Wright, were fired by lightning and burned to the ground. Mr. Wright carried not one cent of insurance to cover his loss of upward of $5000. In the town of Northampton a barn belonging to Thomas Ahern was burned to the ground, and several other fires were reported in other sections.

GROOM MISSING GAMBLING LOSS SHELTER HOUSES

And the Wedding Was Called Off

Committee Met and Discussed Them

BROCKTON, Aug. 3.—George A. Tibbitts took out a marriage license at the office of the city clerk July 25, to be married to Miss Elizabeth M. Dalzell, and it was announced that the wedding would take place yesterday afternoon at 5 in St. Edward's church.

Yesterday Miss Dalzell said that the marriage would not take place.

She said: "There is nothing more to say, other than I am not to be married to Mr. Tibbitts today."

At his place of business, it was said that Tibbitts had worked there until Tuesday night and that then he had left without saying a word.

Miss Dalzell was greatly disturbed at the turn of events. When told that it was reported by Tibbitts' employer that he had left his work there and presumably gone away she said:

"He has not disappeared. He is a gentleman. A great deal of what is being said about him is not true. I don't want to say anything, except that there is to be no marriage this afternoon, and I do not mean that much shall be said."

"Where is he?"

"That's my business. As I said I'm satisfied that he is a gentleman."

According to the stories told, Tibbitts had been attentive to Miss Dalzell for some time, and she was engaged to him, but he was not. He probably did take out the license to be married, but that is as far as it went.

Miss Dalzell's cousin is also stated to have been extended attention by Tibbitts.

"Tibbitts has been coming about a month when I began to hear reports about him which I did not like. Finally I refused him permission to come to the house."

"A number of times after that he came, and I sent him out each time. For three months, and I do not think that my daughter has been him. I do not think that they are married, as has been said. But I could not swear that they are not."

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—A suit to recover $40,000, alleged to have been lost at gambling at a club in Watertown by James V. Dignowity, wealthy broker and former Brookline resident, has been brought by his wife, Mrs. Marion Dignowity, who recently brought all divorce proceedings against her husband.

In the suit the defendants are the Frank J. McPeake of Watertown and James P. McPeake as individuals.

Through their attorney, James H. Vane, they have filed an answer denying that the money was lost to them.

They declare that Dignowity never lost money through gambling to the company, nor lost it in any establishment conducted by them and assert that Mrs. Dignowity, on the ground of her charge that her husband had lost the money was lost to them.

James V. Dignowity was known as the "richest man at Harvard" when he attended college. He eloped with Miss Marion St. Clair Whittemore of Chestnut Hill, who is now suing him for divorce. When he first became acquainted with Miss Whittemore she was attending Wellesley college. She was graduated in June, 1906, and shortly afterward the two eloped. They later obtained forgiveness of the young husband's rich father, James V. Dignowity, Sr., of Philadelphia. The parties to the suit will not discuss the action.

CAR DETAINED

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—An Orient Delights tunnel-bound car became detained at the corner of Meridian and London streets, East Boston, about 9:30 last night. There was a delay for about one hour before traffic was restored to normal conditions.

Rebels are being made on Meridian street, necessitating the use of one truck between London and Paris streets. The car jumped the track at one of the switches and both tracks were blocked. Hundreds of persons were affected by the delay.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Heavy earthquake shocks were recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university last night lasting for a period of forty-seven minutes. The shocks began at 8:48 p. m. and continued until 9:33. They consisted of two maximum shocks and a series of lesser disturbances.

Indications were that the center of the disturbance was about 2000 miles from Washington.

Committee Met and Discussed Them

The committee on comfort stations met last night and discussed the proposition for a station in Meridian square. Ald. Ryan and Councilman Gargan were appointed a special committee to confer with Supt. Thomas Lees of the Boston & Northern, relative to the location of a place. They will meet him this evening at 8 o'clock.

Chairman Chapman said he had been over the plans for the shelter houses proposed for the North and South commons with Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings department. He said the plans had been secured from St. Louis, where the shelter houses have been built at a cost of $4000 each. It is proposed to have six shower baths and four closets in each shelter house, and to have a swimming tank in them during the summer. This tank can be converted into a gymnasium, by means of a false floor, in the winter time. In order to install swimming pools in the shelter houses it will be necessary to change the St. Louis plans somewhat. The swimming pools would be 18 feet in length and 26 feet in width, with a depth in the center of six feet. The members of the committee will visit the shelter house in Brookline on Thursday of next week, and will also look over the public sanitary in Boston common on the same day. The committee will meet next Friday night.

CINCINNATI'S POPULATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Cincinnati, O., has a population of 364,162, according to the figures enumerated for the 12th census and made public yesterday by Census Director Durand. This is an increase of 35,561, or 11.8 per cent, as compared with 328,602, the population in 1900.

Other population figures made public yesterday were: Birmingham, Ind., 8338, as compared with 6180 in 1900; and Bingham, Tex., 1841, as compared with 5012 in 1900; Hamden, Conn., 6550, as compared with 1626 in 1900.

DEFENDS WOMAN

Artist Takes Sides With Qualey and Corbett

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—William Funk, a well known artist, of 114 West 42d street, last night went to the defense of John A. Qualey and Prof. Harvey Wiley Corbett, who are accused by the widow of Dr. W. T. Bull of swindling her out of $35,000 through an investment.

Mr. Funk also spoke in warm defense of Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, who interested herself in the Magnesia-Asbestos company through her friendship for Qualey and his wife, and who, Mrs. Bull says, is primarily responsible for her having invested in the company, inasmuch as it was she who introduced the physician's widow to the promoter.

Mr. Funk, who said he is a friend of all parties concerned, including Mrs. Bull, said last night:

"I have as much money in the Magnesia-Asbestos company as Mrs. Bull has, and I am willing to put in more. My friends also have money in the enterprise and Mrs. Bull is the only one I know who is dissatisfied. The trouble is Mrs. Bull expected dividends within a couple of weeks and when she didn't get them she demanded her money back.

"I have money and that of my friends have been in the enterprise for two years. Only two weeks ago I went to Newark and inspected the plant of the company and I was more than pleased. When I came back I called up Qualey and told him I would have more money to invest in the company by October. When asked what Mrs. Hopkins' connection with the Qualey company was, Mr. Funk says that she became financially interested after he and Corbett had had a chemist report on Qualey's claim that he could produce a fine building material from dolomite stone at a remarkably low cost. He denied that Mrs. Hopkins ever used her influence to get others to invest.

Mr. Funk was indignant when shown the report that some years ago Mrs. Hopkins had promised to aid a young woman to make the acquaintance of prominent persons on condition that she have Mr. Funk paint her portrait and that it cost her $8000.

"The story is ridiculous," said Mr. Funk. "In the first place I was only a struggling young artist then, and who ever gave a beginner $8000 for a painting? Mrs. Hopkins and I have been friends for about 15 years. She took an interest in me as she has in many other young men and women who showed talent in any line. She has introduced me to many people, some of whom I may have painted, and I have introduced her to my friends.

"I regard Mrs. Hopkins as the most wonderful woman I ever saw. It is an outrage to insinuate that she boosted an enterprise that was not exactly right. I have a cablegram from her saying that she will return from Europe on the first ship.

"To show you the sort of woman Mrs. Hopkins is, it was she who founded the school of applied design for women, which occupies a beautiful home at 20th street and Lexington avenue, and which has 500 pupils. Such men as Philip Root have served as president, and men like J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have donated money to the school."

Two years ago Mr. Funk painted a portrait of Mrs. Hopkins, which he has exhibited several times. The portrait shows that despite her grayish tinged hair Mrs. Hopkins still retains a youthful face and much of the beauty that made her one of the most admired women in New York.

BULL WILL IN EVIDENCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary Nevine Bull, widow of the eminent surgeon, Dr. W. T. Bull, spent an uncomfortable two hours on the witness stand in a small examination room of Harlem police court yesterday afternoon while John F. McIntyre, counsel for John A. Qualey and Prof. H. W. Corbett, sought to break down her assertion that the two prisoners had swindled her out of $35,000 in a stock scheme.

That on one occasion she had sent Qualey a copy of her husband's will was the most interesting development of the examination.

As Mr. McIntyre produced the copy Mrs. Bull cried angrily:

"Do you mean to say that you kept that will?"

"Most assuredly, I did, madam," replied Mr. McIntyre.

Mrs. Bull was on her feet, her veil raised, her eyes blazing.

"These are worse than I thought you were," she retorted quickly. The lawyer bowed and the magistrate rapped for order.

Mrs. Bull threw the copy back at Mr. McIntyre and he put it in evidence. Its connection with the case did not develop.

Mrs. Bull will be recalled on Monday.

Milford Man Celebrates His Anniversary

MILFORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—James Frost celebrated his 100th birthday yesterday at the home of his son, James Frost, Jr., upon their farm about three miles from here. Four generations of his family gathered about him and brought gifts.

The venerable gentleman entered into the spirit of the occasion, and moved about with the alacrity of a young man. The day was a joyous one to him, but he did not omit his everyday exercise with the back saw, which he loves to do, as he says "it keeps one's courage up."

Mr. Frost was born in Lubec, Me. He loved the sea, and his father dying when he was quite young, he early shipped before the mast. For more than 70 years he sailed and had many narrow escapes. He became an expert seaman and was one of the best sail-makers of his time.

For 50 years he has used tobacco, and he has never had to call upon a physician except once, and that was for a broken leg. He went through a siege of yellow fever once in the Indies and he doctored himself. He has used liquor in moderation.

Mr. Frost has become totally blind within the past few years, but it has not dampened his spirits. He can find his way easily around the little farm, and in the house and requires little attendance.

He greeted all callers yesterday heartily and declared he "felt as young as he used to be."

Man Charged With Assault and Robbery

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charged with assaulting and robbing William G. Locke of Oxford, Me., who is visiting Boston, and with attempted larceny at the North station, Charles M. Murphy, 25 years old, of Medford street, was held in $3000 on the former charge and in $1000 on the latter by Judge Duff in the municipal court yesterday. He was remanded to Charles street jail.

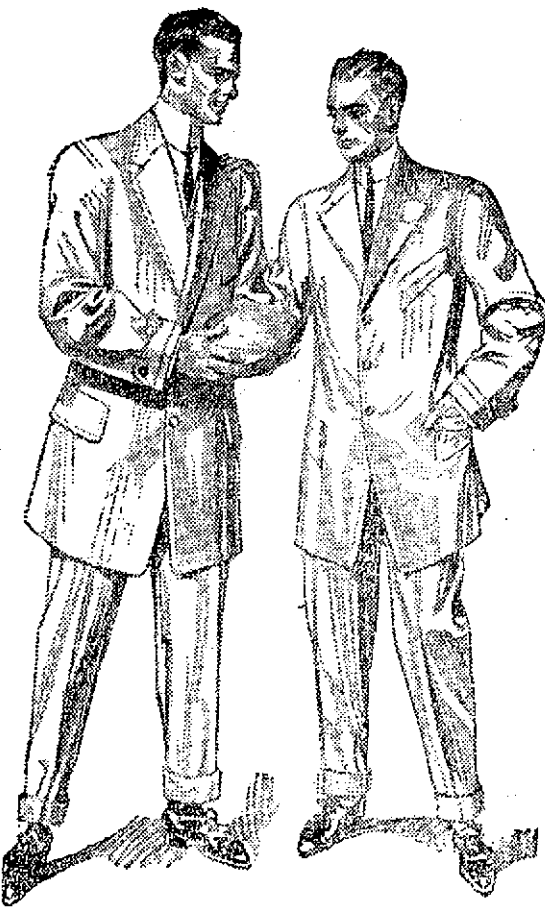

Mr. Locke, who is a middle-aged man, testified that Tuesday night while on Atlantic avenue he was held up and beaten and robbed of his watch, a ring and $20 in money.

Gets After the Police Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mayor Gaynor's sudden descent Wednesday on the night court bore fruit yesterday in another characteristic denunciation of police stupidity, venality and brutality. In part, he said:

"Two-thirds of those brought in Wednesday night were stupidly and needlessly arrested, and one or two of them corruptly to extort money, and I understand that proportion is the rule. "One policeman brought in a boy who threw a rubber ball on the street. Another brought in a boy who danced on a building platform. Another brought in two men who had been quarreling. Their dispute was perfectly harmless. It was only necessary to stop them and tell them to go along. A London policeman would have hardly noticed them."

"Another brought in a man for disappearing in a hall with his sister-in-law. When the man took his number the officer arrested him."

"One officer arrested a cook for stealing a cold chicken. Someone said he stole it. That an officer may not arrest without a warrant for such a crime unless he saw it committed seemed never to have entered his head. He looked too stupid to understand it. There was no evidence of the larceny."

THEIR SERVICES

DOCTORS WILL GIVE THEM FREE AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

The following physicians have volunteered to give their attendance on our day of each week to the playground children: On the North common, Dr. F. R. Brady; South common, Dr. R. C. Stewart; Allen street, Dr. George O. Lavallee. Mr. Wilton, the head supervisor, has a plan under consideration for a physicians' conference with the mothers on each playground once each week. It is also hoped to give talks to the boys on subjects relating to personal hygiene.

Medical inspection for the children is one of the problems that the playground supervisors have been called upon to meet and now that the doctors have volunteered their services the problem is solved.

ALEXANDER GIBSON, FOUNDER OF TOWN OF MARYSVILLE

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 6.—The most interesting figure in the industrial life of New Brunswick is Mr. Alexander Gibson, who, on August 1st, attained his ninetieth birthday, and is still able to walk about the streets of the town of Marysville, of which he was the founder. Many years ago Mr. Gibson, after having risen from the position of a young day laborer in a sawmill to that of the owner of a mill, disposed of the latter property and removed to the site of the present town of Marysville, on the Nasikwaak river. The Nasikwaak is a tributary of the St. John, which it enters near Fredericton. There was an abandoned mill on the property when Mr. Gibson began operations. He bought a large area of timber land, cleared the stream and constructed driving dams, built a saw mill and began to manufacture lumber. As time passed he leased more timber land, built more mills, opened a brick yard, erected a cotton mill and brick-tenement houses for workmen, built a large church and presented it to the Methodist denomination, and, in short, established a thriving town on the site of the old abandoned sawmill. He also operated a sawmill at Pinkville, on the Miramichi, assisted in building a line of railway to Woodstock in one direction, and to Chatham in another, and became a railway magnate as well as "the lumber king" of New Brunswick.

Mr. Gibson himself took no part in public life, but one of his sons was for a term a member of the parliament of Canada. In Mr. Gibson's later years he met with business reverses, and the immense property went into the hands of a company in which he had a large interest. Recently he retired and the property of the company, which became involved in legal difficulties, will be sold to satisfy the claims of creditors in Canada and England. The cotton mill has already been purchased by the Canadian Colored Cotton company. Both sawmills and cotton mills continue to be operated, and Marysville is still a thriving town—a monument to the foresight and energy of a man who was compelled to earn his own living from his boyhood days, and who produced a property that is today worth some millions of dollars.

SEN. CURTIS TO TESTIFY

EXTRA SENATOR CURTIS

Tells of Conference With Taft and Sherman

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 5.—United States Senator Curtis left this city for Muskogee to testify in regard to the allegations made by Senator Gore Thursday. Senator Curtis will take the stand either Saturday or Monday. Senator Curtis said before he left Topeka:

"I shall tell the committee that President Taft met Vice-President Sherman and myself in order to discuss this Indian matter and as a result of that conference and acting on the advice of Mr. Sherman and myself, the president decided he would not open the rolls nor would he further consider the matter of placing his approval on them."

RESCUED AT SEA

Crew of Eleven Men Were Taken From Burning Yacht

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Rescued at sea after their vessel had caught fire, the crew of eleven men of the steam yacht Seagannett arrived here today on the steamer Joseph W. Fordney from Baltimore. Captain Chase of the Fordney when off Barnegate, N. J., early Wednesday morning sighted the yacht. The crew had taken to two boats and were lying alongside. The yacht burned to the water's edge and sank. The yacht was in command of Captain McKenna and was owned by a man named Delaney who is engaged in fishing.

SENATOR GORE

Resumes His Testimony in Alleged Bribery Case

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 5.—It was expected that when the special committee appointed by the house to investigate to what are known as the McMurray contracts for the sale of Indian lands in this state resumed its session today, Congressman Cragger of Oklahoma would be recalled to the stand. It was supposed he would add to his previous testimony. It was expected that Senator Gore who made the charge of having been offered a bribe of $25,000 or $50,000 would be recalled to elucidate some of his former testimony.

Mr. Hammon who is an attorney of Lawton, Okla., and former chairman of the Oklahoma republican state committee, said he was ready to go on the stand. In an interview Mr. Hammon denied he ever had offered a bribe to anyone or that he ever had mentioned Vice President Sherman as having been "interested" in the McMurray contracts. "I am ready to tell all I know said Mr. Hammon. "When it is told my reputation will be clear of reproach."

Besides Mr. Hammon another important witness to be heard is Rep. McIntire of Oklahoma, who was charged with Mr. Cragger with having occupied the same suite of rooms with McMurray in Washington and by Senator Gore with having been interested in the approval of contracts for the sale of 450,000 acres of coal land. Senator Curtis will take the stand either tomorrow or Monday. He sent a telegram to the investigation committee, saying he was anxious to testify that he was in no way involved.

Resuming the witness stand before the special congressional investigating committee today, Congressman Cragger of Oklahoma on cross-examination told further details of his experiences in Washington in connection with the attempted $20,000,000 Indian land deal. Congressman Cragger again testified concerning his meeting with Jake L. Hamon, charged by Senator Gore with being a promoter for F. J. McMurray, who held contracts for the sale of the land on a 10 per cent basis.

"What was the length of time of the conversation which you said you had with Hamon at the hotel at Washington and in which he said you might obtain an 'interest' in the contracts if you helped put them through?" asked

DISASTROUS FIRE

Seven Persons Were Suffocated in New York Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Seven lives were lost early today in a fire which destroyed a three story lodging house in the foreign section of Jamaica, Long Island. The blaze started in a hallway, the only exit, and spread so rapidly that few of the inmates had an opportunity to escape. The lodging house was occupied for the most part by poor workmen employed in the neighborhood. The owner, George Dunbeck, occupied apartments with his family on the ground floor. He and his household escaped.

The dead, five men and two women, were all foreigners. They were asleep at the time and were all suffocated by smoke as they lay in their beds. The property loss will not exceed $1500.

Two persons were injured in escaping from the flames. Stephen Marcus, a farmer, 35 years old, jumped from the window of his room on the third floor and sustained concussions of the brain and internal injuries. B. G. Taggas, a laborer, was badly burned and partially suffocated by smoke. The names of the dead as nearly as they could be ascertained by the coroner are as follows:

Stephen Congreve, 26 years old; Frank Mitko, 19 years old; Lawrence Hless, 28 years old; Stephen Ankenny, 30 years old; Martin Marsoka, 67 years old; Agnes Sinayto, 27 years old; Nellie Sudeck, 25 years old.

A passerby discovered the fire, turned in the alarm and called a policeman, who found the hallway closed by a wall of flame on his arrival. In the back yard he came upon Dunbeck, who was lying on the ground. He was dead. They had clambered through the narrow windows. Apparently they had not yet given a thought to the lodgers who had been trapped on the upper floors.

"Is everybody out?" asked the policeman.

Dunbeck shook his head. He did not know. He had seen two or three of his lodgers drop to the street from second floor windows and whether all were safe he did not know. There had been fifteen lodgers in the house that night, he thought.

In a few minutes the firemen were on hand, fighting the fire and clearing a path to the upper floors through the gutted building. Their investigation brought to light the seven scorched bodies.

The cause of the fire was not ascertained. The police will investigate to determine whether it was incendiary.

A. O. H. WEEK

Committee Planning for Big Event

The members of Central council, A. O. H., met in regular session last night. Michael McMullin presiding and Daniel E. Hogan was secretary. Numerous reports of a favorable nature concerning the coming state convention were read.

The banquet committee reported that Major Robert J. Crowley had been chosen toastmaster of the evening.

The ball committee submitted a report which included the announcement that James E. Burns had been elected general manager and Bernard Gagan floor director. This feature, which is to be complimentary to the visitors, promises to be one of the many pleasant numbers of the series.

Daniel J. Murphy, one of the oldest Libermans in this country, and the first state president, reported for the reception committee. He assured the members that the plans, as arranged, would properly care for all the visitors and that there would be no chance for complaint from any source.

An information bureau will be established at the Northern station and a committee will be in charge to direct visitors to different parts of the city. Chief Marshal O'Sullivan stated that

THE RESTELLI CASE

QUINCY, Aug. 5.—With the receipt of information from Mrs. Mabel Elrick stating that she saw Luigi Restelli in front of her house apparently waiting for a Boston car at 3.30 p. m. near the North common an hour after the murdering of two persons occurred last week, Chief of Police Burrell stated today that it is his opinion that Restelli made his escape shortly after the shooting. The whole section of the North common near where the murders were committed has been thoroughly searched and every possible hiding place has been thoroughly canvassed but without result. Mrs. Elrick told the chief today that the clothing that Restelli wore when she saw him was old and poor in appearance. Chief Burrell said that from what Mrs. Elrick has told him it is his belief now that following the killing of the two persons Restelli must have changed his clothes for old ones, his escape from this city being in this disguise.

Mrs. Elrick said that she did not hear of the murders until later in the day. The police did not become acquainted with her information until today.

BOY FOUND GOLD

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 5.—There were placed on exhibition in this city today 26 gold pieces found on a farm on the Ware road in the eastern part of Belchertown by E. Clifton Witt, 16 years old. Young Witt, crossing a freshly ploughed field, picked up two coins. Later he found $40 in gold near at hand. The next day the Witt family unearthed $230.

Witt is the son of E. C. Witt whose father-in-law, Elias Chapin, bought the field from E. Willis in 1856. Previously an eccentric man of eastern Belchertown accumulated considerable gold which old residents say he buried on the Willis farm.

communications are being received from various points all over the state announcing that their organizations, which will be on hand to participate in the parade, Division 1 of Concord, N. H., intends coming to the city and a division from Nashua in charge of Dr. McCarthy, the latter one of the foremost Libermans of the state of New Hampshire.

It was also announced that the Matthew Temperance institute had very generously voted the tree use of their beautiful hall in Dutton street to Libermans during convention week and that the Ladies' auxiliary will meet in this hall instead of Liberman hall, as was previously decided upon. The Matthew building will be decorated for the occasion.

The next meeting of the council will be held Thursday night of the coming week.

CAN'T CHAIN YOUR BOY
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Peter Nicastro, sentenced in special sessions yesterday to thirty days in the Tombs for cruelty to his ten-year-old son Rosario. On July 27 last an agent of the Children's society found the boy chained to the stanchion of the stationery washbasin in Nicastro's flat at 32 Stanton street. The boy, who had been there for three days, was held by a short length of dog chain fastened with a lock to his right leg. Neighbors notified the society.

The father testified that Rosario was incurable and refused to attend school. He said he had found that the only way to control the boy was by confinement, a method of correction common in Italy.

CITY COUNCIL SCORED

For Causing Delay in Purchase of New Pump

Supt. Thomas Does Not Mince Matters—In Case of a Water Famine City Council Would Have to Shoulder Responsibility—Other News Items From City Hall

Supt. Thomas of the water department does not understand why the city council delays in the matter of the purchase of a new pump for the Centralville pumping station.

"Every member of the appropriations committee has said that we were badly in need of the pump," said Mr. Thomas, "and I cannot understand why they should continue the delay. The communication in which the water board asked for a new pump went to the city council four months ago and it has not advanced one inch. Nothing definite has been done and the thing is at a standstill. The city council has certainly left itself open to criticism. It may be entirely the fault of the appropriations committee but the city council, as a whole, is responsible for that committee. The committee asked the city solicitor if the city could call for bids before the money for the pump was appropriated. The committee has learned that it will be necessary to first appropriate the money and it is not to the credit of the city council that this matter should be delayed.

"Our machinery at the pumping station is not what it should be and the appropriations committee has said so. I am not without fear of trouble because of our great need of a new pump and if trouble should arise the city council will have to shoulder it. The water board has done its part.

"If there was any village to this holding off one might excuse it, but it's a losing game all around. The city council should make some statement as to why the purchase of the pump is being delayed. The city is wasting money every day because of the amount of coal that is being burned and above what would be consumed if we had a new pump. The purchase of the pump isn't anything that will embarrass the taxpayers. The water department will pay both principal and interest and the quicker the pump is installed the quicker it will be paid for. It will pay for itself just as the pump at the boulevard is paying for itself. If there is any reason or common sense in the delay for which the city council is responsible, I can't see it, and my eyesight is fairly good."

Speed of Automobiles

Lowell, Mass., August 5, '10.
Board of Police, Lowell, Mass.
Gentlemen:—The enforcement of the laws regulating the use of automobiles on the public highways is unquestionably in the hands of the police department. This being so, I am of the opinion that signs calling the attention of the drivers of these machines to such laws may very properly be erected by the city hall this forenoon and talked with the inspector of buildings relative to the erection of the review stand at the corner of Merrimack and Worthen streets for the Liberman parade on Wednesday, Aug. 24.

A meeting of the committee on accounts is scheduled for Monday.

Coumetakos Was Charged at Rate of $12 a Dozen

Arthur Duchesne, about 21 years of age, was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with feloniously assaulting Mrs. Leda Desrosiers, aged 26 years. Duchesne admitted that he and the woman had been very intimate, but denied that he assaulted her. After the testimony in the case had been offered the court found probable cause and held Duchesne under $1000 bonds for his appearance at the next sitting of the grand jury.

Costly Apples
Gelevas Coumetakos is of the opinion that the apple market took a jump skyward this morning for apples at $12 a dozen for apples of the grade he sold from the orchard at the guard locks in upper Broadway. Coumetakos and several other foreigners were passing by the orchard and some of the apples were immediately decided they would have some. They did not ask permission of Lora M. Fuller, who has charge of the place, but walked into the yard and started throwing stones at the apples.

While they were busy engaged in filling their pockets with the nice juicy fruit Mr. Fuller observed them and soon had Petrolubon Hamilton and George Coumetakos arrested. The young man promised that he would go direct to the approach of the officers and before he knew what had happened he

HESPER IS DEAD

Famous Police Horse Was Shot

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A distinguished and learned member of the police department died in harness yesterday. His name was Hesper and he had served the department for many years. He had been in this world of few oaks and much work for two years before he had the P. D. on his saddle, so he really was a veteran. All the men of the mounted squad knew Hesper and his record, and when he fell and hurt his knees a few weeks ago up in West Chester it would have been a brave official indeed who would have ordered the animal shot.

They put the injured horse in a comfortable stall and rigged up a sling for his bruised knees and did everything they could to make him comfortable. A veterinarian from headquarters came up to the West Chester police station and looked Hesper over and shook his head doubtfully but said that he would wait a while before he did anything final.

The horse grew worse, however, and yesterday the captain called the men of the West Chester station out onto the floor and told them that Hesper must be shot. He asked for volunteers. Not a man came forward. So the captain went for the veterinarian again and he arrived he got a cold greeting from the reserve. They begged him not to shoot Hesper but try some surer way of finishing matters, and he consented. Just how the horse was finally destroyed no one knows, because none of the men went into the stall with the veterinarian, and they didn't question the doctor when he came out.

Hesper had his record for all the years of service last May when he got the blue ribbon in the Decoration day parade. About the proudest man in this town on that day was Sergeant West, Hesper's rider, as he went up to the grandstand and got the ribbon for his horse and in addition to that received a medal in Hesper's name from Mrs. James Speyer. But soon after that West was promoted to a lieutenant and Hesper went into new hands. They say those who know the ways of horses, that Hesper didn't hold his head up in the old manner when West no longer rode him and that if ever a horse felt that he was growing old it was that same Hesper. It is said that he was the sentimental imagination that the police are noted as possessing.

Those who were in the habit of going down to Rockaway beach about six years ago may remember Hesper, for he used to have the beach patrol in those days, and when he took his daily swim all the bathers came along watching it was Sergeant West, the one who taught Hesper to take to the water and at the same time made him useful in hauling out folks who had gone beyond the life lines. This got to be a sort of second nature with the horse and there are many rescues to his credit that are not down in any books, but that will probably be forgotten by the folks when Hesper is buried.

The horse learned his trade in Central park. His first assignment, and stopped many runaways there. Then he went to Prospect park in Brooklyn and Rockaway and finally up to West Chester and Sergeant West's care.

MRS. TAGGART IN FRANCE
CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—It developed yesterday through the return to her home here of Miss Rose Rooney, trained nurse, who accompanied the party on the flight abroad nearly five years ago, that Mrs. Francis Taggart, divorced wife of Major, then Captain, E. F. Taggart, U. S. A., and her two sons, Culver and Robert, are in France, where they have been over since January of 1906.

It will be recalled that after the sensational divorce trial which stirred military circles the country over, Mrs. Taggart disappeared with her two little sons, only one of whom, Robert, had been awarded to her by the court. It is not thought that the court can now interfere in the matter, as the son in dispute between the parents, Culver, the older, has reached the age of 16, when he can choose for himself as to the parent he desires to live with. Each of the sons is heir to $500,000 from the estate of their maternal grandfather, Culver.

The order of the court a few days ago not to molest her so angered her husband that he slashed her throat yesterday.

PHILIPPI RELEASED
Frank Philippi who was arrested yesterday morning on suspicion of attempting to lunge a couple of fellow countrymen in this city out of some money, was released this morning as the police had nothing to hold him on. As explained in yesterday's issue of The Sun Philippi was in a strange city without a cent and endeavored to get money enough to take him to Boston where he lived. When released this morning Philippi was told to shake the dust of Lowell from his shoes as quickly as possible or he might find himself in the toils again. The young man promised that he would go direct to Boston as soon as possible.

PILGRIM FATHERS

Monument to Their Memory Was Dedicated Today

PROVINCETOWN, Aug. 5.—No greater duty ever devolved on Provincetown's two orators, George Washburn Ready and Walter Smith than their ingenuously announcing today of the coming of President Taft and the dedication of the tall granite shaft on Town bill, erected to the memory of the Pilgrim fathers. The custom of crying important events through the streets of the town still obtains in several Massachusetts communities like Provincetown and Nantucket and the inhabitants of this old port would not feel that they had begun the day right even with so important an event as the coming of the president if it were not proclaimed by the town's human bulletin boards. Provincetown had a good rain bath last night and, woke up this morning clear, dustless and considerably refreshed as well as eager for a big day in its history.

The first was Nov. 21, 1620, when the famous compact was signed in the cabin of the Mayflower. The second was the laying of the corner stone of the Pilgrims' monument Aug. 7, 1907, before a large assembly across whose heads and the sand dunes of the cape Pres. Roosevelt shouted memorable exhortations to earnest corporate interests.

The tall granite shaft erected in memory of the Pilgrims and begun under the eye of President Roosevelt received its official dedication from President Taft today and once more the narrow streets of this old fishing town were taxed to their limits to hold the crowds.

Last night's storm had cleared the air and today a fine northwester was blowing straight across the bay from Beverly to Cape Cod and, running before the wind, the president's yacht Mayflower came flying across the water to be welcomed by a mighty array of the nation's naval warriors.

Preparations for receiving the crowd and the distinguished guests were completed last night and before the exercises on top of the hill began today the feet sent ashore a couple of thousand of its sailors who formed along the streets from the wharf where the principal landed to the grandstand. The principal act of the dedication of the monument was the unveiling of a bronze tablet over the door facing the harbor on which was the following inscription:

"Given by President Emeritus Charles Eliot of Harvard.
Nov. 21, 1620, the Mayflower, carrying 102 passengers, men, women and children, set anchor in Provincetown harbor, Plymouth, England.
The same day 41 adult males in the company solemnly covenanted and combined themselves together into a 'civil body.'
This body politic established and maintained on the bleak and barren edge of the wilderness a state without a bishop or a priest, a democratic commonwealth, the members of which were straightly tied to the care of each other's goods and of the whole by everyone. For the first time in history they illustrated with long suffering devotion and sober resolutions the principles of civil and religious liberty in the practice of a genuine democracy. Therefore the remembrance of them shall be perpetual in the great republic that has inherited their ideals."

The town clock was striking nine when the Mayflower came around the little white beacon at the end of Long Point and passed in between the lines of battlements. Eight of the grandstand were held on the president, the Connecticut, Michigan, Mississippi, Idaho, South Carolina, Louisiana, Kansas and New Hampshire. As the Mayflower headed in the first gun boomed from the flagship Connecticut followed by twenty-one guns from the ships. The guns of the Mayflower beamed from the ship's mainmast stood at attention. The Mayflower dropped anchor at the head of the line at 9 o'clock and President Taft immediately went on board the Connecticut, where he received the commanding officers of the fleet. Meantime details of blue jackets and marines were sent ashore. They lined the street from the wharf to the base of the monument. The reception on the Connecticut lasted for about half an hour and then the president started for shore.

The launch from the Mayflower headed by President Taft reached shore at 10:30. The president was greeted by Governor Draper, Captain Sears, president of the Pilgrim Memorial association, and members of the local committee. He was followed by Secretary of the Navy Meyer, U. S. Senators Lodge and Wetmore and Justice White of the supreme court of the United States. Accompanied by company of blue jackets, President Taft and the other guests were driven up the hill to the grandstand at the foot of the monument. The exercises were opened at 11 A. M. with prayer by Rev. James De Normandie, pastor of the First Congregational (Unitarian) church of Provincetown, now in the Phillips place. The speaker briefly reviewed the history of the Pilgrims and the plans which resulted in the erection of the monument.

President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard University then gave an historical address. Dr. Eliot was followed by M. Van Weede, charge of affairs of the Netherlands legation at Washington, whose government was represented on the occasion because the Pilgrims sailed from Leyden.

The formal transfer of the monument from the government commission which directed its construction to the Pilgrim Memorial association, was made by Senator Lodge, who said:

Senator Lodge's Speech
In transferring the monument from the national commission to the Cape Cod Pilgrim association, United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge said that in the absence of Secretary of War Taft, now in the Philippines, it became his duty as a member of the commission to perform that honor. Continuing, he said:

"It is a far cry from Provincetown to Manila and yet all that vast space of continent and ocean has been traversed by the people who have made their way westward from the Atlantic coast to the uttermost verge of the Pacific. They have carried with them in their journey of nearly three hundred years the western civilization which they inherited and which through many vicissitudes may be traced back to Rome and Greece and thence to the monarchies of Asia Minor and to the kingdom of the Pharaohs. Where we stand today is not one of the famous historical places which the foundations of the United States and Canada were laid.

There was no settlement established; no foundation stone of a nation laid here. Yet is this spot perhaps the most memorable of all. Here certain political conceptions which have affected the belief, the fortunes of faith, not merely of the American people, but of civilized mankind, were set down on paper and given to the world, a hoarseless word, which did not note what was done here until those who did it had been long mingled with the dust on Burial Hill. Certain thoughts as to government and society were here expressed and recorded one November day when the darkness settled down early over the sun dunes, and forever over quiet harbor and restless ocean.

"What was that act? Only giving addition to certain principles set down on paper. That was all. Merely the expression of certain thoughts. But it is thought which finally rules the world of men."

"Here in this compact of the Mayflower I find two conceptions which seem to me of great significance; both potent factors in history since that November day two hundred and ninety years ago. Three years since, on the laying of the corner-stone, I spoke of one of them, the idea of an organic law adopted by all the people, above all, lacking in the balance and defense of certain rights and the embodiment of certain other fundamental principles lying at the root of free government. In this conception we see the origin of the written constitution which has played so great a part in modern history."

The other principle conspicuous in the compact is that of democracy. All the men signed. It was the work of all the people. Here there was nothing new. Democratic government was not a novel idea. But the compact was an assertion or rather the reassertion of the democratic principle at a time when that principle had fallen into disuse and almost wholly faded from the minds of men.

"Democracy and popular government were weighty forgotten words when the compact embodying both was signed. Slowly the principle spread almost unnoticed through the American colonies. A century and a half went by and then the democracy of the Mayflower compact rose suddenly militant upon a world which did not understand."

The Representative Principle
It is well to remember also that this democracy recognized in the cabin of the Mayflower as the true government for free men of one quality wholly lacking in the democracies of Rome and Greece and of the middle ages. That quality was the representative principle, in theory and practice familiar to all English speaking people. But the representation which they knew was that of orders and classes and institutions. Here in America they yoked it to the principle of government by the people and so produced representative democracy, and that is the democracy which for a century and a half has marched on from victory to victory. Where the representative principle was lacking or was crushed out, democracy has failed and turned to despotism, as in the republics of Rome and Greece and in the Islamic states.

The conception of an organic law and the conception of a representative democracy are two mighty principles to find a place in one document at a time when the world had no care or thought for either. And yet the greatest is behind.

"The tradition of the Mayflower as I read it is in the spirit and purpose of the band of exiles who made the compact and came hither to found a state. Their purpose was to secure freedom to worship God in their own fashion and to preserve their nationality and their native language. For these ends they had left safety, shelter and comfort."

"They cherished certain high ideals and they set those ideals above all else the world could give. In this age of ours money and material success have assumed proportions never before witnessed. Neither is a lofty nor complete ideal in the life of a man. We see the dangers which they breed. On one side in those who have succeeded a greed is often developed which is too ready to disregard law and trample on human rights. On the other side among those who have been unable to satisfy their craving for wealth appears envy and malice which under thin disguises would destroy the more fortunate and involve the prosperity of guilty and innocent alike in a common ruin. But even in two extremes we most find the midway a sane and effective method of curbing overgrown power and protecting human rights, which are first and most sacred, without wrecking all other rights and success which civilization has built up."

"We must not have that material prosperity, but we must have that nation which makes wealth its God and expects to find salvation in large statistics. The spiritual and the intellectual bloom and flourish when the material is withered and dead. High ideals in the conduct of life are what survive and that is why the Pilgrim narrative stands forth in the pages of every history as one of the great events of the time, not because they were among the founders of the republic, but because they had great purposes and by their conception of duty influenced the fates of men."

William B. Lawrence of Bedford accepted the monument on behalf of the memorial association, and a quarter sang "The Landing of the Pilgrims," by Mrs. Hemans.

Congressman McCleary of Minnesota, who supported the bill in congress for a governmental appropriation to assist in the erection of the monument, was the next speaker. It was well past the noon hour when Governor Draper rose to introduce President Taft.

President Taft was warmly applauded when he arose to speak. He touched on the circumstances which led the Pilgrims to New England and on their influence on the history of America.

"The spirit which prompted them to brave the seas has furnished the United States the highest ideals of moral life and political citizenship," said the president. President Taft's address was as follows:

"Here two hundred and ninety years ago, a band of one hundred pilgrims in a small, crowded and leaking vessel first saw their new home. The first was preceded by the French on the St. Lawrence and by the English at Jamestown and other efforts had been made on the New England coast to found colonies for profit before this. But this was the first attempt made by men seeking political and religious independence to secure an asylum in America where they might escape the fussy, meddling, narrow and tyrannical restraints imposed by the first of the Stuarts. They were not of the upper middle class. They were not of the nobility, they were not of the gentry, they were the farmer class. Their ministers were universally bred men but the rest were humble, God-fearing persons who were avowed non-conformists and had been persecuted as such in their homes in the eastern part of England. As early as 1609 they fled to Amsterdam and the spiritual and intellectual life of religious worship for which Holland was then distinguished among the countries of the world.

"It was there that, years before, Erasmus had preached the wisdom and virtue of toleration of religious beliefs and the elimination of the Spanish Inquisition. The Netherlands, the refuge of those persecuted for their faith. The wish to remain Englishmen finally induced this venturesome quest for another place of residence where they could maintain a theocracy based on a human democracy."

And Puritans emphasized the heroism of the Plymouth colonists. The Puritans had wealth and social influence and prominence. They sailed in comfort and freedom from danger and they came in thousands. Not so with the Pilgrims. They were the humble men whose faith was expressed in simplicity and stern. The spirit which prompted them to brave the seas to land on this forbidding coast in winter and to live here, has made the history of this country what it is. It prompted and fought the Revolutionary war. It welcomed and taught the Civil war and has furnished the United States the highest ideals of moral life and political citizenship. We need not defend the lack of liberality which in their early history the Pilgrims may have shown to those differing with them in religious belief. Out of the light of the present we see that there were three religious freedom while in the energy of their religious faith they unconsciously met the hardship that is inevitable with religious liberty. It is meet, therefore, that the United States as well as the state of Massachusetts should unite in placing here a memorial to the Pilgrim Fathers, that are here with their canon to testify to its national character typify the strength of that government whose people have derived much from the spirit and example of the heroic band. Gov. Bradford, Elder Brewster, and Capt. Miles Standish are the names here a memorial to the Pilgrim Fathers, that are here with their canon to testify to its national character typify the strength of that government whose people have derived much from the spirit and example of the heroic band. Miles Standish are the names here a memorial to the Pilgrim Fathers, that are here with their canon to testify to its national character typify the strength of that government whose people have derived much from the spirit and example of the heroic band.

EXPRESS DELIVERY

Delivery Extended Practically to All Parts of Lowell as Has Been Done by Manchester & Concord — Extension Brought About by Board of Trade

While the members of the board of trade were discussing the succulent clam and his delightful accompaniments at Mountain Rock yesterday, the managers of the American and Adams Express companies were about town notifying the public through the press that they had decided to extend their delivery limits in Lowell as the result of the persistent and successful effort of this same board of trade.

The cynically inclined may roast the board of trade now and then, as being a body of words without deeds, but whatever may be said against the board of trade the fact remains that it has accomplished something of material benefit for all Lowell in getting the express companies.

In its year against the express companies for the extension the board had nothing to say against the Manchester & Concord company, for it has always been the rule of Manager Mahany to deliver the goods, no matter how great a distance they were to be delivered. Secretary Mahany in his letter to the other companies refers to the Manchester & Concord and shows that while laboring under a handicap, at the same time that company was the only one in Lowell that the board could and did not fault with.

After a hearing at which many citizens expressed themselves, Sec. Mahany, acting upon the vote of the board, addressed the following letter to the managers of the American and the Adams Express companies:

July 1, 1910.
Dear Sir: The inadequate service for the delivery of express to many sections of the city has been called to the attention of the Lowell board of trade. Complaints have been received from business men and residents of various sections of the city. The complaints were so numerous and the grievances of such a nature that arrangements were made for a public hearing, to which you were invited in order that you might hear the protests of the people outside your delivery limits, and, then knowing the sentiments of the public that you might make it possible some solution to the difficulty or suggest a remedy for existing conditions.

This hearing was held on June 28, at the board of trade rooms and a report of this meeting is appended. It appears that you have promised to deliver to June 1, 1908, delivered without limit to parts of the city.

Jan. 1, 1908, this service was curtailed to its present limits, probably on account of the business depression of that period. There is no evidence to suggest that this service had been profitable during the past times and as the business conditions of the country have long since regained their normal activity it would seem that the reestablishment of this original service has been unreasonably delayed.

It appears there has been considerable development in the outlying sections of our city for several years back and it is estimated that 25 per cent of our total population is now deprived of the privilege of express deliveries.

It appears that the Manchester & Concord Express Co., a corporation which although deprived of the privilege of using passenger trains for their express and although only charging a fraction of the rate charged by your company, still find it profitable to maintain free delivery to all sections of the city.

It would seem that a condition of affairs that would give rise to such a general and vigorous protest should be called to the attention of whatever authority of your company are competent to pass on this matter and it would further seem that these officials could give this protest such consideration as would relieve the present unsatisfactory limitations of the service.

It would seem that favorable consideration at this time would quiet a growing discontent and make it unnecessary for the public to seek for another means of redress.

Respectfully submitted,
John H. Murphy, Secretary.

In a surprisingly short space of time he received answers from Maurice E. Vallant, of the American Express company, and Charles A. Gale, of the Adams Express company.

AN INQUEST HELD

An inquest into the cause of the death of William Callahan was held in the police court room this afternoon, Judge Hadley presiding. Callahan while walking along the car track between North Chelmsford and Tyngsboro on the night of July 30 was struck by the car and killed.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

The Massachusetts cotton mills have declared a semi-annual dividend of four per cent, payable August 10, to stock of record July 20.

6 O'CLOCK BIG AUTO RACES Tournament in This City to Last For One Day

Injunction or no injunction, Lowell will have an automobile race. That much was vouched for today by word authority. It is generally conceded that it was a mistake to have called the races off. Letters received by Mr. Heinze and others interested in the races are indicative of the great interest in the Lowell races in other cities than Lowell.

The manufacturers, too, are anxious to have the race go on. As to the magnitude of the race nothing has been said, but a good race is promised, though it will be for one day only and will be held between the 15th and 22nd of September.

The race was called off a few days ago principally because of the injunction that the promoters knew was being prepared. It was thought at that time that it would not be advisable to get into any legal tangle over it, but it has since been decided that the injunction will have to be met some time. If any races are to be held in the future and the promoters allowed that it would be as well to meet it now as any time. There is but a short time left in which to make preparations for the race, but the time is sufficient to insure one day of good racing.

Although the race had been called off, the boulevard and entire course have been undergoing repairs, so far as the road is concerned little has been lost. The boulevard is being repaired by the street department and the road from Lyngshoro to the boulevard by the state highway commission.

THE GLOVER CASE JACOB NEWMAN Four Brothers Granted a Rehearing The Attendant to Judge Foster Resigns

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Judge Morton in the supreme court today handed down a decision granting to the four brothers of Clarence Glover, the murdered Waltham laundryman, a rehearing of their case to break their brother's will. The new hearing will be before a jury and a judge of the supreme court in East Cambridge in October. Today's decision overturns the decision handed down by Judge McIntyre of the probate court who ruled in favor of Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of the murdered man and Seymour Glover.

LOWELL CAMPERS Had Lively Experience at No. Chelmsford

A small sized tornado struck North Chelmsford about dark last night and put a party of Lowell campers out of commission.

The party consisted of Police Officer McCann and his two sons, Billy Chase, the well known athletic instructor, and Gerald Beane, and their outfit consisted of two tents and two canoes. Two of the party had just arrived at the camp in the canoes which were loaded with provisions, etc., when the storm broke. At the outset the bigger of the two tents went to pieces, the ridge pole being snapped in twain. A can containing kerosene oil was thrown into the open air chest, the oil finding its way all over the one food left in the camp. The second tent stood the storm fairly well. But while some of the party were kept busy holding down their belongings, all the others had to go to the river and hold on for dear life to the canoes which threatened to overturn with their precarious contents, momentarily. The excitement lasted 20 minutes by actual time, but it seemed an hour to the campers. After the storm subsided it was necessary to light lanterns and seek the effects that had been scattered in all directions. Some of the clothing had not been recovered up to noon today, having been blown away by the fury of the storm. Every one of the party was wet to the skin and had to bunk last night under the one little tent which withstood the fury of the elements.

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Continued

C. B. Ames, counsel for McMurray. "About two minutes," said Creager. "Did you state to Sen. Gore that an attempt had been made to influence you?"

"I did not. All I said was that at the proper time I would rise in the house to a question of personal privilege."

"On or about May 6 did Senator call you on the telephone and tell you a little bird had whispered to him something important about the McMurray contracts?"

"He did not."

"You were friendly with McMurray?"

"Yes, I saw him frequently."

Mr. Creager then said he was the author of a bill providing for the sale of the lands on a $20,000,000 basis.

"Did McMurray help you frame that bill?"

"Yes."

"Then that bill expressed the wishes of McMurray?"

"Some of his wishes. We went over the bill together."

"Were your conferences with McMurray secret?"

"No, not secret."

"Did McMurray ever make any improper proposals to you to influence you to obtain legislation for him?"

"He never did."

"Did your bill meet the approval of the Oklahoma delegates in congress?"

"Not entirely. They approved of it as a whole, but disagreed as to some details."

"In previous testimony you said that Congressman McQuire of Oklahoma lived in the hotel at Washington with Hammon and Murray. Did you mean they actually occupied the same rooms?"

"Congressman McQuire frequently was in their rooms but I think his rooms were one or two stories higher up. The hotel was frequented by congressmen generally."

Questioned by Senator Gore, Mr. Creager said that his bill provided for the sale of lands by the secretary of the interior and did not provide for any attorneys fees.

Chairman Burke of the investigating committee authorized a statement that Vice President Sherman would not be summoned to appear before the committee. It was stated that no evidence had been introduced to show that Mr. Sherman could throw any light on the investigation.

Estimates were introduced to show that at the time the contracts were under discussion Hammon was in Washington. Mr. Ames pointed out in the testimony that Hammon was representing Governor Haskell of Oklahoma. Senator Gore at that time had introduced a bill providing that a senate committee appointed to investigate the "third degree" should also investigate the condition which led up to the indictment of Gov. Haskell in the Muskogee town lot cases.

BRANDED AS UNTRUTH

BIG MOOSE LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Vice-President Sherman branded as an untruth today any statement purporting to connect him with a personal interest in the McMurray Indian land contracts. Sitting before a blazing log at Camp Crag where he is summing up his family, Mr. Sherman read carefully the testimony of Senator Gore at Muskogee yesterday. Laying aside the paper the vice president said:

"I never heard my name mentioned in connection with the contracts. They were the subject of Senator Gore's testimony yesterday. I never had any interest of any kind other than the interest which I have had for years in the welfare of the Indians and which I shall ever have in any Indian contract—no personal interest, I mean."

"The name of the name is concerned is without any foundation whatever. If any person has said I had any interest in this or any other Indian contract he has stated what is not true."

MADE GENERAL DENIAL

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 5.—Hammon entered a general denial of Senator Gore's charges that he offered the senator $25,000 or any other amount to put through the $20,000,000 land deal. He denied being himself interested in the McMurray contracts and said he was in Washington in the interest of Governor Haskell of Oklahoma. He also denied ever offering Congressman Creager an interest in the deal.

Hammon described himself as an attorney at Lawton, Okla., the home town of Senator Gore. He said he had known Senator Gore for nine years and had loaned money in business transactions.

"Did you tell Senator Gore that you were ready to pay him $25,000 or $50,000 and the money would not be marked and there would be no checks but that the money would be clean, hard cash?"

"I never made such an offer."

"Did you mention to Senator Gore that Vice President Sherman, that Senator Curtis, former Senator Long or former Senator Thurston were interested in the McMurray contracts?"

"I never did. I was at Washington in the interest of Governor Haskell in the interest of Governor Haskell in the Muskogee town lot cases."

BRONX INSPECTORS

CHEAP PLUMBING

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Three Bronx inspectors were dismissed and one fined ten days' pay yesterday as the result of investigations that Acting Chief Inspector Henderson of the Bronx has been making. The dismissed men are William King, William J. Daly and John J. Howley, while John C. Spears was the inspector fined. They were accused of making false reports concerning the plumbing work in an apartment house in the course of construction at Adams place and 132d street.

Henry Farrell, a plumber, bld on the work, but he lost to a man who underbid him $1000. Farrell couldn't see how the work could be done so cheaply and he in compliance with the building law and told Borough President Miller so. The borough president and Henderson investigated and said that they found that false reports were being made and that when they went around to look over the plumbing personally attempts were made to cover up the violations. Spears was let off with a fine because he testified truthfully at the trial. All of the dismissed men were Hutter appointments.

SHOT BY HIS CHUM

UTICA, Aug. 5.—Jesse Lewis, 16 years old, a resident of Deansboro, is dying at a Utica hospital of a pistol shot wound, accidentally inflicted yesterday by his chum, Lynn Hamlin, 18 years old, while the two were debating the relative penetrating power of bullets fired from pistols and rifles. Lewis had a rifle and Hamlin a revolver.

Both weapons supposedly were unloaded, but when Hamlin pointed his pistol at Lewis and pulled the trigger the bullet penetrated the latter's chest near the heart.

ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Jersey City detectives yesterday arrested Ira Hansen, 27 years old, of 7 Exchange place on the charge of murdering Nathan Ames, whose body was found near Pier B in Jersey City on Wednesday afternoon. Hansen admitted having fought with Ames but denied responsibility for his death. O. E. Stappert, who works in a store near the pier, told the police he saw Hansen knock down Ames and drag him to the place where the body was found.

MIDDY ALWAYS SEASICK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Suffering from chronic seasickness, Midshipman Julian S. Hatcher has decided to quit the naval service. Hatcher went to the Annapolis Naval Academy in July, 1905. Although he has tried hard to qualify Hatcher has come to the conclusion that a life on the bounding wave will not do for him. The rocking of a ship makes him seasick.

He has handed in his resignation as a midshipman and it has been accepted. At present Hatcher is serving aboard the battleship Delaware of the Atlantic fleet. He is a Virginia boy.

ED. WETMORE TREASURE SHIP

Mentioned for the Strong Guard Is Put On It

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt had nothing to say regarding the charges by Senator Gore of attempted bribery by the Indian contracts. U. S. District Attorney Young of Brooklyn called and suggested the name of Edmund Wetmore, a New York lawyer, as good New York gubernatorial timber.

IN THE LABOR WORLD

The British trade union congress this year will open in Sheffield on Sept. 17.

Philadelphia street car men now have a women's auxiliary which has a membership of 6000.

A permanent arbitration board has been appointed for five years to deal with longshoremen's disputes at Montreal, Can.

Birmingham, Ala., is making great preparations to entertain the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which meets there in October.

The Japanese laborers on the California fruit farms are organizing. They have a union of 2000 in one county alone, and a fixed minimum wage scale at $2 a day of nine hours.

The founder of the Window Glass Workers' association of Chicago, died recently. He called together the first labor union convention in the United States in Pittsburgh 65 years ago.

The Arkansas State Federation of Labor is active in urging upon the people of that state an amendment to the constitution providing for the initiative and referendum.

The attempt to amalgamate the two principal unions of railway workers in Great Britain has failed. The General Railway Workers union definitely refused the proposal that it should combine with the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants.

The American Federation of Labor, which is organizing the sugar refinery employees, has just issued charters to three newly formed unions with a total membership of 1000. The refinery workers are endeavoring to obtain a minimum wage scale of 18 cents an hour.

The Associated Blacksmiths of Great Britain have made a request for an advance in wages, which means the registration of a reduction enforced last year. The blacksmiths are negotiating for an amalgamation of other kindred societies, so as to have one united association.

An agreement has been made between the United Brewery Workers union of Boston and the United States Brewers association by which the employers will submit to the union for consideration a plan of liability insurance for the workmen. It is the first plan of the kind between an employers' association and the union of employees.

Recent investigations in Egyptian history disclosed the details of labor plagues at Thebes in the year 1400 B. C. The strike was very similar to those going on today. It was in the building trades, and the strikers were masons. They were paid in rations at the end of the month, and they claimed that these were insufficient to sustain them and their families until the following payday.

DEATEN AFTER 40 YEARS

TROY, Kan., Aug. 5.—For the first time in forty years Cy Leland's precinct in Doniphan county failed to elect him committeeman. A young insurgent, Ernest Williams, defeated Mr. Leland Tuesday with a majority of twenty-three votes.

After unavailing efforts to keep William from running against him, Leland spent a number of days before the primary in a thorough personal campaign. The fight was almost forgotten, and at the Troy precinct more republican votes were cast than were voted two years ago when Leland was running for governor.

MAN FOUND DEAD

NORWELL, Aug. 5.—A search started today for James Farrar, a Spanish war veteran who has been missing since Tuesday, resulted in the finding of his body at his home here. The police broke into the house today and in one of the bedrooms found the body. Farrar is said to have been drinking and upon returning to his home on Tuesday night, the last time he was seen, committed suicide by taking poison. Farrar, who was about 40 years of age, was a native of Brockton, Mass.

MOVING MACHINERY

The work of removing the machinery and stock of the Hamilton print works of this city to Lawrence by the Pacific mills which recently acquired the entire plant is well underway. Already much of the smaller stock, such as supplies, dies, etc., etc., have been put in storage in the print works in Lawrence.

The main task of moving the big machines will not be attempted until the completion of the new print works in the down river city, there they are to be installed. The mill there will not be completed until the fall or summer of 1911. The mill will be a mammoth one.

COUNCILMAN ABEL BELIEVED TO BE IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 5.—Councilman Napoleon D. Abel of Woonsocket, wanted in Lincoln for killing two men by an automobile, the police believe now is in this city.

In company with a Woonsocket photographer he is believed to have arrived here on the midnight train from Worcester, Mass., and the police say that he is seeking bail preparatory to giving himself up.

BRITISH DIPLOMATIC CHANGES

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Several diplomatic appointments were made yesterday, among them being that of Sir George William Buchanan as British ambassador at St. Petersburg. Sir George has been the British minister plenipotentiary at The Hague since 1905. Among other posts he has held were minister at Sofia and British agent to the Venezuelan arbitration tribunal.

Sir Ralph Spencer Paget, British minister resident at Munich, has been appointed minister at Belgrade, Servia. He is succeeded at Munich by Sir Vincent Edwin Henry Corbett, at present minister to Venezuela.

Evelyn Grant-Duff has been appointed minister to Venezuela.

GIRL MAY DIE

Alleged That She Was Shot Twice by Buffalo Man

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A special from Rockport says:

"Ruth Richards, aged 18, daughter of a farmer at Warren Corners, N. Y., is lying dangerously wounded from bullets fired into her mouth and left lung by Frank Ranney of Buffalo.

"The girl and Ranney Thursday evening went riding. Ranney inviting the girl to an outing. They quarreled and Ranney confessed when she resented his action to kiss her, he shot her, first in the mouth and then through the lung. After the shooting the girl, afraid to tell her family, crawled to her room, where she was found. Ranney drove to Lockport and gave himself up to the police.

INSPECTOR DEW IN TORONTO

BRYAN'S DECLARATION

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 5.—In a statement in his paper today in reference to his measures to protest against legislative corruption, W. J. Bryan declared that the democratic legislators who voted to elect William Lorimer to the United States senate should be read out of the democratic party.

AUTO SPILL

INJURED MEN WERE GUESTS OF WILLIAM F. PENNY

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Three guests of William F. Penny, a contractor, whose home is at 94th street and the Shore road, Bay Ridge, were spilled from Mr. Penny's automobile last night at Second avenue and the Shore road.

William Bogenheuer and his brother Charles, who are wholesale grocers from Newark, were in the auto. The former had his right arm broken, and George Snow, an electrician of Portland, Me., had his collarbone broken. Charles Bogenheuer was not hurt. Mr. Penny was not in the car.

Warren Brown, an electrician of 147 Bedford avenue, was driving the car down a hill when the rear axle broke and the car ran into the curb. Brown and Charles Bogenheuer carried Snow and William Bogenheuer into the Penny house nearby and doctors were summoned.

INDEPENDENT TICKET WON

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5.—The Patterson faction virtually admits today the independent judiciary ticket has carried the state by 25,000 majority.

BIG DRUG MERGER

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—It was learned today that as a result of the merger just effected between the drug corporations of Heganman & Co. and William B. Ricker & Son Co., the retail business of the combined companies known as the Ricker & Heganman Co. may be extended to other cities and a chain of stores ultimately be established throughout the United States. SECOND FLOOR

MAN ASSAULTED

He is Believed to be a Black Hand Victim

BEVERLY, Aug. 5.—Antonio Caligherie, about 35 years of age, is at the Beverly hospital, his name is on the dangerous list and it is suspected he is a victim of the Black Hand society, which it is said is doing considerable work in this section.

About 8 yesterday afternoon Caligherie, who claims he came from Boston to this city last Tuesday, took a stroll into the woods, and while there he was attacked by three men, who he claimed tried to rob him, throwing him to the ground and hitting him over the head with the end of a revolver, after which they cut him in several places with a knife. They made their escape into the woods and have not since been seen.

After the men had made their escape Caligherie started out of the woods into Elliott street, bleeding from head and face quite badly and when near the Elliott street railroad crossing he was taken into an automobile driven by William L. Wood, a well known business man of this city, and carried to the police station.

Patrolman Joseph F. Clayton, who was on duty at the station at the time, sent for City Physician David C. Coleman, who dressed the man's wounds and ordered him removed to the hospital, where further examination was made as to the extent of his injuries, which are considered serious. He received a deep cut in the back of the neck, several cuts about the face and a severe cut on the head received with the end of a revolver.

Patrolman Timothy Foley was sent to the scene of the assault and about 300 feet in the woods from Green street was found a pool of blood. An effort was made to try and locate the suspected robbers, but no trace of them could be found. A number of Italian houses were visited by the police along Railroad, Elliott and Park streets.

Bruce Bright, the 11-year-old son of James Bright of Green street, stated to the police that he was in the woods some distance away from the scene of the assault and heard a shot from a revolver and on his way home passed the place of the accident, discovering a pool of blood, and when he reached the street saw Caligherie badly cut about the face and making his way for the center of the city. The police are trying to locate the men.

Only a few months ago some unknown person or persons entered the Italian shanty on the D. N. Lincoln estate at Frides Crossing and robbed the Italians of all of their belongings.

Was on Porch to Meet Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—John D. Rockefeller yesterday was served personally with summons to appear in court in the suit for $650,000 damages brought against him and the Standard Oil company at Findlay, O., last week by Thomas B. Kelly and others.

Deputy Sheriff Halloran took the summons to Forest Hill, the Rockefeller home. Gatekeeper Pat Lynch sent the deputy on to the house in a carriage.

Rockefeller was standing on the front porch when Halloran arrived. He cordially shook the officer by the hand, and asked him into the house.

The carriage was again placed at Halloran's disposal when he made ready to leave. He declined, saying he would rather walk and get a good look about the grounds.

"O, if you want to walk," said Mr. Rockefeller, "go this way. It is much prettier."

He accompanied Halloran a short distance.

The petition in the case recites that through the monopoly of the oil business, the Standard Oil company has caused the complainants to lose the amount sued for.

LABOR MARKET

IS REPORTED TO BE NORMAL

As viewed by the state free employment office the labor market is normal for this season. The demand for summer hotel help the past month has been excessive, with only a limited supply available.

A slight decrease is noted in the demand for industrial help. Manufacturers are not taking on many additional employees because of fear of over production.

The demand for stenographers and bookkeepers as substitutes during the vacation months is fairly brisk, with a seasonable supply. There is a decrease in the demand for female factory help.

While a considerable number of building tradesmen are idle, the number is not as large as last year at this time. There is a slightly less demand for machine shop and factory hands.

Statistics for the past month, issued by the bureau last evening, show the number of applications for employment as 1795 men and 800 women, a total of 2595, an increase of 10.40 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

The number of persons applied for by employers was 1132 men and 768 women, a total of 1900, an increase of 30.32 per cent over July, 1909. The number of offers of positions was 3578, an increase of 26.78 per cent, and the number of positions reported filled was 1371, an increase of 16.28 per cent over the same month a year ago.

A GOLD MEDAL

Was Voted to Andrew Carnegie

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Andrew Carnegie was voted a gold medal by the Pan-American congress, now in session in Buenos Ayres, according to a dispatch received yesterday by John Barrett, director of the international bureau of American republics.

The medal was awarded because of Mr. Carnegie's prominence as a "benefactor of humanity," and it will be the joint gift of all the republics of the western hemisphere.

It was announced also in the same dispatch that the question of an international celebration of the opening of the Panama canal had been left to the governing board of the bureau of American republics, composed of the diplomatic representatives of the various South and Central American countries and presided over by the secretary of state.

"LITTLE SUNSHINE POETESS" ALLEGES CRUEL TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Miss Alice Hallows, known as "the little sunshine poetess of America," who has numbered among her friends several ex-presidents of the United States, has filed a damage suit for $10,000 against Clarence L. Gilpin, a young Maryland farmer, charging cruel treatment.

One year ago Wednesday Miss Hallows, according to the papers filed, was visiting her sisters at Sandy Springs, Md. When she refused to leave she says that Gilpin was asked to take her to Washington, and charged that she was forced into a closed carriage and the door tied, in spite of her struggles and screams.

POLICE GUARD

WILL BE PROVIDED FOR COL. ROOSEVELT

SAINT PAUL, Minn., Aug. 5.—When Theodore Roosevelt arrives in Saint Paul on September 5th, to speak to the second national conservation congress, he will be guarded by the police as carefully as he would be if he were still president. Every precaution will be taken to see that he is fully protected from the crowd that will be near him all the time during his stay in the city.

As president, Col. Roosevelt always was under the eyes of at least four secret service men whenever he was surrounded by a crowd. He didn't like the idea of being guarded and used to try to avoid it, but the keen-eyed guards stick closely to him and never ever alert for his safety. Now that he is a private citizen, he does not have this body-guard and it falls to the lot of the police of the cities he visits to furnish proper protection.

Following a conference with members of the local committee on arrangements, Chief of Police John J. O'Connor of Saint Paul began working on a plan which, when perfected, will result in Col. Roosevelt being under the care of the guardians of the law from the minute he steps into Saint Paul until the minute he leaves the city. The best men on the city's force will be on hand all the time. They will not be in evidence as they will be in citizen's clothes, but it will be their duty to see that there is a clear passage for the former president. These precautions are not taken with any thought of danger of attack on Col. Roosevelt, who is a favorite in Saint Paul, but there are always people in great crowds who want to shake the hand of the former president. There are others who would have a word or two with him on some subject or other. Should he stop ten seconds with each of these, there would be little time left for him to speak and attend the functions planned for him.

Upon his arrival in Saint Paul, Col. Roosevelt will be met at the Union station by Governor Eberhart, as many of the governors of other states as have arrived, cabinet members, Gifford Pinchot, the reception committee of the National Conservation congress and the welcoming committee, composed of members of Saint Paul's commercial and civic organizations.

While these dignitaries and organizations will attract attention, the center of interest will be in the original Roosevelt club, a Saint Paul organization which is known all over the country. Every member of the club has promised to be present to welcome the former chief executive and act as his escort wherever he goes.

The plans as now made include a visit by Col. Roosevelt to the Minnesota State Fair grounds, where he will make a brief speech. Then he will return to the new Saint Paul hotel, where a suite will have been specially prepared for him. In the afternoon he will deliver the main speech before the congress in the auditorium. After he has delivered his address, Col. Roosevelt will return to the Saint Paul hotel, where, if present plans are carried out, an informal reception will be held. In the evening he will depart for Milwaukee.

AT LAKEVIEW PARK

Carlisle's Dogtown Pantomime company, including "Tom," the world's greatest talking pony, will furnish the free amusement and sensation at Lakeview park every afternoon and evening next week. They are regarded as one of the most wonderful troupes of performing animals in the country, and their almost human intelligence is the marvel of all who have watched them.

The dogs, to the delight of the children as well as the grownups, will perform remarkable tricks. They imitate human beings. For example, one of the dogs goes out shopping and feels as much perplexity in the duty as any Lowell housewife. Another meets a canine duke and dits with him from a window with all the grace of a charming young actress in one of Mr. Elvins' musical comedies. Still another assumes the role of a policeman and arrests a dejected brute whom he considers a tramp. Dogtown is in fact just like any other town and the stage is set so as to give it a true village appearance. Toward the close of the act dogtown selections are rendered by the Dogtown quartet, the only dogs in the world playing perfect music on staff bells.

As the dogs please the children and entertain the older folks, so will the ponies. Chief among the ponies is "Tom," who actually talks. He talks in a language peculiar to ponies and his words cannot be translated directly into English, but there is not the slightest doubt that everyone in the audience will understand every syllable he utters. He has a most intelligent face, and if any pony possesses brains like human beings it is certain he does. Much of the fun in watching the dog-pony drama is in interpreting what Tom says.

The show in Dogtown is all free.

The child was carried to the Relief hospital in the patrol wagon, in which he relieved himself of some of the liquor in his stomach.

For the past two days the boy has been staying with his aunt, Mrs. Julia Donovan of 205 Main street, with whom he was left until the return of his mother from Connecticut, where she went to attend a funeral.

Boys with whom young Mulcahy played yesterday afternoon informed the police that Mulcahy found the liquor.

Mrs. Donovan was notified of his condition. She called at the Relief hospital at 10 last night and took the lad home.

BURIED AT SEA

CAPTAIN ATWOOD WANTED TO BRING WIFE'S BODY HOME

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—After carrying out the dying wishes of his wife that her body be brought to her old home at Cape Cod or sunk in the ocean, Capt. E. R. Atwood of Provincetown arrived here yesterday as a passenger on the steamship Verona from Jamaica. Ruby Foster Atwood, Capt. Atwood's wife, succumbed to heart trouble at Port Antonio on July 26. The body was placed in a hermetically sealed casket, which was secured to the deck of the Verona.

Capt. Atwood had decided to bring the body to be interred in the family lot at Wellfleet. It became necessary, however, to bury the body at sea, and on Aug. 1, when the Verona was in lat. 30 degrees 45 minutes north, lon. 72 degrees 5 minutes west, the sad ceremony of a sea burial took place. The Verona, with her colors half-mast, was hoisted to, Capt. Atwood read the prayers for the dead.

Capt. Atwood has been stationed at Port Antonio for some time and his wife's death occurred at his home there. She was 67 years of age.

AN EXPERT'S OPINION OF SKIN DISEASES

A prominent, national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. A. W. Does will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet which explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

Perhaps you have noticed it, and then again perhaps you have not, but most of the auto accidents happen on the way home. There's a reason.

We notice automobile factories starting up from time to time in various parts of the country. Why can't our board of trade do something towards starting one in the city of Lowell?

Anything which tends to reduce the chances of accidental drownings in our canals and rivers should be worthy of serious consideration. There are several spots, particularly those bordering on our canals, which could be made safer by the expenditure of a small sum for fencing. Why not do it now and not wait until it is too late?

IT'S BOUND TO COME

Owners of real estate have come to the conclusion that either the cost of building material and labor must come down or rents must go up. Meanwhile a vast amount of building that ought to be done in the business and residential sections awaits the settlement of this most important question.

LOOK BEFORE YOU LEAP

Before you decide to buy an automobile be sure that you can afford to pay for it and also pay for the expense of running it. Many have found to their sorrow that they forgot several important items when they concluded to go into the ranks of the automobilists. If you find it necessary to mortgage your house to get the money to pay for an auto, stop right there. You cannot afford to buy one or to own one or to run one.

COMPOUNDING A FELONY

After every bank robbery or defalcation nowadays we hear hints about compromising the offence with the bank officials. This trick is about played out, and it is time a law was enacted to prevent it altogether. We had a specimen of this sort of compounding when our last great bank robbery was perpetrated in Lowell. Something of the kind was done at that time and no one was punished, although they got away with a good share of the swag. But what is more, if rumors are true, the fellows who made away with the swag from our local bank, were not the only ones who soaked the institution, although the second crop of raiders are said to have done their job on strictly legal lines. But let us have no more of these legal or illegal bank robberies without complete criminal proceedings. When the law is violated no one should be permitted to profit in any way by conniving at the escape of the violators.

THE STATE MILITIA

Of late we hear many people poking fun at the militia men who recently went into camp, intimating that they were simply playing soldier. If the time should ever come when a local mob got beyond police control these very people would be the first to cry out, "Where is the militia?" People are very apt to forget that in the final crisis the state militia is the only force that stands between them and the horrors of mob rule. For some reason or other the state militia never receives the consideration to which it is entitled. What would the citizens of this commonwealth do if all our young men should refuse to go into the militia? They would certainly be in a serious predicament. Perhaps they would then have a little more respect for the men who, filled with patriotism, come forward to give their time, their service and if necessary their lives to protect the citizen in his civil rights and to uphold the power and dignity of the state and the majesty of the law. Let us have less scoffing and more respect for the young men of the state militia.

ADVANTAGE OF TECHNICAL TRAINING

No one who has traveled in the old country, particularly in manufacturing districts, can have failed to notice the general distribution of technical knowledge among workmen in nearly every craft. This is especially the case in France and Germany where apprentices in nearly every trade are obliged to have some technical training before they are enrolled as an apprentice. This is a great advantage to any man working at a trade. We have too many workmen in this country who know that by mixing two substances together certain results will follow, but they have not the technical education to know why. The European craftsman understands the chemical properties of every substance he handles and therefore makes fewer mistakes than the average American artisan who trusts to luck, and when he gets into trouble sends for a chemist or scientifically trained man to get him out of his dilemma. Our educators have been gradually awakening to the necessity of technical training in all branches of industry and are establishing schools in various parts of the country to give our young men the necessary training to perfect them in the various crafts to which they aspire. If this system is followed persistently it will not be long before the American in every craft will be a superior of his brethren in the old country. Our local textile school is a good illustration of the new policy. A young man graduating from the Lowell Textile school has a great advantage in any of our factories over one who has confined his education to mere observation and practice in the mills. No man can dye cloth successfully without knowing the chemical nature of the dye stuff he handles. No man can spin or weave fabrics of beautiful designs without having some idea of art designing as well as a knowledge of the intricacies of the delicate and complicated mechanism which produces these goods. The old days of guess work are gone by. Everything is done nowadays according to rule and the manufacturer or workman who has the best technical knowledge is the man who is most likely to be successful in producing marketable fabrics as well as the various other products of our wonderfully diversified industries.

SEEN AND HEARD

The east winds hug the earth more closely and gather moisture, dust and bacteria. They are cold and humid, altogether forming an enervating influence on human and animal life, and rendering it susceptible to the disease germs which the winds carry and disseminate.

The cool, pure, northwest winds come from a region of dry, highly electrified air where ozone exists in comparatively large quantities. They are invigorating. The framework of nerves in the human being is like a delicate electrical apparatus, the nerves being the wires and the brain and ganglia receiving and distributing centres. Everyone knows that a telephone works better on a clear, dry day than on a wet, muggy one. The moist atmosphere lessens vitality. The nerve wires grow placid and heavy. The messages become confused. Hence, low spirits, melancholia, "distorted mental outlook, faulty assimilation, and disease."

The opposite effects flow from the northwest winds. The west and northwest winds keep the mucous membranes of the body in good working order. The coating of moisture which is always present with the east wind disappears. Absence of any wind if long continued has a bad effect on the human body and mind.

A prolonged calm means lack of ventilation on a great scale. The wind served to mix in normal proportions the gases which compose the atmosphere, and in this way they are conducive to health up to a certain point. Beyond about twenty miles an hour their influence begins to be unfavorable. Chicago Tribune.

PUBLIC OPINION

If we all did as others think we should, Would this old world be better off or worse?

The question is an interesting one. Deserving, maybe, sixteen lines of verse.

If we all did as others think we should—

Alas! all others do not think alike, And if we started out to please them all,

We very soon would want to go on strike.

If we all did as others think we should—

Let others come to an agreement first.

And then we may consider their ideas. And find, maybe, that ours are not the worst.

Meanwhile, we'd better do as we think best.

And let the others think whatever they please.

The man who aims at pleasing everyone

Will not find life a flowery bed of ease.

For the Benefit of Women Who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did. I am now wonderfully well."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOULDER, 315 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

We never publish a testimonial letter without the special permission of the writer, and then only when we know it is genuine.

One hundred and eighty undergraduate students of the University of Victoria are to sail for this country this week to sing here in public. In addition to those young members of the Academic Singing Society—we would call it a glee club over here—seventy graduates will accompany them. The company will start from Vienna on August 9, arrive in New York August 22 and give the concert at Carnegie hall on August 23. The society will be quartered at the Plaza while in New York, and will be entertained by the Arion society.

On the day after the New York concert the society will go to Boston and thence to Beverly to be received by President Taft. Visits to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia will follow. The return trip will begin on August 31 on the Pennsylvania for Hamburg. The students will all wear in this country the student dress of the university of Victoria. This consists of white trousers, high boots, a velvet tunic and a cap. To this attire is added an appropriate color of sash with other insignia to indicate the particular college corps to which the wearer belongs.

REPRIEVE FOR WYNNE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Through a presidential reprieve, announced yesterday, John Wynne, an officer employed on the U. S. S. Rosecrans, at Honolulu, Hawaii, who was sentenced to be hanged on September 5, will not execute the crime of which he was convicted until 90 days after the date fixed for the execution.

Wynne killed Third Assistant Engineer McKinnon, who he imagined was trying to make him lose his position. Wynne was intoxicated and killed the officer with a hammer. The reprieve was granted on the ground that the attorney general could not consider this case, as required by law, before the date first fixed for the execution.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The most noted amateur trap shooter of the United States and Canada will attend the first annual shoot of the grand Chicago handicap at the Chicago Gun club on Aug. 9 to Sept. 1, according to information received by Secretary Zacher of the gun club. It is estimated that $500 will compete for the grand Chicago handicap on Aug. 31 for which the Chicago Association of Commerce has provided a $200 trophy.

PARK COMMISSION

The park commission is opposed to the expenditure of $3000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground. This much was brought out at a meeting of the commission held last night. The members of the board wanted it understood that they were not adverse to the improvement of the Little Canada playground but, under present conditions, they did not think it feasible or advisable to spend that amount of money.

The matter was introduced by Chairman Pickman. He said the board did not in any way wish to have it appear that the board wanted to direct the work of the city government. "We constitute a different body," he said, "and this matter of appropriating $3000 does not come before us in any way. However, in view of the fact that the money, once appropriated, must be spent under our direction we feel that we should say something about the place."

Harvey B. Greene said: "Last year the city government voted the sum of $2000 for the improvement of the Little Canada playground and park. Of that amount $1500 was expended and we therefore had a surplus of $500. This we wanted to turn back to the general treasury fund and until tonight we believed that it had been. We find, however, upon consulting the statement relative to the city's finances issued by the city auditor, that the sum of $500 was appropriated this year for the improvement of the Little Canada park."

"We plan to get the street department to dump in dressing during the fall and winter months and thus make a good filling for the place. With the money placed to our credit we can purchase loam and seed and whatever also is needed and I feel we can put the place in good shape."

Mr. Greene then discussed the matter and the consensus of opinion was that it be deemed inexpedient to purchase the land from the Locke and Canada corporation for the sum of $70,000. The city is a tenant at will of the land, no lease for years having been given by the corporation. If the corporation desired the land, the city, even after the expenditure of $8000 or any other sum of money, would be obliged to vacate it at once or else purchase.

Chairman Pickman said, relative to this phase of the situation: "We have no assurance that we can hold the land. We would have to step aside, even after spending the money. This expenditure would not be a good business move, and if $500 will put the place in good condition, as we feel it will at the present time, then no more need be appropriated."

Mr. Parker said that there is at least 15 feet of clinders covering part of the park, while Mr. Hill said it would require at least three feet of loam all over the place in order that anything might grow. The chairman said that it is mighty slow business watching trees grow, and that if some were purchased and set out the corporation might desire the land before the trees had attained any size. It was voted to recommend that the sum of $500 be expended, inasmuch as $500 at the present time is enough to spend on the place.

The order in question has passed the board of aldermen and is now held up in the common council, on a notice of reconsideration.

CONG. FASSETT

MAKES A PLEA FOR BETTER MERCHANT MARINE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—Congressman J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, N. Y., made a plea for a stronger and more efficient American merchant marine in an address here last night. He was speaking before the local banquet of the Cyclops and accessories association, the National association of bicycle jobbers, the Motorcycle manufacturers' association and the Bicycle manufacturers' association. Mr. Fassett said in part:

"The best welfare of the present and the future of our country is wrapped up in the restoration of the American merchant marine to something like its former strength and efficiency. Ninety per cent of the markets of the world are reached by sea water. We are the great manufacturing and trading nation. We furnish one-sixth of the over-sea international trade of the world, but we carry less than one-sixtieth."

"We export and import about $1,000,000,000 worth of goods every year and yet in our ships we carry less than eight per cent of it. In other words, of every $100 worth of trade from America to foreign nations, American ships carry $8 worth."

"The United States, which is richer than Japan and Germany combined, than England and France combined, has less than 100,000 tons of shipping engaged in the over-sea trade in first class steamships, and our merchant marine has been steadily dwindling since 1865. The only country in the world that has a smaller merchant marine than ours is China."

"The members of all our political parties agree that the situation is humiliating. Sooner or later we must overcome this handicap. We must use the same weapons our rivals use."

"We are to spend $500,000,000 of good American dollars for the Panama canal, and yet today we have not a single ship send through it. We expend $50,000,000 a year on harbors and many millions for 40-foot channels, yet we have not a single American ship requiring a 40-foot channel. Isn't it time now, before it is too late, to spend some money for our own business and for the safety and prosperity of our own country and our own children?"

BUSY SEASON

AT THE NAVY YARD IN CHARLESTOWN

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charlestown navy yard workmen learned yesterday that the navy department has authorized the stay there of the U. S. scout cruiser Salem and the gunboat Castine, for repairs. The Salem will be at the yard possibly two months and her turbine engines will be entirely overhauled and other repairs made.

The gunboat Castine, which was run ashore at Provincetown several weeks ago to prevent her sinking after she had been rammed under water by the submarine Ebonita, will remain at the yard during August at least. The puncture in her bottom has been repaired, but it was decided that while the necessary overhauling of her electrical equipment was underway it would be economical to make other changes in electrical appliances.

The work authorized on the battleships New Jersey and Missouri, in reserve at the yard, the battleship Illinois, which is to be reconstructed, and the auxiliaries Ajax and Vestal for the prospect for steady employment looks good. The amount of money appropriated to the yard is the only important drawback in the work. Especial economy is being observed in that matter. It is stated.

FORMAL DEMAND

Made for the Extradition of Charlton

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Italy made a formal demand yesterday on the United States for the extradition of Porter Charlton, in jail in Jersey City, charged with the murder of his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, at Lake Como. The documents were received at the state department yesterday morning.

Immediately upon their receipt and without opening or examining them, the acting secretary of state referred them to the Italian embassy at Manchester-by-the-Sea, with instructions that they must be forwarded to the court now having jurisdiction over the prisoner. The papers had been sent to the department by the Italian charge d'affaires.

The secretary of state will pass on the case when the court has rendered its decision. The protest is the last reviewing officer and court of last resort. He signs the warrant in such cases, turning the prisoner over to the authorities making the demand for extradition.

The department will honor the request of the Italian government unless the court rules that Charlton was insane at the time he committed the crime, according to officials high in the administration. While it was admitted that Charlton may not go back, it was also said that only a verdict of insanity by the court could save him. It will probably be months before the matter is settled.

Now that it is decided that there is really no time limit in which a country can make a demand for extradition it is believed counsel for the defense, which includes Judge Phyll Charlton, the prisoner's father, will prolong the case.

That an attempt will be made to have the report of the five insanity experts who examined Charlton accepted by the court and have the court refuse the extradition on those grounds and then in turn order the prisoner confined in an insane asylum is the belief here. Judge Charlton refuses to comment on the action taken by Italy, but says he will see that his son receives every legal aid possible.

DROPPED DEAD

While on His Way to Give Evidence

CLAREMONT, N. H., Aug. 5.—Public spanking by parents took the place of a sentence to the industrial school given two boys in court here yesterday, charged with taking packages of opium from the store of Louis A. Riqui, a blind man.

The affair was not all comedy, for when Mr. Riqui was notified to appear at court to testify against the boys he started on the way from his grocery store at the lower village, got as far as the store occupied by Mr. Bartlett on Main street and dropped dead. It is reported that he was troubled by heart disease and it is thought that the excitement was too much for him.

Wednesday night the boys stole the tobacco went into the store and asked for a yeast cake, and when Mr. Riqui went for it downstairs they took the tobacco and slipped out. Mr. Riqui recognized their voices and had Officer Whitney hunt up the case.

Mr. Bean was a native of Bashford, Conn., and came to Claremont when 23 years of age, beginning life as a tin peddler. He married and had two children. He became blind 24 years ago and in 1880 he married Della Charon, having two children from this marriage. He then went to Windsor, Vt., starting a notion store; then to Charlestown in the same business. He bought a farm, but it was too difficult to work without his eyesight, so he came back to Claremont 16 years ago, starting the grocery store, where he made considerable money. He owned his own home and the store building.

"He was happy for he had often said: 'I never brood over the loss of my eyesight, but look at the many other blessings that God has given me, a loving wife and good children.'"

DRACUT

A well attended meeting of the Young Men's Republican club of Dracut was held Wednesday night at the Hose company's quarters in the Navy Yard. Ex-Secretary Fred A. Bassett was chosen president of the organization and William E. Livingston was elected secretary. The treasurer is Harold Lurvey of Dracut Centre.

Arthur W. Coburn, Warren B. Fox and Representative George H. Stevens were appointed a committee to bring in a set of by-laws.

Nearly all those present contributed remarks as to the work which the organization had before it and the sentiment was that the organization should be a permanent fixture for accomplishing the success of the party candidates in local as well as state and national elections.

The proposition that the club should hold an outing some time next month met with general favor.

Now is the time to take special care of the feet if you wish to avoid suffering from corns or callouses, or aching, burning, swollen, swollen feet the rest of the summer for the July and August months. Foot troubles that will stay all through the hot weather unless treated now with Eaz-all, the only mentholated foot tablet, hence its cooling power.

Nearly everybody wears larger shoes than necessary in hot weather, when the feet swell and puff. This can all be avoided and the appearance of the feet greatly improved by small shoes if the feet are given an Eaz-all bath regularly for a week. And the feet will be comfortable and free from stinging, burning and aching.

Get from your druggist the worth of Eaz-all (the only foot remedy sold under guarantee), and the first application will show its wonderful soothing, cooling and healing qualities.

Young Men's Christian Association Building

Sealed proposals will be received at the Young Men's Christian Association Building, Hurd street, Lowell, Mass., until 12 o'clock, noon, August 5th, 1910, for the erection of a four-story Young Men's Christian Association building in Lowell.

A LANDSLIDE

On the Erie Road Caused the Loss of Three Lives

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 5.—A landslide on the Erie railroad several miles west of here caused the wreck of an eastbound fast freight and the loss of three lives. The dead: JAMES J. BRADLEY, engineer, of Port Jervis; HOWARD E. TAYLOR, fireman, of Port Jervis; GEORGE CARPENTER, brakeman, of Jersey City.

The landslide is believed to have been caused by heavy rain which loosened the hillside and caused large quantities of rock to fall down and block the track. The freight hit the obstruction with a terrific impact and was badly wrecked, eight large refrigerator cars being thrown off the track. Wrecking crews were rushed to the scene to clear the road.

A STRANGE MAN REV. SR. URSULE

To Open Large Orphanage in Quebec

DENVER, Aug. 5.—A strange man who he says called at the church several times, ostensibly looking for a former janitor, may be responsible for the murder of 8-year-old Alma Kellner, of Louisville, was the statement made last night by Joseph Wendling, charged with the child's murder. Wendling made the statement while enroute to Kentucky from California in charge of detectives. Wendling reiterated that he fled from Louisville to escape from his brother-in-law.

"I was never alone at the church at any time," declared the former janitor of the Louisville Catholic church in which the girl was murdered. "Two or three times a strange man called at the church to see the former janitor who slept in the basement. Once I caught him down there. The priest knew who he was and he knows too that I was never alone in the church at any time."

TO WED MANICURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A romance between a wealthy chairman and a manicurist became known here yesterday when a license was taken out by Dr. Loren B. Johnson to marry Miss Cecilia Kennedy this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart. Miss Cecilia Kennedy, it is said, met Dr. Johnson while pursuing her professional duties.

INSURGENTS OF IOWA FOLLOW LEAD OF THEIR KANSAS BRETHREN

The first day of the Iowa republican convention was more of an evasion to the "insurgent" leaders Senators Cummins and Doolittle than to the administration. The regulars were beaten at nearly every point, and, like the situation in Kansas, where Senator Bristow and Representative Murdock made substantial gains, it seems that the progressives will win the majority of the nominations.

TROLLEY FIRE FINGER PRINTS

Was Started by an Automobile

Led to Capture of Alleged Thief

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Broadway and 34th street saw a 20 minute display of pyrotechnics last night that caused a block at that point.

A few minutes after 10 o'clock an automobile crossing the car tracks of the Broadway line pulled a chain from the rear tire of the machine. The chain wound itself about the hub of the wheel, and a piece of it dropped into the slot through which the feed wire runs. The chain wedged in the slot, held the auto where it was and the contact with the feed wire started the electrical display.

The auto blocked the southbound tracks and the cars came to a halt. In a short time the block extended to 42d street.

There was a constant display of fireworks as the auto remained anchored. When it was found that nothing about the machine was being damaged and in some manner, the electric current was in no danger of setting it afire, an effort was made to break the connection by putting power on the machine.

The chain held, however. With the gathering of the crowd came the usual number of persons with suggestions as to the best thing to do. Some suggested attaching another auto to the one that was anchored and trying to move it. This idea did not appeal to the owners of other machines brought to a stop.

In the meantime word had been sent for the wrecking wagon, and it was reported on the way. While waiting for it a conductor on one of the long line of stalled cars examined the position of the chain, and with an insulated instrument resembling a clamp knife worked at the place where it was wedged a minute and freed the chain. The machine then went on its way.

REFUSED SALARY INCREASE

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 5.—W. Scott Eames, New Haven's director of public works, has established a precedent in public official life by refusing to accept an increase in his salary.

Mr. Eames was appointed director of public works last January at a salary of $2500 a year. Last night a special committee of the board of aldermen voted to recommend an increase of $500 a year in his salary.

When Mr. Eames heard of the recommendation he said: "I knew what the salary and the duties of the director of public works were when I accepted the position. I appreciate the action of the committee in recommending an increase in my salary, but I neither wish nor would I accept any increase in salary."

There are other public officials whose salaries should be increased, he said. The duties of the director of public works are increasing, and the time will come when the salary should be increased. But I am not in favor of it at present."

FIVE WERE KILLED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 5.—A west-bound passenger train on Spokane, Portland & Seattle railroad yesterday crashed into three handcars loaded with Hungarian workmen on a bridge over a canyon east of Snake river. Five of the Hungarians were killed, falling to the ground 200 feet below the bridge. A number of others were injured.

A NEW SKIN REMEDY

That Stops Itching At Once

A peculiar feature of Cadum, the new medical preparation for all skin diseases, is that, when applied, it stops the itching at once and the healing process begins immediately. It also excludes the air, as well as germs and microbes, from the affected parts. This, together with its soothing, healing properties, makes Cadum wonderfully effective in curing Eczema, Salt Rheum, and Itchiness, Itch, Psoriasis, Ringworm, Scaly Skin, Rash, Acne, Herpes, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Blisters, Blackheads. Trial boxes at all druggists 10c; large boxes 25c.

GOT A DIPLOMA

Student Then Beat the College Dean

SYRACUSE, Aug. 5.—Herbert W. Faus, commodore of the Syracuse (1909) crew, yesterday assaulted Dean Sheppard, of the Layman C. Smith college of Applied Science at Syracuse university, and then attacked Professor Paul C. Nugent, at the latter's home. Faus, who is prominent socially on University hill, was not graduated last June as a civil engineer. He was behind in two subjects owing to his athletic and social activities. He has since made up the work under Professor W. P. Graham. When he called on Professor Nugent for a certificate for his diploma it was refused, although Professor Nugent admitted the work was made up, until Professor Graham should telegraph from Canada.

Yesterday afternoon Faus, who comes from Elmburg, Pa., walked into the dean's office for the sheepskin. As it was handed to him he remarked to the dean: "If you want to see what I think of your instruction and the diploma, I will show you." He then touched a match to the diploma and started to light a cigar with it. "Don't try that, young man, or there will be trouble," said Dean Sheppard. "Take off your glasses if that is what you mean," shouted Faus to the dean. Dean Sheppard then struck Faus on the nose, drawing blood with a ring on his finger. Then the dean got a severe beating at the hands of Faus. Dean Sheppard called on men in the office for assistance, but none was offered him. Faus dared him to summon the police. Leaving the college, Faus went to the home of Professor Nugent and administered a severe beating to him also. News of the battle in the dean's office and at Professor Nugent's created a sensation in the University hill section.

At police headquarters last night it was said no report had been made of the occurrence, and that no warrant had been requested.

STREET PAVING QUESTION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 5.—St. John now has a vigorous controversy over the question of street paving. The inspector, who was looking after the city's interests, has resigned, declaring that material is being used for foundation work that is 50 per cent cheaper than that called for by the specifications. The city engineer contends that the material is all right. The press has been demanding an investigation, but thus far the city council has planned its faith to the engineer and refuses to take any action.

MILLS TO CLOSE

LAWRENCE, Aug. 5.—Notice was posted in the Everett mill today announcing a shutdown from Friday, Aug. 18, to Tuesday morning, Sept. 6.

Well Known Boston Salesman Found Dead in His Home

MEDFORD, Aug. 5.—With friends close by yet ignorant that their help could save a life, Edward M. Pearce, a well known Boston salesman, died in his own home as much alone as if on a desert island, and for several days the fact of his death was unknown. Meanwhile his family in ignorance of the plight of the husband and father have been enjoying themselves at some summer place in Maine and as yet the Medford police have been unable to learn their whereabouts to convey the sad news to them.

The body of the unfortunate man was found stretched upon the kitchen floor of his home last night by the police, who had been called in by a fellow employee of Pearce, who had been sent from Boston to learn the cause of his absence from work. From all appearances the man had died in agony, for his head was bent almost at right angles with the body and against the sheathing above the floor, as if he had suffered a fall when taken violently ill and had been unable to move. His face was discolored, indicating that he had probably strangled to death unable to rise.

The Pearce family left the unfortunate man in good health some time ago and left for some Maine summer resort as has been their custom. Mr. Pearce was employed as a salesman by Sheave, Crump & Low, jewelers, at 147 Tremont street, Boston. Monday, feeling in ill health, he left his place of work and went home. From that time he had not been seen nor heard from. Fellow employees, knowing that his family were away and fearing that he was seriously ill, sent one of their number to his home last night. Upon arriving at the house the investigator found that the windows were up and that to all appearances some one was inside. There was no response to the ringing of the door bell nor to the pounding of the door, and as inquiry of neighbors revealed that he had not been seen the police were notified.

A patrolman was detailed to investigate and was horrified to find the body of Mr. Pearce lying as described. Medical Examiner Durrell was notified and viewed the body. He gave the opinion that the man met his death by strangulation after falling on the floor when taken suddenly ill.

SENATOR DICK

Does the Uniform to Quell Riots

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—The striking car men and the managers of the trolley company having practically agreed to submit their differences to the state board of arbitration, the city zen soldiers to the number of 1500 have been withdrawn, leaving about that many more yet in the city. When the militia was first called out United States Senator Charles Dick donned his uniform as major general and took command of the troops, much to the surprise of Governor Harmon. As soon as Senator Dick and his soldiers appeared on the Columbus streets the rioters dispersed and quiet reigned.

Steeple Broken Off

The steeple of the First Baptist church was also injured, being partly broken off at its base and left in a leaning and precarious position. The St. Mary's society also suffered some damage, the fence about the parish house being torn from its fastenings and scattered over the neighborhood.

On Oak street several chimneys were blown down, the bricks flying in every direction and in some instances crushing through windows where persons escaped injury by the merest chance. At the residence of former City Marshal James T. O'Sullivan, at the corner of Jackson and Haverhill streets, a large tree was blown over and through the parlor window, wrecking the room.

An eight-story block at the corner of Elm and Short streets was unroofed, and the roof was found after the storm wrecked in the street 50 yards distant. A skylight was also blown from a house in that neighborhood and was picked up two blocks away.

The majority of the damage was on Valley, Amesbury, Haverhill, Haverhill, Oak, Elm, Jackson, Short, Summer, Newbury and Pleasant streets.

DAMAGE TO CROPS

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 5.—Western Massachusetts was swept by a series of severe thunder storms yesterday which resulted in serious damage to crops, the burning of several buildings and the shutting off of many of the cities and towns from communication with the outside world for several hours. The rain was exceedingly heavy, and much of the damage was due to this. In North Adams the clouds hung so low that the city became as dark as night by 4 o'clock and shopkeepers and families were obliged to light up to see their way about.

The most serious fire reported was at Suffield, Ct., just across the state line, where a house and two large barns, owned by William J. Wright, were fired by lightning and burned to the ground. Mr. Wright carried not one cent of insurance to cover his loss of upward of $6000. In the town of Northampton a barn belonging to Thomas Alcorn was burned to the ground, and several minor fires were reported in other sections.

GROOM MISSING GAMBLING LOSS SHELTER HOUSES

And the Wedding Was Called Off

BROCKTON, Aug. 5.—George A. Tibbetts took out a marriage license at the office of the city clerk July 28, to be married to Miss Elizabeth M. Dalzell, and it was announced that the wedding would take place yesterday afternoon at 5 in St. Edward's church. Yesterday Miss Dalzell said that the marriage would not take place.

She said: "There is nothing more to say, other than I am not to be married to Mr. Tibbetts today."

At his place of business, it was said that Tibbetts had worked there until Tuesday night and that then he had left without saying a word.

Miss Dalzell was greatly disturbed at the turn of events. When told that it was reported by Tibbetts' employer that he had left his work there and presumably gone away she said:

"He has not disappeared. He is a gentleman. A great deal of what is being said about him is not true. I do not want to say anything, except that there is to be no marriage this afternoon, and I do not mean that much shall be said."

"Where is he?" "That's my business. As I said I'm satisfied that he is a gentleman."

According to the stories told, Tibbetts had been attentive to Miss Truvelo Haynes, who said: "He certainly thought that he was engaged to me, but he was not. He probably did take out the license to be married, but that is as far as it went."

Miss Mildred Cousins is also stated to have been attracted to Tibbetts. "Tibbetts had been coming about a month when I began to hear reports about him which I did not like. Finally I refused him permission to come to the house."

"A number of times after that he came, and I sent him out each time. I have not seen him at the house for three months, and I do not think that my daughter has seen him. I do not think that they are married, as has been said. But I could not swear that they are not."

Wife Sues to Recover $40,000

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—A suit to recover $40,000, alleged to have been lost at gambling at a club in Watertown by James V. Dignowity, wealthy broker and former Brookline resident, has been brought by his wife, Mrs. Marion Dignowity, who recently brought divorce proceedings against her husband.

In the suit the defendants are the Frank J. McPeake company, with Frank J. McPeake of Watertown and James P. McPeake as individuals.

Through their attorney, James H. Vane, they have filed an answer denying that the money was lost to them.

"They declare that Dignowity never lost money through gambling to the company, nor lost it in any establishment conducted by them, and assert that Mrs. Dignowity, on the ground of her charge that her husband had lost large sums at the club, had for some time been trying to collect money from the company."

James V. Dignowity was known as the "richest man at Harvard" when he attended college. He eloped with Miss Marion St. Clair Whittemore of Chestnut Hill, who is now suing him for divorce. When he first became acquainted with Miss Whittemore she was attending Wellesley college. She was graduated in June, 1906, and shortly afterward the two eloped. They later obtained forgiveness of the young husband's rich father, James V. Dignowity, Sr., of Philadelphia. This pardon to the suit will not discuss the action.

CAR DERAILLED

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—An Orient Heights tunnel-bound car became derailed at the corner of Meridian and London streets, East Boston, about 9:30 last night. There was a delay for about one hour before traffic was restored to normal conditions.

Repairs are being made on Meridian street, necessitating the use of one track between London and Paris streets. The car jumped the track at one of the switches and both tracks were blocked. Hundreds of persons were affected by the tieup.

Committee Met and Discussed Them

The committee on comfort stations met last night and discussed the proposition for a station in Merrimack square. Ald. Byam and Councilman Gargan were appointed a special committee to confer with Supt. Thomas Lees, of the Boston & Northern, relative to the location of a place. They will meet him this evening at 8 o'clock.

Chairman Chapman said he had been over the plans for the shelter houses proposed for the North and South commons with Inspector Dow of the lands and buildings department. He said the plans had been secured from St. Louis, where the shelter houses have been built at a cost of $4000 each. It is proposed to have six shower baths and four closets in each shelter house, and to have a swimming tank in them during the summer. This tank can be converted into a gymnasium, by means of a false floor, in the winter time. In order to install swimming pools in the shelter houses it will be necessary to change the St. Louis plans somewhat. The swimming pools would be 48 feet in length and 26 feet in width, with a depth in the center of six feet. The members of the committee will visit the shelter house in Brookline on Thursday of next week, and will also look over the public sanitary in Boston common on the same day. The committee will meet next Friday night.

CINCINNATI'S POPULATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Cincinnati, O., has a population of 364,403, according to the figures enumerated for the 13th census and made public yesterday by Census Director Durand. This is an increase of 35,561, or 11.8 per cent, as compared with 328,842, the population in 1900.

Other population figures made public yesterday were: Bloomington, Ind., 8328, as compared with 8160 in 1900; Bonham, Tex., 4844, as compared with 5042 in 1900; Hamden, Conn., 5650, as compared with 5226 in 1900.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Heavy earthquake shocks were recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown university last night lasting for a period of forty-seven minutes. The shocks began at 8:46 p. m. and continued until 9:33. They consisted of two maximum shocks and a series of lesser disturbances.

Indications were that the center of the disturbance was about 2000 miles from Washington.

ADS HAIR REVIVER

Has a tendency to give gloss, brilliancy, beauty and life to dry, harsh, brittle, unsightly hair. It cleanses the scalp, does away with dandruff, imparts healthy action of the blood to the roots and stimulates growth of the hair.

Men who want to protect their hair, and women who would add to their attractiveness, should try this preparation, which is absolutely safe and harmless, and one of the best made by the great American Druggists Syndicate of 12,000 reputable druggists. Get it at any A. D. S. drug store, where you see this sign in the window.

DEFENDS WOMAN

Artist Takes Sides With Qualey and Corbett

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—William Funk, a well known artist, of 119 West 42d street, last night went to the defence of John A. Qualey and Prof. Harvey Wiley Corbett, who are accused by the widow of Dr. W. T. Bull of swindling her out of $35,000 through an investment.

Mr. Funk also spoke in warm defence of Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, who interested herself in the Magnesia-Asbestos company through her friendship for Qualey and his wife, and who, Mr. Bull says, is primarily responsible for her having invested in the company, inasmuch as it was she who introduced the physician's widow to the promoter.

Mr. Funk, who said he is a friend of all parties concerned, including Mrs. Bull, said last night:

"I have as much money in the Magnesia-Asbestos company as Mrs. Bull has, and I am willing to put in more. My friends also have money in the enterprise and Mrs. Bull is the only one I know who is dissatisfied. The trouble is Mrs. Bull expected dividends within a couple of weeks and when she didn't get them she demanded her money back."

"My money and that of my friends have been in the enterprise for two years. Only two weeks ago I went to Newark and inspected the plant of the company and I was more than pleased. When I came back I called up Qualey and told him I would have more money to invest in the company by October."

When asked what Mrs. Hopkins' connection with the Qualey company was, Mr. Funk said that she became financially interested after he and Corbett had had a chemist report on Qualey's claim that he could produce a fine building material from dolomite stone at a remarkably low cost. He denied that Mrs. Hopkins ever used her influence to get others to invest.

Mr. Funk was indignant when shown

the report that some years ago Mrs. Hopkins had promised to aid a young woman to make the acquaintance of prominent persons on condition that she have Mr. Funk paint her portrait and that it cost her $8000.

"The story is ridiculous," said Mr. Funk. "In the first place I was only a struggling young artist then, and who ever gave a beginner $8000 for a painting? Mrs. Hopkins and I have been friends for about 15 years. She took an interest in me, as she has in many other young men and women who showed talent in any line. She has introduced me to many people, some of whom I may have painted, and I have introduced her to my friends."

"I regard Mrs. Hopkins as the most wonderful woman I ever saw. It is an outrage to insinuate that she boosted an enterprise that was not exactly right. I have a cablegram from her saying that she will return from Europe on the first ship."

"To show you the sort of woman Mrs. Hopkins is, it was she who founded the school of applied design for women, which occupies a beautiful home at 30th street and Lexington avenue, and which has 500 pupils. Such men as Elihu Root have served as president, and men like J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie have donated money to the school."

Two years ago Mr. Funk painted a portrait of Mrs. Hopkins, which he has exhibited several times. The portrait shows that despite her grayish tinged hair Mrs. Hopkins still retains a youthful face and much of the beauty that made her one of the most admired women in New York.

BULL WILL IN EVIDENCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary Novins Bull, widow of the eminent surgeon, Dr. W. T. Bull, spent an uncomfortable two hours on the witness stand in a small examination room of Maricopa police court yesterday afternoon while John P. McIntyre, counsel for John A. Qualey and Prof. H. W. Corbett, sought to break down her assertion that the two prisoners had swindled her out of $35,000 in a stock scheme.

That on one occasion she had sent Qualey a copy of her husband's will was the most interesting development of the examination.

As Mr. McIntyre produced the copy Mrs. Bull cried angrily:

"Do you mean to say that you kept that will?"

"Most assuredly, I did, madam," replied Mr. McIntyre.

Mrs. Bull was on her feet, her veil raised, her eyes blazing.

"Then you are more than I thought you were," she retorted quickly. The lawyer bowed and the magistrate rapped for order.

Mrs. Bull threw the copy back at Mr. McIntyre and he put it in evidence. Its connection with the case did not develop.

Mrs. Bull will be recalled on Monday.

100 YEARS OLD

Milford Man Celebrates His Anniversary

MILFORD, N. H., Aug. 5.—James Frost celebrated his 100th birthday yesterday at the home of his son, James Frost, Jr., upon their farm about three miles from here. Four generations of his family gathered about him and brought gifts.

The venerable gentleman entered into the spirit of the occasion, and moved about with the alacrity of a young man. The day was a joyous one to him, but he did not omit his everyday exercise with the buxaw, which he loves to do, as he says "it keeps one's courage up."

Mr. Frost was born in Lubec, Me. He loved the sea, and his father dying when he was quite young, he early shipped before the mast. For more than 70 years he sailed and had many narrow escapes. He became an expert seaman and was one of the best sailmakers of his time.

For 50 years he has used tobacco, and he has never had to quit upon a physician's advice, and that was for a broken leg. He went through a stage of yellow fever once in the Indies and he doctor himself. He has used liquor in moderation.

Mr. Frost has become totally blind within the past few years, but it has not dampened his spirits. He can find his way easily around the little farm, and in the house and requires little attendance.

He greeted all callers yesterday heartily and declared he "felt as young as he used to be."

A check for a box which he had left at the North station was also taken from his pocket. Murphy went to the station with the check and took out the bag. When questioned by policeman, who had waited at the station for some one to turn up with the check, Murphy said a man had given him 30 cents to get the bag.

Murphy tried to slip off his coat and escape from the policeman, but the attempt was unsuccessful. The records show that in 1907 he was arrested for breaking and entering and put on probation.

James White, 24 years old, who said he has no home, was held in $2000 for the superior court by Judge Duff in the municipal court yesterday, on a robbery charge.

William Flemming, 27, testified that he was walking on South Main street the previous evening when White knocked him down and grabbed his watch. John E. Ippolito testified that he chased White, and the latter struck him a blow in the eye. Patrolman Alexander caught White and recovered the watch.

He groveled all callers yesterday heartily and declared he "felt as young as he used to be."

Man Charged With Assault and Robbery

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—Charged with assaulting and robbing William G. Locke of Oxford, Me., who is visiting Boston, and with attempted larceny at the North station, Charles M. Murphy, 26 years old, of Piedmont street, was held in $2000 on the former charge and in $1000 on the latter by Judge Duff in the municipal court yesterday. He was remanded to Charles street jail.

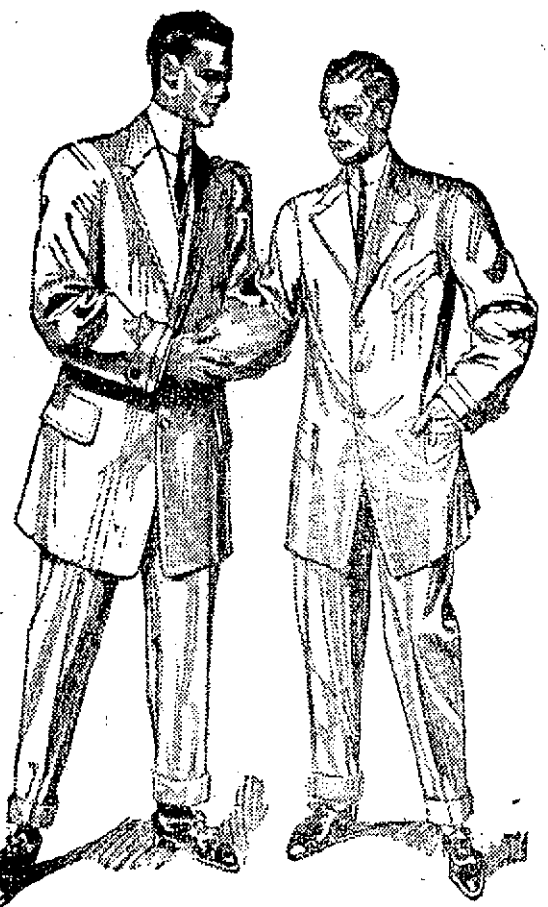

Mr. Locke, who is a middle-aged man, testified that Tuesday night while on Atlantic avenue he was held up and beaten and robbed of his watch, a ring and $20 in money.

Gets After the Police Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Mayor Gaynor's sudden descent Wednesday on the night court here for fruit yesterday in another characteristic denunciation of police stupidity, equality and brutality. In part, he said:

"Two-thirds of those brought in Wednesday night were stupidly and needlessly arrested, and one or two of them corruptly to extort money, and I understand that proportion is the rule."

"One policeman brought in a boy who threw a rubber ball on the street. Another brought in a boy who danced on a building platform. Another brought in two men who had been quarrelling. Their dispute was perfectly harmless. It was only necessary to stop them and tell them to go along. A London policeman would have hardly noticed them."

"Another brought in a man for disturbing in a hall with his sister-in-law. When the man took his number the officer arrested him."

"One officer arrested a cook for stealing a cold chicken. Someone said he stole it. That an officer may not arrest without a warrant for such a crime unless he saw it committed seemed never to have entered his head. He looked too stupid to understand it. There was no evidence of the larceny."

THEIR SERVICES

DOCTORS WILL GIVE THEM FREE AT THE PLAYGROUNDS

The following physicians have volunteered to give their attendance on one day of each week to the playground children: On the North common, Dr. E. R. Brady; South common, Dr. H. C. Stewart; Allen street, Dr. George O. Lavallee. Mr. Wilton, the head supervisor, has a plan under consideration for a physicians' conference with the mothers on each playground once each week. It is also hoped to give talks to the boys on subjects relating to personal hygiene.

Medical inspection for the children is one of the problems that the playground supervisors have been called upon to meet and now that the doctors have volunteered their services the problem is solved.
